EDUCATIONAL NOTICES.

Gilchrist Scholarships.

AMENDED RULES FOR THE SCHOLARSHIPS INSTITUTED BY THE GILCHRIST EDUCATIONAL TRUST.

These Rules will take effect at and from the Examination to be held in January 1884.

ONE scholarship, of the value of £150 per annum, and tenable for four years, to be extended to 5 years if the scholar should prove himself worthy, will be annually awarded to candidates born in India, who shall become eligible by competitive examination, and shall be desirous of prosecuting a course of Academical Study in Great Britain with a view to graduation in one of the Faculties of Arts, Science, Law or Medicine in the University of London, under the following conditions:—

1.—Of the parents of each candidate, one at least shall belong to one of the Native Races.

2.—Every candidate must furnish proof satisfactory to the local authorities that he has completed his sixteenth year, and that his age does not exceed 22 years.

3.—Every candidate must furnish proof satisfactory to the local authorities that in regard to personal character and social position he is qualified to be admitted to competition for a scholarship.

4.—Every candidate is required by the Regulations of the University to pay a Matriculation Fee of £2.

5.—Candidates approved by the Local Authorities shall present themselves at the January Matriculation Examination of the University of London, which will be held simultaneously under the direction of Government Sub-Examiners, at the three Presidential Capitals, commencing on the second Monday in January. Those who pass the Examination will thereby become Members of the London University; and having once passed, they cannot again present themselves for Matriculation; and consequently such of them as pass on one occasion without gaining a scholarship, cannot compete for one again at any future Matriculation Examination.

6.—The answers of the candidates, approved as aforesaid, will be forwarded through the India Office to the Registrar of the University, who will cause them to be reviewed by the Examiners, and who will forward their report to the India Office for transmission to the Local Authorities in the Presidential Capitals, to be by them announced to the candidates.

7.—The scholarship shall be awarded to the candidate whose aggregate of marks stands highest; provided that he passes either in the Honours or in the First Division.* Such candidate shall have his choice whether he will pursue his curriculum of study in the University of Edinburgh or in the University College, London.

8.—The successful candidate will be provided by the Government of India with free passage to England, and will be expected to arrive in London, and to present himself to the Secretary of the Gilchrist Trust, not later than the first week in the October following his appointment.

* The full marks obtainable at the matriculation examination are 2,800. Of these, 1,800 qualifies for Honours and 1,400 for the First Division.

The following note was inserted in the Rules by direction of the Gilchrist Trustees in 1881, at which time the value of the scholarships was £100 a year only:—

Every scholar in order to take full advantage of the opportunities afforded him by the scholarship ought to have at least £50 per annum in addition from private means, and an allowance of £25 per annum is absolutely indispensable.

9.—The scholarship shall be considered as commencing from the 1st of July following the award of the Examiners; and will be paid in quarterly instalments, on the first days of October, January, April, and July.

10.—The scholar shall attend in every Session at least three Courses of Lectures at the institution in which he studies; and shall transmit to the Secretary to the Gilchrist Trust, at the conclusion of each Session, a certificate from each of the Professors whose lectures he has attended, stating that his diligence and conduct have been satisfactory. Should he not be able to produce such a certificate, or should he be proved guilty of discreditable conduct elsewhere, he shall be considered to have forfeited his claim to the remaining instalments of his scholarship.

11.—The scholar shall be expected to present himself at the first examination in one of the Faculties of Arts, Science, Law, or Medicine in the University of London before the termination of the second Academical year* from the commencement of his scholarship, unless excused from doing so by the Trustees; and if he do not so present himself (unless by permission of the Trustees), or if he fail to pass, he shall be considered as forfeiting his claim to the remaining instalments of his scholarship. After having passed the first Examination, he will be expected to pursue his studies, with the view of presenting at the Second Examination, within two (Academical) years.

12.—A grant of £50 will be made by the Trustees for the Return-passage of the scholar who shall succeed in obtaining his Degree in the University of London. If he fails to obtain his Degree, a Return passage will be provided by the Government of India.

13.—The foregoing scheme shall be subject to revision from time to time; the Trustees reserving to themselves the power of altering the conditions of the scholarship, or of altogether withdrawing it, if they deem it expedient to do either. But no change will be made in such a manner as to affect the interests of candidates already appointed to scholarships, or in any case without twelve months' notice.

LIBERALITY OF SYUD ABDUS SUBHAN CHAUDHURI.

No. 589, dated Calcutta, the 29th December 1882.

From—C. S. BAYLEY, Esq., Officiating Under-Secretary to the Government of Bengal,

To—The Commissioner of the Rajshahye and Cooch Behar Division.

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 297Met, dated the 9th November 1882, with enclosures, regarding the offer made by Syud Abdus Subhan Chaudhuri, of Bogra, to invest the sum of Rs. 6,000 in Government securities, in order to found certain scholarships and rewards in commemoration of the Lieutenant-Governor's visit to Bogra.

2. It is proposed that two scholarships, of the value of Rs. 8 a month each, should be awarded every alternate year to the boy who stands highest at the Entrance examination from the Bogra zilla school, but fails to win a Government scholarship. The scholarships will be tenable for two years at some institution affiliated to the Calcutta University, and will be designated respectively "The Zubedatu-n-nissa Scholarship" and "The Latifu-n-nissa Scholarship." Three prizes of Rs. 20, 16, and 12 respectively, designated "The Thompson Prizes," will be given annually to the three girls who most creditably pass an examination to be held at Bogra under the rules framed by the District Committee of Public Instruction; and two medals, of the value of Rs. 48 each, called "The Thompson Medals," will be presented (one in 1883 and the other in 1884) to the Mahomedan candidate who stands first at the B.A. examination of each of the two years.

3. The Lieutenant-Governor has much pleasure in accepting the offer, and desires that an expression of his cordial thanks may be conveyed to Syud Abdus Subhan Chaudhuri for his liberality. The money assigned for the scholarships and prizes should be invested in Government securities, which, under section 1, chapter II of the Civil Account Code, should be endorsed to the Comptroller-General.

4. The correspondence on this subject will be published in the next issue of the Calcutta Gazette.

No. 297Mct., dated Camp Rungpore, the 9th November 1882.

From—LORD H. ULICK BROWNE, Commissioner of the Rajshahye and Cooch Behar Division,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Political Department.

I HAVE the honour to enclose a copy of a letter dated 12th September 1882, from Syud Abdus Subhan Chaudhuri, of Bogra, requesting permission to found scholarships and prizes in commemoration of the Lieutenant-Governor's visit to Bogra, and offering to lodge Rs. 6,000 of Government 4 per cents for the purpose.

2. For the better comprehension of the Syud's scheme, I enclose a statement showing the distribution of the interest on the Rs. 6,000 of Government securities in scholarships and prizes during the first five years, which has been obtained from the Syud by the Magistrate at my request, as also a sketch in further illustration of the scheme.

3. I recommend that the Syud's offer be accepted, and the correspondence published in the Calcutta Gazette.

Dated Bogra, the 12th September 1882.

From—SYUD ABDUS SUBHAN, Zemindar,

To—The Magistrate of Bogra.

I BEG most respectfully to request the favour of your forwarding this letter through the Commissioner of the Division to Government for their favourable consideration and orders.

The town of Bogra was never before visited by any Lieutenant-Governor or Governor. It is therefore a matter of great pleasure to us all that our present Lieutenant-Governor has come to visit Bogra at so much personal inconvenience to himself so soon after his accession to office. With a view to give a suitable expression to the joy I felt on this occasion, I propose to place at the disposal of Government Rs. 6,000 for being invested in 4 per cent. Government security for the purpose of founding scholarships and prizes as detailed below:—

1. Two scholarships of the monthly value of Rs. 8 each, tenable for two years, at some institution affiliated to the Calcutta University, to be given every other year to the highest boy among those students of the Bogra zilla school who successfully pass the Calcutta University Entrance Examination, but fail to win a Government scholarship. One of these scholarships to be called after the name of Syudani Zabedatu-n-nissa, the deceased sister of my wife Tahura-n-nissa. "The Zabedatu-n-nissa Scholarship," and the other, "The Latifu-n-nissa Scholarship," in memory of my wife's late grandmother Latifu-n-nissa Bibi.

2. Three prizes of the value of Rs. 20, 16, and 12 respectively, to be called after the name of our present Lieutenant-Governor "The Thompson prizes," to be given annually to the three girls who stand highest at an examination to be held annually at Bogra under the rules framed by the District School Committee for the purpose.

As the Latifu-n-nissa Scholarship is not to be awarded till one year after the institution of the Zabedatu-n-nissa Scholarship, I propose that the saving thus effected be laid out in granting medals to be called "The Thompson medals" to the Mahomedan candidate who stands highest in the B. A. examination of 1883-84.

If in any year there be no eligible candidate for the scholarships proposed above, I propose that the amount of the scholarship be given away at the direction of the Committee in prizes or scholarships to be called "The Thompson prizes or scholarships" to the pupils of primary and vernacular schools in this district, who successfully pass the primary and vernacular scholarships, but fail to win any Government scholarship.

In conclusion, I beg to say that I will place the sum of Rs. 6,000 as soon as this humble offer of mine is accepted by Government.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The direction of the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

* The falling off in the tollage as compared with the corresponding period of last year is due to the linseed market in Calcutta being very slack, and also in consequence of a failure in the til crop this year.

C. W. ODLING,
Asst. Secy. to the Government of Bengal,
P. W. Dept.

CALCUTTA,
The 29th December 1882.

Report of fluctuation of traffic on the Tirhoot State Railway for the month of November 1882.

THE total quantity of goods carried during the month of November 1882 aggregated maunds 3,35,137 as compared with maunds 2,27,318 carried during the corresponding period of 1881, and maunds 2,64,815 carried during the previous month, showing an increase of maunds 1,07,819 and maunds 70,322 respectively.

Of the several increases and decreases, the following are the most prominent ones and worthy of special notice :—

INCREASE.

Food-grains ... ... Mds. 18,765

This increase is due to a continued demand for local requirements.

Gunny-bags ... ... Mds. 1,087

The traffic under this head fluctuates with the trade in bagged staples, but the present low price of gunnies in the Calcutta market has no doubt something to do with the increased weight carried.

Hides ... ... Mds. 1,118

A brisk demand at the port has stimulated collection and despatches from this district.

Iron ... ... Mds. 2,737

Previous month's remarks regarding this traffic apply here.

Piece-goods ... ... Mds. 11,797

A reference to the statement given below will show that nearly double the weight has been carried under this head during the month under review as compared with the corresponding month of last year. The short despatches of previous month will partly account for the increase now shewn.

Railway materials ... ... Mds. 43,620

The extensions are rapidly nearing completion, and material for the purpose is being rapidly pushed forward

Seeds ... ... Mds. 52,534

Despatchers are anxious to take advantage of the present favourable market, and are consequently pushing this staple down as quickly as possible.

Tobacco ... ... Mds. 3,414

The crop of tobacco in this district is about the average both in quality and quantity, and a much heavier traffic under this head may be looked for this season.

DECREASE.

Indigo ... ... Mds. 5,404

The despatches under this head appear to be late this year, especially from the Western districts. The decrease will most probably be followed by a corresponding increase later on.

Lime and kunker ... ... Mds. 2,434

A decrease under this head must be anticipated, as the contractors have fulfilled their contract with the Engineering Departments of Durbhanga sub-division.

Salt ... ... Mds. 16,356

This heavy falling off is mainly due to the advance in price in the Calcutta market. This decrease will probably be met by an increase, when the stocks in the district run short.

Statement showing Increases and Decreases in Maundage of principal Staples carried over the Line during the month of November 1882 as compared with the corresponding period of 1881.

G. M. DRURY, Traffic Superintendent.

Report of Fluctuation of Traffic on the Patna-Gya State Railway for the month of November 1882.

THE total quantity of goods carried during the month of November 1882 aggregated maunds 1,09,794 as compared with maunds 1,59,759 carried during the corresponding period of 1881, and maunds 1,02,407 carried during the previous month, showing a decrease of maunds 49,965 in one case, and an increase of maunds 7,387 in the other.

Of the several increases and decreases, the following are the most prominent ones, and worthy of special notice :—

INCREASE.

Coal ... ... Mds. 6,327

As anticipated in last month's report, the traffic in this staple has improved.

Gunny-bags, empty ... ... Mds. 1,104

Despatches of food-grains and seeds are no doubt taking advantage of the present favourable rates for bags in Calcutta to lay in a stock for future use.

Piece-goods ... ... Mds. 1,765

A brisk trade for all descriptions of Manchester goods has sprung up in the district in consequence of cold weather requirements.

Stones and stone-ballast ... ... Mds. 13,062

This increase was explained in last month's report.

Decrease.

Food-grains ... ... Mds. 9,061

Rice is the principal staple exported from this district, and the abundant crops all over the country, and the enormous stock held in Calcutt, has caused quite a stagnation in this traffic.

Jaggree ... ... Mds. 35,213

From enquiries made on the spot, it was ascertained that this very serious decrease is caused by the season being an unusually late one, and that the manufacture is really not in full swing yet.

Salt ... ... Mds. 14,770

The very large quantity imported over the average last month is probably the cause of this decrease.

Seeds ... ... Mds. 2,461

The market is unfavourable to despatchers, and they are holding off in the hope of getting better prices.

NOTIFICATION.

The 30th December 1882.—The Lieutenant-Governor hereby sanctions the plan specified below for lighting the Bishop's College Road with gas, which has been submitted by the Commissioners for the town of Howrah and notified in the Calcutta Gazette of the 25th October last, and to which no objection has been raised since its publication in the town in the vernacular:—

1. The portion of the town to which it is proposed to extend the lighting is the Bishop's College Road. The total length of the road is 3,060 feet, and the number of lamps proposed to be erected is 15.

2. The total valuation of buildings and lands situated in the road is Rs. 28,533, and a rate of 3 per cent. would yield a net income, after making allowance for vacancies and collection charges, of Rs. 786 per annum, which gives an average of Rs. 52-6 per lamp, for defraying the cost of lighting. An arrangement has been made with the Gas Company by which they have agreed to accept that sum for the present in payment for supplying gas.

3. The cost of purchasing and erecting the lamps is estimated at Rs. 825, and this sum the Commissioners propose to provide for, in their budget for the ensuing year, from the general funds.

Gilchrist Scholarships.

AMENDED RULES FOR THE SCHOLARSHIPS INSTITUTED BY THE GILCHRIST EDUCATIONAL TRUST.

These Rules will take effect at and from the Examination to be held in January 1884.

ONE scholarship, of the value of £150 per annum, and tenable for four years, to be extended to 5 years if the scholar should prove himself worthy, will be annually awarded to candidates born in India, who shall become eligible by competitive examination, and shall be desirous of prosecuting a course of Academical Study in Great Britain with a view to graduation in one of the Faculties of Arts, Science, Law or Medicine in the University of London, under the following conditions:—

1.—Of the parents of each candidate, one at least shall belong to one of the Native Races.

2.—Every candidate must furnish proof satisfactory to the local authorities that he has completed his sixteenth year, and that his age does not exceed 22 years.

3.—Every candidate must furnish proof satisfactory to the local authorities that in regard to personal character and social position he is qualified to be admitted to competition for a scholarship.

4.—Every candidate is required by the Regulations of the University to pay a Matriculation Fee of £2.

5.—Candidates approved by the Local Authorities shall present themselves at the January Matriculation Examination of the University of London, which will be held simultaneously under the direction of Government Sub-Examiners, at the three Presidential Capitals, commencing on the second Monday in January. Those who pass the Examination will thereby become Members of the London University; and having once passed, they cannot again present themselves for Matriculation; and consequently such of them as pass on one occasion without gaining a scholarship, cannot compete for one again at any future Matriculation Examination.

6.—The answers of the candidates, approved as aforesaid, will be forwarded through the India Office to the Registrar of the University, who will cause them to be reviewed by the Examiners, and who will forward their report to the India Office for transmission to the Local Authorities in the Presidential Capitals, to be by them announced to the candidates.

7.—The scholarship shall be awarded to the candidate whose aggregate of marks stands highest; provided that he passes either in the Honours or in the First Division.* Such candidate shall have his choice whether he will pursue his curriculum of study in the University of Edinburgh or in the University College, London.

8.—The successful candidate will be provided by the Government of India with free passage to England, and will be expected to arrive in London, and to present himself to the Secretary of the Gilchrist Trust, not later than the first week in the October following his appointment.

* The full marks obtainable at the matriculation examination are 2,800. Of these, 1,800 qualifies for Honours and 1,400 for the First Division.

The following note was inserted in the Rules by direction of the Gilchrist Trustees in 1881, at which time the value of the scholarships was £100 a year only:—

Every scholar in order to take full advantage of the opportunities afforded him by the scholarship ought to have at least £50 per annum in addition from private means, and an allowance of £25 per annum is absolutely indispensable.

9.—The scholarship shall be considered as commencing from the 1st of July following the award of the Examiners; and will be paid in quarterly instalments, on the first days of October, January, April, and July.

10.—The scholar shall attend in every Session at least three Courses of Lectures at the institution in which he studies; and shall transmit to the Secretary to the Gilchrist Trust, at the conclusion of each Session, a certificate from each of the Professors whose lectures he has attended, stating that his diligence and conduct have been satisfactory. Should he not be able to produce such a certificate, or should he be proved guilty of discreditable conduct elsewhere, he shall be considered to have forfeited his claim to the remaining instalments of his scholarship.

11.—The scholar shall be expected to present himself at the first examination in one of the Faculties of Arts, Science, Law, or Medicine in the University of London before the termination of the second Academical year* from the commencement of his scholarship, unless excused from doing so by the Trustees; and if he do not so present himself (unless by permission of the Trustees), or if he fail to pass, he shall be considered as forfeiting his claim to the remaining instalments of his scholarship. After having passed the first Examination, he will be expected to pursue his studies, with the view of presenting at the Second Examination, within two (Academical) years.

12.—A grant of £50 will be made by the Trustees for the Return-passage of the scholar who shall succeed in obtaining his Degree in the University of London. If he fails to obtain his Degree, a Return passage will be provided by the Government of India.

13.—The foregoing scheme shall be subject to revision from time to time; the Trustees reserving to themselves the power of altering the conditions of the scholarship, or of altogether withdrawing it, if they deem it expedient to do either. But no change will be made in such a manner as to affect the interests of candidates already appointed to scholarships, or in any case without twelve months' notice.

The Matriculation Standard of the London University, in which canditates will be examined, includes the following subjects:—

(1) Latin.
(2) Any two of the following languages: Greek, French, German, and either Sanskrit or Arabic.

Financial Notification No. 2849, dated 25th November 1882.

IN exercise of the powers conferred by section 16 of the Indian Coinage Act, 1870, and in supersession of the orders noted on the margin, the Governor General in Council is pleased to authorise the undermentioned officers to cut or break coin under that section :—

1. Every officer in charge of a District Treasury.
2. Every Assistant Collector, Deputy Collector, Assistant Commissioner, or Extra Assistant Commissioner in charge of a Sub-Treasury.

3. Every Commissioner, Deputy or Assistant Commissioner of the Department of Paper Currency.
4. The Mint Masters, Calcutta and Bombay.
5. The Secretary and Treasurer of each of the Presidency Banks, and every Agent in charge of a branch of any of the said Banks.
6. The Secretary, Manager, or other principal officer of the several offices and agencies in India of each of the following Banks :—

7. The Chairman, Vice-Chairman, or the Secretary of the Calcutta Port Improvement Commissioners, Bombay Port Trustees, Rangoon Port Commissioners.
8. The Chairman, Vice-Chairman, President, Vice-President, or Secretary of the Presidency Municipalities.
9. And any officer of any other Municipality authorised by the Local Government or Administration.

And in exercise of the powers conferred by section 28 of the same Act, the Governor General in Council is pleased to prescribe the following rules :—

1. When any silver coin purporting to be coined and issued under the authority of the Government of India is tendered to any of the officers authorised by this Notification to act under section 16* of the Indian Coinage Act, 1870, who has reason to believe it to be counterfeit, or to have been reduced in weight otherwise than by reasonable wearing, he shall cut or break such coin, and, under section 16 of the said Act, return the pieces to the person tendering the coin. In cutting or breaking coins, officers should avoid completely dividing them, as it is often convenient to identify the parts of a particular coin. Such identification becomes impossible if the pieces are wholly separated. Care should, however, be taken that the destruction is complete.

Extract from Act No. XXIII of 1870—India.

*16. When any silver coin purporting to be coined and issued under the authority of the Government of India is tendered to any officer authorised by the Governor General in Council or the Local Government to act under this section, who has reason to believe it to have lost, by reasonable wearing, more than two per cent. in weight, or to be counterfeit,
or to have been reduced in weight otherwise than by reasonable wearing,
or to be called in by any proclamation,
he may, by himself or another,
(subject to the rules which the Governor General in Council prescribes in this behalf), cut or break such coin.

Cutting certain silver coin.

2. When any rupee or half-rupee purporting to be coined and issued under the authority of the Government of India is tendered to any such officer, who has reason to believe it to have lost by reasonable wearing more than two per cent. in weight, he shall cut or break such coin, and, at the option of the person tendering the coin, return to him the pieces, or retain them and give credit for them at the rate of one rupee for one hundred and eighty grains troy weight.

3. A quarter-rupee or an eighth of a rupee tendered to such an officer must, under section 13† of the Act, be accepted as legal tender for a fraction of a rupee, even though it have lost, by reasonable wearing, more than two per cent. in weight.

Extract from Act No. XXIII of 1870—India.

† 13. The said rupee and half-rupee shall be a legal tender in payment or on account;
Provided that the coin has not lost more than two per cent. in weight;
Provided also that it has not been clipped or filed, or defaced or diminished, otherwise than by use.
The quarter-rupee and eighth of a rupee shall be legal tender only for the fractions of a rupee, subject to the second proviso contained in this section.

Rupees and half-rupees a legal tender.

Four-anna and two-anna pieces.

4. If, by reason of the obliteration of the device upon it, or for any other cause, any quarter-rupee or eighth of a rupee coined and issued after the 1st September 1835 that shall come into the possession of such an officer, shall appear to him to be unfit for further circulation, it shall not be cut or broken, but shall, whatever be its weight, be withdrawn from circulation and dealt with in the manner prescribed in Rules 5 and 6. But quarter-rupees and eighths of a rupee shall not be withdrawn from circulation, if they appear to be otherwise fit to circulate, only because they have lost by reasonable wearing more than two per cent. in weight. Such coins, if coined and issued before 1st September 1835, must, however, be dealt with under section 16 of the Act.

5. In the case of coin tendered to officers of Government, the pieces of coin cut or broken and received under Rule 2, and the coin withdrawn from circulation under Rule 4, shall be sent, by the first convenient opportunity, to the Master of the Mint at Bombay or Calcutta or any principal treasury appointed by the local Accountant General to receive them for remittance to the Mint. Meanwhile, the actual amount at which the cut or broken pieces have been received and the nominal value of the coin withdrawn shall be entered in the statement of the cash balance of the officer who has received them as "uncurrent coin." Upon their receipt at the Mint, the Master of the Mint shall give credit for them at the rate mentioned in Rule 2, in the case of coin cut or broken, and at the nominal value in the case of coin withdrawn under Rule 4, and any loss incurred in their re-coinage shall be a charge of the Mint.

6. If the coin be cut or broken and received under these rules by any of the officers enumerated under headings 5 to 9 above, the pieces should be sent to the nearest Government Treasury (and in Presidency Towns to the Reserve Treasury) where the actual sum paid for them and the nominal value of the coin withdrawn shall be paid, and thereafter the pieces will be dealt with in the manner prescribed in Rule 5.

These rules apply to all silver coin of the same weight and value as British Indian Currency, coined by the Government of India on behalf of the Government of Portuguese India, or coined under the Native Coinage Act, IX of 1876, on behalf of Native States. They do not affect the orders contained in the Resolution of the Government of India in the Financial Department, No. 2432, dated 17th August 1881, under which, for the present, all genuine coin which has not been diminished by fraudulent means or has been diminished only by what are ordinarily known as shroff marks, shall be received at its nominal value; accordingly, in so far as regards such coin, the second rule of those now prescribed is suspended, except that coin which has been reduced more than two per cent. in weight by reasonable wearing shall be cut or broken as heretofore, although it be received at full value.

For testing rupees and half rupees under these rules, minimum weights, 176·4 and 88·2 grains troy respectively, shall be obtainable on application through the Comptroller General or the Accountant General, Bombay, as the case may be, to the Mint Masters at Calcutta and Bombay. These weights being already two per cent. below the standard weight for rupees and half rupees respectively show the exact weight below which the coin has to be destroyed. The weights will be supplied in all cases at Government expense, but as the scales ordinarily used by native jewellers are sufficient for these tests, scales will not be supplied by the Mint Masters.

ORDERED, that this Notification be published in the Gazette of India for general information, and that it be communicated to the several Local Governments and Administrations and the Comptroller General for information.

OBSERVATIONS.—In consequence of an application having been received from the Bombay Steam Soap and Candle Works Company, praying for the remission of the duty on the salt used by it in the manufacture of soap, the question of issuing salt, free of duty, for the manufacture of soap and alkali has recently engaged the attention of the Government of India. In the circular letter of the 23rd February 1882, read in the preamble, the Government of India expressed its opinion that the remission of duty on salt used for industrial and agricultural purposes was desirable in itself if it could be allowed without danger to the revenue, and observed that various methods of denaturalising salt had from time to time been suggested, but that hitherto no satisfactory process which exactly met the requirements of the case had been discovered. It was accordingly proposed in view to the issue of duty-free salt to soap manufactories, that a preventive establishment should be placed at the works to see that the free salt is actually mixed with the prepared lye, the cost of the establishment being borne by the manufacturers. It was at the same time suggested that it should be first ascertained, by actual experiment, whether the salt after being mixed with the lye could be separated from it and again rendered fit for human consumption, as, in that case, it would not be a sufficient safeguard to provide an establishment merely to see that the salt was actually mixed with the lye.

2. From the reports received from the Local Governments consulted it appears that salt is used at two stages in the manufacture of soap; first, for supplying the soda which contributes to the formation of the soapy matter, and, secondly, for separating the soap from the lye. In the former case, decomposition takes place, and it would therefore seem to be feasible to arrange for the issue of duty-free salt by simply ensuring the mixture of the salt with the lye in the course of manufacture. In the case of salt used in the process of separation, the Chemical Examiners consulted are unanimously of opinion that it would always be possible to recover the salt from the 'spent lye' remaining after the separation of the soap, but it also appears that the process of extraction would be neither easy nor cheap. As a precaution against such extraction, the Collector of Salt Revenue, Bombay, recommends that all spent lye, or salt charged liquor, leaving the soap-works should be run to waste, and the Chemical Examiner, Madras, suggests that manufacturers may be required to discharge the spent lye into the sea or a large river or other suitable channel.

3. In Bombay, the Collector of Salt Revenue does not recommend the grant of free salt to the Bombay Steam Soap and Candle Works Company for the manufacture of soap, except on condition that the Company should agree to allow the spent lye to run to waste, that its premises should be open at all times to the Preventive Officers of the Salt Department, that notice of each boiling should be duly given to those officers, that the Company should use fully taxed salt in the first instance, and that after ascertaining the actual quantity of salt required in the preparation of a given quantity of soap, a refund of the duty should be made to the Company, proportionate to the amount of soap sold as shown by its books and vouchers. The Government of Bombay, however, considers it inexpedient to grant the concession, as in its opinion it would be difficult to prevent loss of revenue from the subsequent illicit use of the salt, unless a preventive establishment is maintained at a strength and cost which would counterbalance any pecuniary gain to be derived by the Company from the use of free salt.

4. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, the only factory using salt in the manufacture of soap is the North-West Soap Company at Meerut. In order to avail itself of the privilege of using duty-free salt for soap-making, this Company is willing to give a pecuniary guarantee, to conform to all reasonable requirements of the Salt Department as to the safe custody and issue of the salt, and to allow inspection of its books, &c., but hopes that no expensive preventive establishment will be insisted upon. The Commissioner of Northern India Salt Revenue, on the other hand, considers that a preventive establishment cannot be safely dispensed with. He does not apprehend any danger to the revenue from the separation of salt from the spent lye, but considers that the real risk of loss lies in the fact that a portion of the free salt may never be added to the lye at all, and to guard against this contingency, the location at the works of a preventive establishment is necessary in order to supervise the use of the salt and the disposal of the refuse. The Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh thinks that a preventive establishment should not be insisted upon, as the grant of free salt would probably be neutralised by the cost of such establishment and the inconvenience which it would cause to the manufacturers. His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor accordingly suggests that the Commissioner of Northern India Salt Revenue should draw up rules for the safe custody and issue of the salt and for keeping up registers by the manufacturers which should be open at all times for inspection, showing how the salt is disposed of. He also suggests that the Company might further be required to execute a bond in a reasonable amount pledging itself to abide by these rules and to guarantee that all duty-free salt supplied to it should be used bonâ fide in the manufacture of soap and for no other purpose, and power might be reserved in the bond to impose a preventive establishment if there be reason to suppose that the concession is being abused.

5. The Chemical Examiner to the Bengal Government is of opinion that the salt mixed with the lye in the manufacture of soap can afterwards be separated from the lye by repeated re-crystallizations, but that the process would be an expensive one, and could only be profitably carried out on a large scale. The Government of Bengal therefore believes that there would be no danger to the revenue from this source, and that the abuse of the privilege of using duty-free salt might be sufficiently guarded against by the deputation of an officer to the soap-works, whenever required, in order to supervise the mixing of the salt with the lye. It adds that under such an arrangement it would not be necessary to require the manufacturers to pay the cost of a fixed preventive establishment. The Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, suggests an alternative proposal, viz., that if it can be ascertained approximately what minimum quantity of salt must be used for the manufacture of a certain quantity of soap, an officer might be sent from time to time to examine the outturn of soap manufactured and to note the quantity of salt expended for the purpose, and then a refund of the duty on the recorded quantity of salt might be granted. His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor considers that this procedure might be introduced with advantage if the conditions of soap manufacture admit of a calculation of this nature.

6. The Commissioner of Salt Revenue, Madras, is of opinion that if duty-free salt for the manufacture of soap be issued only to firms of respectability and under adequate guarantees, there should not be any such danger to the revenue as to render it advisable to withhold a concession which might encourage a useful industry. The Board of Revenue, Madras, considers that the difficulties attending the supply of free salt for the purpose of soap-making are not of such a nature as to be insurmountable, and it proposes that, as a tentative measure, the concession may at first be limited to well-known firms, a preventive establishment being maintained to check illicit practices. The Madras Government approves of this proposal subject to the precaution suggested by the Chemical Examiner, viz, that the manufacturers should be required to discharge the refuse salted lye into the sea, or a river, or other suitable channel, and observes that as the manufacturers must bear the cost of the necessary preventive establishment, the arrangement would be practicable only where the works are conducted on a scale sufficiently large to earn a profit after defraying all incidental charges. It also forwards a letter from Messrs. Arbuthnot & Co., of Madras, applying for the supply of duty-free salt for the manufacture of alkali and suggesting two alternative courses in which the concession might safely be granted, viz., (1) that salt at usual selling rates, minus the charge for duty, may be issued to the firm and a trustworthy official retained at the alkali works to see that the salt is not used for any other purpose than that of manufacture, or (2) that the firm may at first buy salt at the ordinary rates inclusive of duty, and afterwards receive a refund or drawback of the duty, on production of a certificate from some Government official retained at the works in order to watch that the specified quantity of salt has been actually employed in the manufacture.

RESOLUTION.—The Governor General in Council observes that the question of the issue of salt, free of duty, to be used in the manufacture of soap and alkali is becoming one of some importance, and on a consideration of the views and proposals set forth in the preceding paragraphs, His Excellency in Council is strongly in favour of an attempt being made to issue duty-free salt for these purposes under proper restrictions and with suitable precautions. His Excellency in Council believes that precautions which will sufficiently protect the revenue can be taken at a moderate cost. Each Local Government is accordingly empowered to make such arrangements as it may deem necessary for the purpose indicated. The arrangements should be made subject to the final decision of the Government of India, to whom they should be reported. In all provinces to which the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Northern India Salt Revenue extends, the arrangements should be made by the Local Government in communication with the Commissioner. It must be understood that the manufacturer is to bear any extra cost for preventive establishments, &c., which the grant of the concession may necessitate, and that the privilege is liable to be withdrawn if experience shows that it is being abused or that the revenue is suffering.

ORDER.—Ordered, that a copy of the above Resolution be communicated to the several Local Governments and Administrations for information and guidance, and to the Commissioner, Northern India Salt Revenue.

Ordered also, that the Resolution be published in the Gazette of India.

The total amount of the rates shall be payable by the owner of the house, who shall thereafter be entitled to deduct from the rent which he pays for the land such proportion of the rate so paid by him as is equal to the proportion which such rent bears to the annual value of the holding.

If the owner of the house and the owner of the land do not agree in respect of the proportion of the rate so deducted by the owner of the house, the Commissioners shall, on the application of either party, make an award declaring the amount payable by each, and such award shall be final.

Tax due from non-resident owner may be recovered from occupier and deducted by him from his rent.

If no sufficient goods or chattels belonging to a defaulter, or being upon the premises in respect of which he is assessed or rated, can be found within the Municipality, the Magistrate may, on the application of the Commissioners, issue his warrant to any officer of his Court for the distress and sale of any personal property or effects belonging to the defaulter within any other part of the jurisdiction of the Magistrate, or for the distress and sale of any personal property belonging to the defaulter within the jurisdiction of any other Magistrate whatsoever, and such other Magistrate shall endorse the warrant so issued, and cause it to be executed, and the amount, if levied, to be remitted to the Magistrate issuing the warrant, who shall remit the same to the Commissioners.

Distress or sale not unlawful for want of form.

117. No distress or sale made under this Act shall be deemed unlawful, nor shall any party making the same be deemed a trespasser on account of any error, defect, or want of form in the bill, notice, summons, warrant of distress, inventory, or other proceeding relating thereto.

Commissioners may bring suit instead of distraining or on failure of distress.

118. Instead of proceeding by distress and sale, or in case of failure to realize thereby the whole or any part of any tax, the Commissioners may sue the person liable to pay the same in any Court of competent jurisdiction.

Irrecoverable taxes.

119. The Commissioners may order to be struck off the books the amount of any tax or rate which may appear to them to be irrecoverable.

Of the Tax on Carriages, Horses, and other Animals.

Tax on carriages, horses, and other animals.

120. When it has been determined that a tax on carriages, horses, and other animals specified in the third schedule shall be imposed, the Commissioners at a meeting shall make an order that every carriage, horse, and every other animal of the kind specified in the said schedule which is kept or habitually used within, or which is let for hire within or without the Municipality, and habitually used within it, shall pay the tax, and shall cause such orders to be published in the manner prescribed by section three hundred and fifty-three.

Such order shall be published at least one month before the beginning of the half-year in which such tax shall first take effect; and shall specify at what rates, not exceeding the rates given in the said schedule, such tax shall be levied.

But such tax shall not be imposed on—

(a) horses or ponies belonging to officers doing regimental duty, at the rate of one animal for each officer;

(b) animals exempt from any Municipal tax under section 25 of the Indian Volunteers' Act, 1869;

(c) carriages or animals belonging to Government, or to the Municipality, or for keeping which for the execution of their duty an allowance is made by the Government or by the Commissioners to any of their officers;

(d) animals used by, or exclusively for the purposes of any regiment;

(e) horses or ponies used by police officers at the rate of not more than one for each officer;

(f) carriages, the wheels of which do not exceed twenty-four inches in diameter;

(g) animals under eleven hands in height;

(h) carriages or animals kept for sale by any bona fide dealer in such carriages or animals, and not used for any other purpose.

Tax so fixed to continue in force until altered.

121. Any order of the Commissioners imposing a tax under the last preceding section shall continue in force until rescinded, and the tax shall be levied at the rates specified in the order published as aforesaid, unless and until the Commissioners at a meeting, held not less than fifteen days before the end of the year, make and publish an order specifying any different rates at which the tax shall be payable for the ensuing year.

Licenses how to be obtained.

122. In any Municipality in which a tax has been imposed under the last preceding section, the owner of every carriage, horse, and other animal specified in the said schedule shall, within the first month of each half-year, forward to the Commissioners a statement in writing, signed by him, containing a description of the carriages, horses, and other animals liable to the tax for which he is bound to take out a license.

Such owner shall at the same time pay to the Commissioners such sum as shall be payable by him for the current half-year for the carriages, horses, and other animals specified in such statement, according to the rates specified in any order for the time being in force under the two last preceding sections.

Proportionate tax on carriages, &c., acquired during half-year.

123. If any person acquires possession at any time after the commencement of any half-year, of any carriage, horse, or other animal specified in the schedule in respect of which no license has been given for such half-year, he shall forward a statement as above required within one month of the date on which he may have acquired possession thereof, and shall pay such amount of the tax as shall bear the same proportion to the whole tax for the half-year as the unexpired portion of the half-year bears to the half-year; and such amount shall be calculated from the date on which such person may have acquired possession as aforesaid

On payment of tax Commissioners to give a license.

124. On receiving the amount of the tax due as aforesaid, the Commissioners, or some person authorised by them in that behalf, shall give to the person paying the same a license for the several carriages, horses, and other animals for the period in respect of which the amount is received.

Such license shall be for the current half-year and no longer.

Carriage, &c., liable to the tax although the owner be absent.

125. Whenever the owner of any carriage, horse, or other animal liable to pay the said tax is not resident within the limits of the Municipality to the Commissioners of which the tax is due, the person in whose immediate possession the carriage, horse, or other animal is for the time being kept shall take out a license for the same.

Penalty.

126. Whoever keeps or is in possession of any carriage, horse, or other animal without the license required by the three last preceding sections, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding three times the amount payable by him in respect of such license, exclusive of the amount so payable.

Commissioners may compound with livery stable-keepers.

127. The Commissioners at their discretion may compound, for any period not exceeding one year, with livery stable-keepers and other persons keeping carriages or animals for hire, for a certain sum to be paid for the carriages or animals so kept by such person, in lieu of the tax at the rates specified in any order made by the Commissioners under sections one hundred and twenty and one hundred and twenty-one.

List of persons licensed to be prepared.

128. The Commissioners shall from time to time cause to be prepared and entered in a book, to be kept by them, and to be open to the inspection of any person interested therein, a list of the persons to whom, during the then current half-year, a license has been given, and of the carriages, horses, and other animals in respect of which they have paid the tax

Power to inspect stable, &c., and to summon persons liable to the payment of the tax.

129. The Commissioners, or any person authorized by them in that behalf, may at any time between sunrise and sunset enter and inspect any stable or coach-house, or any place wherein they may have reason to believe that there is any carriage, horse, or other animal liable to the tax for which a license has not been duly taken out.

And the Commissioners may summon any person whom they have reason to believe to be liable to the payment of any such tax, or any servant of such person, and may examine such person or servant as to the number and description of the carriages, horses, and other animals in respect of which such person is liable to be taxed.

Refund of tax in certain cases.

130. On proof being given to the satisfaction of the Commissioners that a carriage, horse, or other animal for which a license has been taken out for any half-year has ceased to be kept or to be used within the Municipality during the course of such half-year, the Commissioners shall order a refund of so much of the tax for the half-year as shall bear the same proportion to the whole tax for the half-year as the period during which such carriage, horse, or other animal has not been kept or used in the Municipality bears to the half-year; but no such refund shall be allowed unless notice be given to the Commissioners within one month of the time when such use of such carriage, horse, or other animal ceased, and the Commissioners shall pass no order for refund until after the close of the half-year in respect of which the refund is claimed.

Of the Registration of Carts.

Registration and number of carts.

131. The Commissioners at a meeting may make and publish an order that every cart, which is kept or habitually used within, or which is let for hire within or without the Municipality and habitually used within it, shall be registered by the Commissioners with the name and residence of the owner, and shall bear the number of registration in such manner as the said Commissioners shall direct:

Provided always that such order shall be published at least one month before the beginning of the half-year in which such order for registration shall be enforced.

This section shall not apply to carts—

(a) which are the property of the Government or of the Municipality;

(b) which are kept without the limits of the Municipality, and are only temporarily and casually used within such limits;

(c) which are kept in Howrah or within the Suburbs of Calcutta.

Fee for registration.

132. The registration of carts under the last preceding section shall be made, and the numbers assigned yearly or half-yearly, upon such days as the Commissioners shall notify, and such fee as they shall from time to time fix and notify, not exceeding four rupees if the registration has effect for a year, and not exceeding two rupees if the registration has effect for half a year, shall be paid for each registration.

Proportionate payment of fee.

133. Any person becoming possessed of any cart which has not been registered for the then current period of registration, shall register the same within one month of the date on which he may have become possessed thereof, and the Commissioners shall grant registration in any such case on payment of such amount of the fee as shall bear the same proportion to the whole fee for the current period of registration as the unexpired portion of the current period of registration bears to the whole of such period; and such fee shall be calculated from the date on which such person may have become possessed as aforesaid.

Transfer of ownership.

134. When the ownership of any registered cart is transferred within any period of registration, it shall be registered anew within one month of the transfer in the name of the person to whom it has been transferred, and a fee not exceeding four annas shall be paid for every such last-mentioned registration.

Penalty.

135. Whoever keeps or is in possession of a cart not duly registered as required by the three last preceding sections, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding three times the amount payable be him in respect of such registration, exclusive of the amount so payable; and whoever being thy owner or driver of any cart, shall fail to affix thereto the registration number as required by section one hundred and thirty-one shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five rupees.

Seizure and sale of unregistered cart.

136. If any person owns or keeps any cart hereinbefore required to be registered without having caused the same to be registered, the Commissioners, or any person authorized by them in that behalf, may seize and detain such cart (provided the same be not employed at the time of seizure in the conveyance of any passengers or goods) together with the animals drawing the same, and all police officers are required, on the application of the Commissioners, or of any servant of the Commissioners duly authorized in that behalf, to assist in the said seizure.

After such seizure the Commissioners shall forthwith issue a notice in writing that after the expiration of ten days they will sell such vehicle and animals by auction at such place as they may state in the notice; and if any registration fee, together with the cost arising from such seizure and custody, remains unpaid for ten days after the issue of such notice, the Commissioners may sell the property seized for payment of the said fee, and of all expenses occasioned by such non-payment, seizure, custody, and sale.

Any balance that may remain out of the proceeds of the sale shall be returned, on demand, if made within twelve months, to the owner of the property, and if unclaimed after such period, shall be credited to the Municipal Fund:

Provided that if at any time before the sale is concluded the person whose cart has been seized shall tender to the Commissioners, or the person authorized by them to sell the cart, the amount of all the expenses incurred, and the registration fee payable by him, the Commissioners shall forthwith release the cart so seized.

Notwithstanding anything contained in this section, the surplus of the sale proceeds of a cart seized under this section may be devoted to the payment of any fine imposed under the last preceding section; and any cart which has been seized under this section may be sold for the realization of any such fine.

Of Tolls on Ferries.

138. The Commissioners may also, with the sanction of the Local Government, declare that any other ferry within or adjacent to the limits of the Municipality is a Municipal ferry, and the profits derivable therefrom shall thenceforward be carried to the credit of the Municipal Fund:

Provided that due compensation shall be made by the Municipality to any person for the loss which he may have sustained in consequence of such ferry being declared to be a Municipal ferry.

Every lease of a ferry given by the Commissioners as hereinafter provided shall be liable to be cancelled at once, if it shall appear to the Commissioners at a meeting that the lessee has failed to make due provision for the convenience or safety of the public within fifteen days after being required to do so by a notice in writing from the Commissioners.

On the cancelment of a lease, the Commissioners may take possession of all boats and other appliances which have been used by the lessee in the working of the ferry; and may either retain the same permanently on payment of a fair price to the proprietor, or may retain them for such time as may be necessary, not exceeding three months, until they can make arrangements for such other boats and appliances as may be necessary, in which case the Commissioners shall pay a fair price to the owners for the use of the said boats and appliances:

Provided that within a week of taking such possession the Commissioners shall be bound to give notice to the said lessee of their intention to retain the said boats and appliances permanently, or of the period during which they intend to retain them, as the case may be.

Toll must be prepaid.

146. The Local Government may, with the consent of the Commissioners, make over to the Commissioners any existing toll-bar within the limits of the Municipality, to be administered by the Municipality until the Local Government shall otherwise direct; every toll-bar while so administered shall be deemed to be a Municipal toll-bar, and the profits derivable from it, or such part thereof as shall be agreed upon between the Local Government and the Commissioners, shall be carried to the credit of the Municipal Fund.

Whenever any rate shall be recovered from any owner of any holding under the provisions of the last preceding section, it shall be lawful for such owner, if there shall be but one occupying tenant of such entire holding, to recover from such tenant the entire amount of the rate which shall have been so paid by such owner; and if there shall be one occupying tenant of a part of such holding or more than one occupying tenant of such holding, then to recover from such tenant or each of such tenants such sum as shall bear to the entire amount of rate which may have been so recovered from such owner, the same proportion as the value of the portion of such holding in the occupation of such tenant bears to the entire value of such holding, subject, however, to the provisions of section three hundred and thirteen.

Owner may recover rate so paid as rent.

313. Every owner who, under the provisions of the last preceding section, may be entitled to recover any sum from any occupying tenant of any holding or of any portion thereof, shall have for the recovery of such sum all such and the same remedies, powers, rights, and authorities as if such sum were rent payable to such owner by such tenant in respect of so much of such holding as may be in the occupation of such tenant.

314. Every occupier shall be liable to the lighting-rate for the time of his occupation. 316. If the Commissioners deem it necessary for the purposes of this Part to raise, sink or otherwise alter the situation of any gas pipe or other gas-work laid in any portion of the said area, they may from time to time, by notice in writing, require the person to whom any such pipe or work belongs, or under whose control it may be, to cause forthwith, or as soon as conveniently may be, any such pipe or work to be raised, sunk or otherwise altered in position, in such manner as the Commissioners may direct:

Provided that such alteration be not such as permanently to injure such pipe or work, or to prevent the gas from flowing as freely and conveniently as before; and the expenses attending such raising, sinking, or altering, and full compensation for the damage done thereby, shall be paid by the Commissioners out of the Municipal Fund as well to the person to whom such pipe or work belongs as to all other persons.

If owner, &c., neglect to make alterations, the Commissioners may cause the same to be made.

317. If the person to whom any such pipe or work belongs, or under whose control it may be, do not proceed forthwith, or as soon as conveniently may be, after the receipt of such notice, to cause the same to be raised, sunk or altered in such manner as the Commissioners require, the Commissioners may themselves cause such pipe or work to be raised, sunk or altered as they may think fit:

Provided that such works be not permanently injured thereby, or the gas prevented from flowing as freely and conveniently as before.

PART IX.

A list of the said fees, and of the persons liable to pay the same, shall be published once in every year as prescribed in section three hundred and fifty-three

In certain cases fee may be levied from owner, who may recover from occupier.

321. If any holding is occupied in severalty by more than one person, the Commissioners may levy the said fee from the owner of such holding, who may recover from each occupier such sum as shall bear to the entire amount of the fee so levied the same proportion as the value of the part of the holding in the occupation of such person bears to the entire value of such holding.

Owner may recover fees from occupier as rent.

322. Every owner who, under the provisions of the last preceding section, is entitled to recover any sum from the occupier of any part of a holding, shall have for the recovery of the said sum all such and the same remedies, powers, rights, and authorities as if such sum were rent payable to him by the occupier in respect of such portion of the holding as may be in his occupation.

323. The Commissioners, at their discretion, may compound, for any period not exceeding one year, with any occupier or owner as aforesaid of any railway premises or of any premises used as a factory, dockyard, workshop, cooly depôt, school, hospital, market, court-house, or other similar place, for a certain sum to be paid by such occupier or owner in lieu of such fee.

Commissioners may levy a rate per head.

324. Commissioners may reduce or remit fee.

325. The Commissioners may reduce the amount of a fee payable under this Part, or may remit the fee if in their opinion the levy of it would be productive of excessive hardship to the person liable to pay the same.

Penalty.

326. The Commissioners at a meeting may grant such licenses subject to such conditions as they may think fit, and may impose fees in respect of the same.

Subject to the approval of the Local Government, the Commissioners may make rules to define the duties of such nightmen, and from time to time may alter, add to, or repeal such rules; and any breach of such rules shall subjcte the offender to a forfeiture of license, and to a fine not exceeding twenty rupees.

Acts of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council.

NUMBER AND YEAR.	Subject.	EXTENT OF REPEAL.
V of 1873 ...	To provide for the levy of a lighting rate in Howrah.	The whole Act.
V of 1876 ...	To amend and consolidate the law relating to municipalities.	Ditto.
VI of 1878	To provide for the cleansing and construction of latrines in first class municipalities.	Ditto.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to modify and extend the present Act relating to Municipalities in Bengal in such a manner as to give the people a larger share in the management of their own affairs. As the changes introduced are considerable, it has been thought more convenient to repeal the existing law, and to pass a revised and consolidated measure, than to introduce a merely amending Bill.

The present Act V of 1876 relates to institutions of four different kinds—Municipalities of the first class, Municipalities of the second class, Unions, and Stations. It seems unnecessary to retain these distinctions. There is practically very little difference between the two classes of Municipalities: and there are only two stations under the Act, both of which can without difficulty be raised to the rank of Municipalities. Unions are more numerous, and it will perhaps be found that some of these are not sufficiently advanced to be entrusted with Municipal responsibilities. Such Unions will be placed under the Local Boards which it is intended to establish by a separate Act of the Legislature, while the more fully developed unions will be treated as Municipalities.

Some important changes have been introduced into the constitution of the Municipalities. It is intended that the Commissioners shall as a rule be elected by the rate-payers, the Government reserving only a power to nominate one-third of the whole number of Commissioners. No ex-officio Commissioners will be appointed, and the existing limitation of the number of salaried officers of Government will be retained. The provisions of the present Act. for the retirement of Commissioners by rotation, have been omitted; and it is proposed that the whole body of Commissioners, as well as the Chairman and Vice-Chairman, shall remain in office for three years. The Chairman will either be appointed by Government, or will be elected by the Commissioners: the Vice-Chairman will, as at present, be elected by the Commissioners.

For the control now exercised over municipal proceedings by District Officers and Commissioners of Divisions, will be substituted a system of supervision and regulation by some central authority, the constitution and functions of which are not yet precisely defined. In the Bill as at present drafted, this authority is referred to simply as "the Controlling authority." Opportunity will be taken, when the Bill is in Select Committee, to introduce a more exact wording into the sections relating to this part of the question.

As regards the rest of the Bill, it may be said generally that the principle has been adopted that the Commissioners of an elective Municipality may be expected to exercise their powers in accordance with the wishes, and in the furtherance of the interests, of the general body of rate-payers: and that consequently such powers as they may desire to exercise should be freely conceded to them. Those sections of the Bill which apply to all Municipalities alike do not materially differ from the provisions of the present law. But the Bill greatly enlarges the powers of those Municipalities which may wish to adopt more advanced schemes of town conservancy and improvement. These powers are given in Parts VI to X of the Bill, and it is expressly declared that no provisions in any of these Parts shall be extended to any Municipality, except at the request of the Commissioners at a meeting specially convened for the purpose. Part VI is drawn upon the lines of Part VII of the existing Act. Part VII authorizes the Commissioners to establish a water-supply and to levy a water-rate. Part VIII contains analogous provisions for lighting with gas, and for the levy of a lighting rate. Part IX is based upon the existing Act VI (B.C.) of 1878, and deals with the construction and cleansing of latrines. Part X is substantially the same as Part IX of the present Act, and gives power to establish and regulate markets.

There are, of course, many of the above provisions which are inapplicable to the circumstances of an average mofussil Municipality. But it may be anticipated that the Commissioners will recognize this fact, and will apply to be invested only with those powers which the rate-payers may desire them to exercise, and which are suited to the stage of development which the Municipality may have reached, or may be capable of attaining.

Part V of the present Act, relating to Municipal Police, has been omitted from the Bill. Howrah and the Suburbs of Calcutta are the only Municipalities which have not already been relieved from the charge of maintaining the police force required for their watch and ward, and a separate Bill to meet the cases of these two Municipalities will be introduced hereafter. As the Bill does not recognize Unions and Stations, Chapters III and IV of the present Act have also been omitted.

Such special meeting shall not be held unless a month's previous notice of the same and of the purpose thereof has been given in a manner in which notices of meetings of such local authority are usually given, and such notice shall require that all objections to the proposed tramways shall be submitted for the consideration of the local authority before the date fixed for the special meeting.

Such resolution shall not be passed unless two-thirds of the members constituting such local authority are present and vote at such special meeting and a majority of those present and voting concur in the resolution.

Local Government may in certain cases dispense with consent of local authority.

4. Where it is proposed to lay down a tramway in two or more areas, and any local authority having jurisdiction in any of such areas does not consent thereto, the Local Government may nevertheless make an order authorising the construction of such tramway if it is satisfied after enquiry that two-thirds of the length of such tramway is proposed to be laid in an area or areas, the local authority of which area or areas do consent thereto.

Where it appears to the Local Government expedient and proper that the application should be granted with or without addition or modification, or subject or not to any restriction or condition, the Local Government may settle and make an order accordingly, and such order shall be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

Local Government may make and publish order.

Every such order shall empower the promoters therein specified to make the tramway upon the gauge and in manner therein described, and shall contain such provisions and prescribe such penalties for default as (subject to the provisions of this Act) the Local Government according to the nature of the application and the facts and circumstances of each case thinks fit.

the powers given by the order to the promoters for constructing such tramway, executing such works, or otherwise in relation thereto, shall cease to be exercised to the extent and in the manner specified in such order.

A notice in the Calcutta Gazette to the effect that a tramway has not been completed and opened for public traffic, or that the works have not been substantially commenced, or that they have been suspended without sufficient reason, shall be conclusive evidence for the purpose of this section of such non-completion, non commencement or suspension Reservation of right of public to use roads.

17. Nothing in this Act, or in any bye-law made under this Act, shall take away or abridge the right of the public to pass along or across every or any part of any road along or across which any tramway is laid, whether on or off the tramway, with carriages not having flange wheels or wheels suitable to run on rails. But the right of the public shall not include the use of any new roadway, embankment or earthwork constructed or acquired for the special and exclusive use of the tramway.

Penalty for avoiding payment of proper fare.

34. No person shall be entitled to carry or to require to be carried on any tramway any goods which may be of a dangerous or offensive nature, and if any person send by any tramway any such goods without distinctly marking their nature on the outside of the package containing the same, or otherwise giving notice in writing to the book-keeper or other servant of the promoters with whom the same are left at the time of such sending, he shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty rupees for every such offence, and it shall be lawful for the promoters to refuse to take any parcel that they may suspect to contain goods of a dangerous or offensive nature, or to require the same to be opened to ascertain the fact.

Difference between the promoters and local authority, &c.

36. If any difference arises between the promoters or lessees on the one hand and any local authority, or any gas or water company, or any company, body or person to whom any railways, roads, drains, culverts, bridges, sewers, pipes, fences, wires or apparatus for telegraphic or any other purposes may belong, or in whom the charge thereof may be vested, or any other company on the other hand, with respect to any interference or control exercised or claimed to be exercised by them or him, or on their or his behalf, or by the promoters or lessees by virtue of this Act in relation to any tramway or work, or in relation to any work or proceeding of the local authority, body, company or person, or with respect to the propriety of or mode of execution of any work relating to any tramway, or with respect to the amount of any compensation to be made by or to the promoters or lessees, or in the question whether any work is such as ought reasonably to satisfy the local authority, body, company or person concerned, or with respect to any other subject or thing regulated by or comprised in this Act, the matter in difference shall (unless otherwise specially provided by this Act) be settled by an Engineer or other fit person nominated as referee by the Local Government on the application of either party, and the expenses of the reference shall be borne and paid as the referee directs.

Promoters to be responsible for all damages.

37. The promoters shall be answerable for all accidents, damages, and injuries happening through their act or default, or through the act or default of any person in their employment by reason or in consequence of any of their works or carriages, and in all cases where the promoters are not the local authority they shall save harmless the local authorities and their respective officers and servants from all damages and costs in respect of such accidents, damages, and injuries.

Power for the local authority or police to regulate traffic on roads.

38. Nothing in this Act shall limit the powers of the local authority or the police to regulate the passage of any traffic along or across any road along or across which any tramways are laid down, and such local authority or police may exercise their authority as well on as off the tramway, and with respect as well to the traffic of the promoters as to the traffic of other persons.

The local authority shall not be liable to pay to the promoters any compensation for loss of traffic occasioned by the reasonable exercise of such authority.

Reservation of power over roads.

39. Nothing in this Act shall be construed to prevent the local authority or any corporate body or persons in the exercise of the powers conferred upon them under any law for the time being in force, from opening, breaking up, widening, altering, diverting or improving any of the roads, bridges, drains or culverts traversed by the tramways for the purposes for which they may now lawfully open, break up, widen, alter, divert or improve the same: Provided—

(1) that they shall cause as little detriment or inconvenience to the promoters as circumstances admit;

(2) that they may (if absolutely necessary, but not otherwise) order the temporary stoppage of traffic on the tramways or any of them on giving twenty-four hours' previous notice in writing to the promoters;

(3) that before they commence any work, whereby the traffic on the tramway will be interrupted, they shall (except in cases of urgency, in which cases no notice shall be necessary) give to the promoters notice of their intention to commence such work, specifying the time at which they will begin to do so; such notice to be given eighteen hours at least before the commencement of the work;

(4) that in the event of their so interfering with or stopping the running of any tramway under this section, an abatement proportioned to the length of road over which and time during which running is stopped, shall be made from the rent (if any) reserved and payable by the promoters;

(5) that any alteration of the position of any of the tramways, or the making good of any injury or damage that may be occasioned thereto by reason of such widening, alteration or improvement, shall be executed by the promoters at the expense of the local authority.

Discontinuance of tramways.

Tramways to be removed in certain cases.

40. If at any time after the opening of any tramway for traffic, the promoters discontinue the working of such tramway or of any part thereof for the space of three calendar months (such discontinuance not being occasioned by circumstances beyond the control of such promoters, for which purpose the want of sufficient funds shall not be considered a circumstance beyond their control), and such discontinuance is proved to the satisfaction of the Local Government, the Local Government if it think fit may by order declare that the powers of the promoters in respect of such tramway or the part thereof so discontinued, shall from the date of such order be at an end, and thereupon the said powers of the promoters shall cease, and determine unless the same are purchased by the local authority in manner by this Act provided. Where such order has been made the Engineer or other officer appointed on that behalf by the Local Government may at any time after the expiration of two months from the date of such order remove the tramway or part of the tramway so discontinued, and the promoters shall pay to such Engineer or officer the cost of such removal and of the making good of the road by such Engineer or officer. Such cost to be certified by such Engineer or officer whose certificate shall be final and conclusive. And if the promoters fail to pay the amount so certified within one calendar month after delivery to them of such certificate or a copy thereof, such Engineer or officer may without any previous notice to the promoters (but without prejudice to any other remedy which he may have for the recovery of the amount) sell and dispose of the materials of the tramway or part of the tramway removed, either by public auction or private sale, and for such sum or sums and to such person or persons as such Engineer or officer may think fit; and may out of the proceeds of such sale make and reimburse himself the amount of cost certified as aforesaid and of the costs of sale, and the balance (if any) of the proceeds of the sale shall be paid over by the said Engineer or officer to the promoters.

Insolvency of Promoters.

Proceedings in case of insolvency of promoters.

41. If at any time after the opening of any tramway it appears to the local authority, or to the Magistrate of the district in which such tramway is situate, that the promoters of such tramway are insolvents, so that they are unable to maintain such tramway, or work the same with advantage to the public, the Local Government, upon a representation to that effect made by such Magistrate or local autho ity, may direct an enquiry by a referee into the truth of the representation, and if the referee shall find that the promoters are such insolvents as aforesaid, the Local Government may by order declare that the powers of the promoters shall at the expiration of six calendar months from the making of the order be at an end, and the powers of the promoters shall cease and determine at the expiration of the said period unless the same are purchased by the local authority in manner by this Act provided, and thereupon the Engineer or other officer appointed on that behalf by the Local Government may remove the tramway in like manner, and subject to the same provisions as to the payment of the costs of such removal, and to the same remedy for the recovery of such costs in every respect as in cases of removal under the next preceding section.

Purchase of tramways.

Local authority to have right of purchasing tramway after 21 years.

42. The local authority shall have the right of purchasing the tramways with the plant, buildings, stores, rolling-stock, and everything connected therewith upon the expiration of twenty-one years from the date of the order authorising the construction of such tramway upon declaring its intention so to do in writing not less than six months before the expiration of the said twenty-one years, and shall have a renewed right of purchase at the end of every seven years after the expiration of the said twenty-one years upon similar notice being given, and the value to be placed upon the tramways shall be calculated in such manner that every hundred rupees of capital invested in the tramway at the time of purchase shall be taken as equal to twenty-five times the average of the annual net profits per hundred rupees divided by the promoters during the seven years immediately preceding the purchase.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

PROPOSALS have been received by the Government of Bengal from local authorities for the construction of tramways at Howrah, Patna and elsewhere, and it is necessary in order to give effect to these and any similar proprosals which may be received hereafter to pass an Act which shall invest the Government of Bengal and local authorities or other promoters with the necessary legal powers to sanction and undertake the construction of tramways, the breaking up of streets and roads for the purpose of laying rails, the running of tramcars, the levying of tolls and charges, the framing of rules and bye-laws, and the performing of all such other acts as are necessary for the efficient making and working of tramways with due regard to the public safety and convenience.

The only Act on the subject of tramways in force in Bengal is Act I of 1880 of the Bengal Council, which is a special one for Calcutta, and is so framed that its provisions cannot by an extending enactment be satisfactorily applied to other municipalities or places. It has therefore been decided to draft a general Act which will apply to all local authorities whether in municipalities or in rural districts in whom the charge of roads is vested. The draft Act embodies in part the provisions of the English Tramways Act of 1873, and in part those of the Calcutta Tramways Act of 1880. It prescribes the procedure to be adopted by promoters of tramways to obtain sanction to their schemes, the powers and rights in respect of the use of roads, and the manner of construction and working of tramways reserved to the Local Government, the local authority, the public and the promoters respectively, the penalties for offences and other general conditions which experience has shown to be advisable to impose on promoters of tramway schemes.

AMENDMENT OF THE EXCISE ACT.

THE HON. MR. REYNOLDS moved that the further report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Bengal Excise Act, 1878, be taken into consideration in order to the settlement of the clauses of the Bill. He said that three of the sections to which reference was made in the report of the Select Committee were sections in regard to which amendments had been placed on the notice paper, and therefore he would reserve his remarks upon these sections until he had heard what the Hon. Mover of those amendments had to say. He would therefore only refer at present to the amendments made by the Committee in those sections mentioned in the report which were uncontested. A definition of licensed vendor or manufacturer had been inserted in order to make it clear that the words referred only to persons under the Bengal Excise Act, and not to vendors or manufacturers who might have obtained licenses from other Governments in other Provinces. Then with regard to the section giving the Government power to lay down rules for the importation and bonding of exciseable articles manufactured in British India beyond the limits of the territory to which the Act extended, he had explained at the last meeting of the Council the reasons which made legislation necessary, and the Council would find that the section was a very simple one, and merely gave the power which the legal advisers of Government had declared to be indispensable. The Committee had also provided in sections 29 and 30 that notice of the recall or of the surrender of a license must be in writing, which seemed reasonable and proper. And the amendment in section 61 was in accordance with the Northern India Act of 1881 and the judicial decisions which had been passed to the effect that the penalty attached to unauthorized possession did not extend to such possession by any person merely as a carrier or warehouseman. The only other alterations made by the Committee were verbal amendments in sections 53 and 60 of the Act.

The motion was agreed to, and on the motion of MR. REYNOLDS, the clauses of the Bill were considered for settlement in the form recommended by the Select Committee.

The HON. KRISTODAS PAL said the first of the amendments which he had to move had reference to the definition of tari. It was taken from the Northern India Excise Act of 1881. Tari was defined to mean the sap of any kind of palm-tree. The amendment of which he had given notice was to insert after the word "tree" the words "except fresh date-juice," but since coming to the Council Chamber, it was suggested by his hon. friend opposite (Moulvie Mahomed Yusuf) that it would be better to insert the word "unfermented" before the word "sap." The definition would then run as follows:—"Tari means the unfermented sap of any kind of palm-tree." He mentioned the proposed alteration of his amendment to the Hon. Mover, who had no objection to it. BABOO KRISTODAS PAL therefore adopted it. He had explained to the Council at a previous sitting why the fresh juice of the date-tree should not be treated as an exciseable article. The fresh date-juice, on which he laid particular stress, was used as an article of food or drink, and had no intoxicating effect whatever. On this point he had since consulted a friend of his, Baboo Kanye Lall Dey, Rai Bahadoor, who was a well known chemist, and he put him certain questions to which he obtained the following replies:—

Question.	Answer.
1. Is fresh palm or date-juice intoxicating?	1. No.
2. When does vinous fermentation of date-juice commence after it is taken from the tree?	2. Date-juice fresh drawn from the tree, if kept in a clean earthen pot and exposed to the sun will begin to ferment after 10 hours; if mixed with little rice or flour and similarly exposed it will begin to ferment within about two hours; the vinous fermentation will commence much quicker if date-juice is kept in an used pot?

With regard to palm-juice, his friend referred him to a paper of his own on the use of intoxicating stimulants, in which he remarked that when drunk fresh from the tree at day-break or candle-light, the juice of the palm was quite innocuous. He added—"It is a cool and refreshing drink, often recommended for its diuretic properties to those labouring under urinary diseases."

Now the question which BABOO KRISTODAS PAL submitted was whether it would be quite consistent with the policy of the Bill to tax the fresh date-juice or the fresh palm-juice when it had no intoxicating effect. As he had pointed out at a previous sitting, the object of the law was to check the consumption of intoxicating drinks and drugs, but the use of the fresh date or palm-juice was not open to that objection, and consequently he did not think it would be consistent with the acknowledged principle of the excise law to bring them under taxation. He had also then taken occasion to refer to the letter of the Government of India vetoing the Abkari Bill of the Bombay Council which proposed to tax the mhowa flower on precisely the same reasons that had been used for the inclusion of fresh palm and date-juice in the Bill before the Council. His Excellency the Viceroy was of opinion that, "except in the districts of Tanna and Colaba, the use of the mhowa flower as food is sufficient to constitute a strong objection to the policy of the proposed law."

For the same reasons BABOO KRISTODAS PAL contended that the excise law ought not to be extended to the fresh palm or date-juice. It might be urged that practically it would be difficult to make a distinction between unfermented and fermented date or palm-juice. But he observed that the Excise Department already made a distinction in the issue of licenses for the sale of unfermented date-juice and fermented tari. The form of license ran to this effect—

"Be it known to all concerned that the person abovenamed is hereby authorized by the undersigned, Collector of the abovenamed district, to sell fresh tari under the provisions of section 36, Act VII of 1878, during the months of from 6th November 1882 to 31st March 1883. This license does not authorize the holder to sell tari in its fermented state. By doing so without taking out a separate license the holder will render himself liable to the penalty prescribed by Act VII of 1878 for selling fermented liquors without a license"

It would be thus seen that the Excise Department had practically drawn a broad distinction between fermented and unfermented tari—he should not say "tari," because that was a contradiction in terms. In unfermented state the date-juice was not tari, but was known as khajur rus, and was used by the people as such. The distinction made in the form of the license was clear enough, and there would therefore be no practical difficulty in exempting the fresh juice from the scope of the excise law. He need hardly point out that there were many articles of food which by special preparation might be converted into spirituous liquor. He might instance rice, potatoes, sugarcane juice, and the milk of the cocoanut, which he believed was converted into liquor in Bombay. But he had never heard that such articles when used for food were brought under taxation for excise purposes: as articles of food they ought to be exempted from the operation of the excise law.

The HON. MR. REYNOLDS said he could not accept this amendment, and he thought he could show good reasons why the Council ought not to agree to it. In the first place the amendment was, he would not say, of a revolutionary, but at any rate of an unprecedented character. From the speech of the Hon. Mover, and from the paper from the British Indian Association which had been circulated to the Council, it might be thought that this was the first time it had been proposed to impose restrictions on the sale of unfermented tari or date-juice, but so far from this being the case, the fact was that the amendment was in direct contravention of the uniform current of excise legislation for the last seventy years. MR. REYNOLDS had not thought it necessary to go further back than Regulation X of 1813; but in that Regulation he found it declared that tari, whether fresh or fermented, must not be sold without a license from the Collector. Passing on to Act XXI of 1856, which was for a long time the abkaree law for Upper India, the wording there was the same as that used afterwards in the substituted Act X of 1871, which enacted that "all tari, both fresh and fermented, is included in the expression fermented liquors." In the Act of 1881, the present Excise Act for Northern India, the word "tari" was defined to mean the sap of any kind of palm-tree, and it was subjected to excise control. The words of the Bombay Act V of 1878 were very wide indeed. There "toddy" was defined to mean juice drawn from a cocoanut, brab, date, or any kind of palm tree, whether in its fermented or unfermented state; and section 14 of that Act provided that no toddy should be drawn from any tree except under license from the Collector. MR. REYNOLDS thought that all this showed what had been the regular course of legislation not only in Bengal so far as it could be traced back, but also in the North-Western Provinces and in Bombay. This, therefore, was his first objection to the amendment: that it was opposed to the experience and practice of a long course of years.

Secondly, he felt obliged to object to the amendment on account of the danger to the revenue which it involved. It was true that the revenue from unfermented tari was very inconsiderable—only Rs. 23,000; but the whole excise revenue derived from tari was about 6½ lakhs of rupees, and to release unfermented tari from all excise control would very seriously endanger the receipts from the taxation of tari. The revenue from unfermented tari was mostly derived from the Dacca and Chittagong Divisions, and it was from those parts of the province that complaints had been received as to the restrictions put upon the use of unfermented tari. In those divisions there was hardly any revenue from fermented tari; but in the Patna Division, from which no complaints had been received, the receipts from fermented tari were above 4 lakhs of rupees. He could not consent to endanger this revenue by excluding unfermented tari from the operation of the law. What the Government required in the case of unfermented tari was not so much the power of taxation as the power of control, and this power MR. REYNOLDS was not prepared to surrender.

These were two arguments against the amendment, but there was a further reason still. MR. REYNOLDS thought the Hon. Mover of the amendment could not fully have considered the injury which his proposal was likely to do to a cause which no doubt the Hon. Gentlemen had much at heart—the cause of temperance. The object of the excise policy of Government was the repression of drunkenness; and, this being so, MR. REYNOLDS did not see how the Government could possibly abandon its control over the sale, possession, and consumption of a liquor, which became, by a brief and natural process, a highly intoxicating beverage. The Hon. Member had given the Council some account of unfermented tari and of the time it took to ferment. MR. REYNOLDS had consulted the Chemical Examiner on this point, and that gentleman had informed him that chemically there was no difference between the sap of the palm and of the date; that the time they took to ferment varied according to temperature and atmospheric conditions, but that generally speaking, from six to eight hours might be taken as the average time of fermentation. MR. REYNOLDS did not think it would be consistent with the principles of excise legislation to surrender all control over a beverage which possessed such qualities. In the letter from the British Indian Association, he saw it stated that potatoes were largely used in Ireland for the illicit manufacture of rum, but that no one thought fit to make potatoes an exciseable commodity on that account. That rum was made from potatoes in Ireland would be news to most of the Council, but probably the writer of the letter meant whisky. Anyhow, MR. REYNOLDS could not but think that the gentlemen of the British Indian Association must have a poor idea of the intelligence of that Council if they thought that a transparent fallacy of this kind could be palmed off upon it for an argument. Where was the analogy or resemblance between a substance that could be converted into spirit only by an elaborate process of distillation, and the sap of a tree which, by merely standing a few hours, without anything being done to it, became intoxicating? If it were the fact that by the operation of natural causes a basket of potatoes would turn within six hours into a gallon of whisky, there might have been some ground for the argument brought forward, but the facts being as they were, it was almost an insult to the understanding of Hon. Members to ask them to accept the two cases as parallel. He thought that, for these reasons, the Council ought not to agree to this amendment.

He wished to add that he did not see that the amendment, even if it were carried, would give any relief which could not be given under the present law. In the first place, in the memorial from the Eastern Bengal Districts, it was alleged that vexatious interference was exercised with unfermented tari, and that this operated as an obstruction to the manufacture of sugar. But section 62 excluded from the operation of the Act tari when supplied or used for the manufacture of goor or molasses: so that no alteration of the law was required in the interests of the sugar-industry. Then, section 14 went further still and allowed the local Government to suspend all the provisions of the Act relating to tari in any district in which the consumption of fermented tari was inconsiderable.

As fermented tari was very little used in those districts in which complaints had been made, this section of the Act gave the Government power to redress any grievance which might exist without the dangerous interference with the principles of excise legislation which would be involved in accepting this amendment and releasing tari altogether from excise control.

The HON. MAHOMED YUSUF said that he supported this amendment, namely, that tari should be defined as meaning the "fermented" sap of any kind of palm tree, and the reasons for which he supported it were these: He submitted that this definition of "tari" was in effect the same as that which was found in the Imperial Council's Act XXII of 1881 for the North-Western Provinces; for in that Act he found that in section 3, clause (e), tari was first defined as meaning the sap of any kind of palm-tree. That would at first sight include unfermented as well as fermented tari, but clause (f) of the same section provided that "fermented liquor means malt liquor, wine, pachwai, and fermented tari, and in any provisions of this Act shall, if the Local Government, subject to the control of the Governor-General in Council, so directs, include any other fermented liquor, and also tari, though it may not have perceptibly begun to ferment." This was in effect the definition now proposed by the amendment, because, under the Act of 1881, what was taxed was not tari, but "fermented liquor," and until the Local Government had taken action in the matter, unfermented tari was not, by virtue of anything expressly contained in the Act, included within "fermented liquor." That being the state of the law in the North-Western Provinces, the next thing was to consider how the law had stood before the Act of 1881 was passed, whether that Act had simply declared the then existing law, or whether there was any change made in that law by the Act of 1881, and if the existing law was altered by the Act of 1881, whether this Council would not also be justified in making a similar change in the law as it stood at present for Lower Bengal. The Act which preceded Act XXII of 1881 was Act X of 1871, and in that Act it was provided by section 16 that "all the provisions relating to the sale or possession of fermented liquors apply to the sale or possession of tari, whether in a fermented state or otherwise, and all tari, both fresh and fermented, is included in the expression 'fermented liquors.'"

It is thus quite clear that, like the Act of the Bengal Council under consideration, the Act which preceded Act XXII of 1881 in unmistakable terms included both fresh and fermented tari in the definition of "fermented liquors." His contention was that the Act now under consideration, although it was in the same terms as the above section of Act X of 1871, should be amended as far as the question of tari was concerned, so as to make it in conformity with the Act of 1881. He thought also that the sum total of the reasons bearing on this question rather pointed to the conclusion that the Council should adopt the proposed definition, which he supported the more readily and with greater confidence, now that it was found that it was similar to that adopted for the North-Western Provinces, by which unfermented tari was excluded from the definition of "fermented liquors."

He thought that there was nothing peculiar in the law of Bengal why the proposed definition should not be adopted; but on the other hand, if the law of Bengal were to be compared with that of the North-Western Provinces, the circumstances would be found more clearly in favour of the amendment. The short history of the law was this. The first Regulation on the point was Regulation XXXIV of 1793, and from that Regulation it was only necessary for him to read the preamble and one or two sections. The preamble was as follows:—

"The immoderate use of spirituous liquors and intoxicating drugs having become prevalent amongst many of the lower orders of the people, from the very inconsiderable price at which they were manufactured and sold, and the proceedings of the criminal courts having evinced that the robberies and other disorders committed in the country were in a great measure ascribable to the want of proper restrictions on the manufacture and vend of such liquors and drugs, the Governor-General in Council, with a view to prevent the perpetration of crimes, and at the same time to augment the public revenue, passed certain rules on the 6th of April 1790 and subsequent dates. Those rules are now re-enacted with modifications."

Then section 12 of that Regulation made this provision—

"A tax shall be levied on toddy at the rate of twenty-five per cent. on the amount of the rents specified on the pottahs granted by the proprietors of the toddy-trees to the pausees, or extractors of the toddy."

and section 13 provided against any attempt on behalf of the proprietors of toddy-trees to defraud the Government.

That was the beginning of the law on the subject, and the Council would be pleased to observe that there was no tax on the sale of tari, but a tax of 25 per cent. was levied on the amount of the rents specified in the pottahs granted by the proprietors of the toddy-trees. This Regulation, which was at first intended only for Bengal and Behar, was extended to Benares by Regulation XLVII of 1795; so that he found that from 1795 at least the law for Benares was the same as that for Bengal and Behar.

Then Regulation VI of 1800 was passed, and that Regulation was to have operation throughout Bengal, Behar, Orissa and Benares, and section 9 of the Regulation made the following provision:—

"The following amended form of license, after the expiration of the licenses now in force for the manufacture and vend of spirituous liquors (including toddy or tari in its fermented state) is to be adopted in lieu of that prescribed by section 10, Regulation XXXIV of 1793."

So that by this Regulation of 1800 it was clear that it was the fermented tari, when sold, that was the subject of taxation. He was no doubt aware that there was a provision bearing on the present question in section 11, which ran as follows:—

"The several provisions contained in this and the former Regulations respecting the sale of spirituous liquors are hereby declared applicable, with an exception to the rate of duty, to toddy or tari, viz. the juice or taur, khajur and narecal trees, whenever the same may be sold in a fermented state or, though not in a state of fermentation, by any other person than the passees or extractors of the toddy who pay the tax of twenty-five per cent. on the rents of the tari-trees prescribed by sections 12 and 13, Regulation XXXIV of 1793, which are still to be considered in full force."

The consequence of this Regulation was that the passees could sell unfermented tari without paying any fresh tax; and that any other person who intended to sell tari, whether in a state of fermentation or otherwise, was obliged to take out a license.

This was followed by Regulation I of 1805, which was passed exclusively for Behar and Benares, and the Council would see the reasons which led to the inclusion within its provisions of all tari, fresh or fermented. That Regulation was a Regulation "for commuting the tax at present levied on taur, khajur and narecal trees in the provinces of Behar and Benares to a tax on the sale of the tari, whether in a fermented or unfermented state," and the preamble of that Regulation declared that—

"Whereas section 11, Regulation VI of 1800 established rules for levying a duty on the juice of the taur, khajur, and narecal trees when sold in a fermented state, or when sold in an unfermented state, by any other persons than the passees or extractors of tari; and whereas in consequence of the rapid fermentation of tari when extracted from the trees, it has been found impracticable to distinguish with precision between the sale of the liquor in a fermented and unfermented state, so as to prevent the sale of it in the former state without the regular license required to be taken out by all persons vending tari in a fermented state; and whereas great inconvenience has been experienced in respect to the police of the country, in the provinces of Behar and Benares, from the sale of tari in a fermented state by the passees or extractors not paying the license duties, and whereas it has been ascertained that in the above provinces tari in an unfermented state is little used, and that consequently no material inconvenience can be experienced by the inhabitants from subjecting the sale of it in every state to the payment of the license duty prescribed by section 11, Regulation VI of 1800, for the sale of tari in a fermented state."

The Council would be pleased to observe that this was the first Regulation by which fresh tari was taxed, and the Council would also be pleased to observe that the Regulation was not to have any operation in Bengal; that it was passed for Behar and Benares on the express ground that no material inconvenience would be experienced from the inclusion of fresh tari; that the inconvenience of distinguishing between fresh and fermented tari was not the only ground for the passing of this Regulation; and that notwithstanding all the inconvenience that Regulation would not have been passed, if after enquiries that were made it had not been "ascertained" that in Behar and Benares tari in an unfermented state was little used, and that consequently no material inconvenience could be experienced by the inhabitants from subjecting the sale of it in every state to the payment of license duty.

Section 2 of this Regulation enacted—

"That sections 12 and 13, Regulation XXXIV of 1793, and section 11, Regulation VI of 1800, as far as the latter section exempts the extractors of tari from the payment of a license duty on the sale of the liquor in an unfermented state, are hereby rescinded in the provinces of Behar and Benares."

and section 6 provided that the rules prescribed in sections 12 and 13, Regulation XXXIV of 1793, and in section 2, Regulation VI of 1800 should still remain in force within the provinces of Bengal and Orissa; so that he found that the law for Behar and Benares was altered by changing the definition of tari so as to include tari in an unfermented state earlier than the alteration took place in Bengal, which was some time later, as he would presently show.

Regulation I of 1808 was followed by Regulation X of 1813, by which all the previous Regulations were swept away, and tari, whether in a fermented or unfermented state was subjected to a license by section 15. From 1808 up to 1881 in the North-Western Provinces, and from 1813 up to the present time in Bengal, the law had been the same, namely, it included fermented and fresh tari within the definition of exciseable articles. This Regulation was followed in Bengal by Act XXI of 1856, which was called the Bengal Abkari Act, and in that Act also fermented liquor included both fresh and fermented tari. Then followed Bengal Act VII of 1878, now under consideration, which adopted the previous definition and included both fresh and fermented tari. This was the legislation in Bengal. For the North-Western Provinces he found that by Act X of 1864, and Act XXVIII of 1864, the Bengal Abkari Act XXI of 1856 was extended to the provinces under the control of the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab. Those Acts were repealed by Act X of 1871, and by that Act tari, whether fresh or fermented, was included within the definition of "fermented liquors." This, as had already been shown was repealed by Act XXII of 1881, and so far as the law at present stood, subject to any notification by the Local Government, fresh tari was not within the definition of fermented liquor in the North-Western Provinces, and that, MOULVIE MAHOMED YUSUF submitted, was the definition this Council should adopt.

Again, the object of all legislation for the taxation of drinks which might be intoxicating in their effect on the human system was the prevention of the spread of drunkenness by making the drink more costly. It was not merely for fiscal purposes that the Excise law was to be enacted. Accordingly, the preamble to Regulation XXXIV of 1793, cited above, professed to lay down certain rules "with a view to prevent the perpetration of crimes and at the same time to augment public revenue." And section 19, Regulation VI of 1800 also purported to lay down certain rules "with a view to check the immoderate use of spirituous liquors, including toddy in its fermented state, by enhancing the price to the consumer, as well as to give the Magistrate a more immediate and efficient control, and to render the tax as much as possible conducive to the general purposes of the police;" but a harmless drink such as the khajur ras, which was in no way intoxicating, but which was a mere article of food, could not come within the scope or operation of the Excise law, and should not be classified with exciseable articles.

But it might be objected that to adopt this definition would be to introduce uncertainty in the law, the uncertainty arising from the easy stage of transition by which the harmless khajur ras became an intoxicating liquor; but without using other arguments against that objection, his principal answer to that objection was that, if it applied to Bengal, it also applied to the North-Western Provinces, where it was not apparently considered to be of sufficient force to prevail upon the Legislature to retain the definition of Act X of 1871.

All considerations based on uncertainty, inconvenience, and the like, must have occurred to the Supreme Council when the Act of 1881 was before them, and he had looked into the Proceedings of the Council for reasons which led the Legislature to change the law from what it was in Act X of 1871 to the form which it took in the Act of 1881: but no reasons were expressly assigned for the alteration. He could only find that it was on the 13th April 1881 that leave was asked to introduce the Bill: that on the 20th April 1881 the Bill itself was introduced in the Council with the provision as to tari now under consideration as in the latter Act, and the report of the Select Committee, of which His Honor was a member, was presented on the 5th of October and considered on the 26th of October 1881 without any allusion to the change in the wording of the definitions of "tari" and "fermented liquors" now under consideration. The Bill was also passed on the 26th October 1881. He was therefore not in a position to state the reasons which led to the change, although he was quite sure that the matter was considered in all its bearings and from all points of view. He thought that perhaps the thing was quite obvious, and therefore it was not considered necessary to give any reason, the points being too clear to admit of any doubt. But whatever was the reason, there was the law in its present shape in the Act of 1881, and he submitted that, in that respect, the Act of the Bengal Council should be made to conform to the Imperial Act of 1881.

The HON. MR. ALLEN had only six words to say. Reference had been made in the papers circulated from the British Indian Association to potatoes in Ireland, from which we are told rum is manufactured. But the proper reference would have been to malt, from which most of the spirituous and fermented liquor in England is made, and there was no subject in regard to which the excise exercised a more rigid control than malt As to the innocent character of fresh tari, we must suppose that, let chemists say what they may, in practice there was no such thing. He had lived in districts where the khajur ras was largely consumed, and he found that whenever his servants drank it during the day, they returned muddled in the evening and with bad headaches in the morning.

The HON. MR. DAMPIER said he wished to make a few remarks directly on the speech of the Hon. Member who spoke last but one. Every one knew how dangerous a thing it was to quote an imperfect extract. In the first place he must protest against what the Hon. Member said at the end of his speech. At the beginning of his statement he read the preamble of an old regulation, in which it was said that the object of the taxation was first to stop drunkenness, and secondly to increase the public revenue. And at the end of his speech he went back to that preamble and argued that fresh tari should not be brought under excise control because it did not create drunkenness, and because in that preamble the object of abkari legislation was said to be to put a stop to drunkenness; and here the Hon. Member omitted all mention of the secondary object mentioned in that preamble, viz. to raise revenue.

The position now taken was that, although it might be undesirable in itself to interfere with tari while actually fresh, yet that, owing to the fact of it so speedily becoming a liquor causing drunkenness, it was absolutely necessary, for the effective operation of the measures taken for checking the consumption of spirituous liquors by taxing them, that some restrictions should be put on the possession of fresh tari, and that it should be brought under excise control.

Then MR. DAMPIER proceeded to the second point. As he understood the Hon. Member, his argument rested in a great degree on this, that the Northern India Excise Act of 1881 of the Imperial Council deliberately excluded the fresh juice from the list of articles brought under excise control, although it had been included among such articles by the previous legislation in force up to that time. The Hon. Member had said that it was true that in section 3 clause (e) of the Act of 1882, tari was defined to mean the sap of any kind of palm-tree, but that the very next clause (f) drew the teeth out of the last definition, for it provided that fermented liquor meant "malt liquor, wine, pachwai and fermented tari." This second clause (f) the Hon. Member said really withdrew unfermented tari from the definition in the preceding clause. The Hon. Member could scarcely wish this Council to accept the first sentence of this clause without looking at the rest of the clause. The clause ran on to say that "in any provision of this Act, if the local Government, subject to the control of the Governor-General in Council, so directs, fermented liquor shall include any other fermented liquor and also tari, though it may not perceptibly have begun to ferment." Therefore, the real argument to be founded on these two clauses was that in the Act of 1881 the Imperial Legislature deliberately recognised the policy of the previous Acts by which fresh tari was brought within the control of excise administration for excise purposes, and this was the direct opposite of the argument which the Hon. Member had attempted to draw from these clauses.

The HON. HURBANS SAHAI said he was of opinion that the definitions contained in clauses (e) and (f) which had been referred to should be adopted, because, as far as Behar was concerned at least, he thought the law should be the same as that for the North-Western Provinces.

The HON. MR. REYNOLDS rose to order, and pointed out that there was no such motion before the Council.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT ruled that the Hon. Member was out of order in speaking of a question which was not before the Council.

The HON. HURBANS SAHAI said that in that case he would content himself by supporting the adoption of clause (e).

The HON. MAHOMED YUSUF remarked, in explanation of what had fallen from the Hon. Member opposite (Mr. Dampier), that he had read all the words of definition (f) up to the end, and he had argued that even if the Local Government did not include tari as a kind of fermented liquor, still the effect of clause (e), taken in connection with clause (f), was to include tari, whether fermented or unfermented, unless the Local Government thought proper to exclude fresh tari.

The HON. MR. DAMPIER asked whether it was or was not the gist of the Hon. Member's argument that the Act of 1881 deliberately and intentionally reversed the policy of the Legislature in bringing tari within excise control.

The HON. KRISTODAS PAL said his hon. friend opposite (Moulvie Mahomed Yusuf) had partly anticipated him in answering the legal objections which had been taken by the Hon. Mover of the Bill to this amendment, and he would not therefore again traverse the ground which his hon. friend had gone over in giving the history of legislation on the subject. He thought it was abundantly clear, from what had fallen from his hon. friend, that the primary object of legislation ninety years ago was to check the spread of the use of intoxicating drugs and drinks. The secondary object was of course revenue; but the primary object was sought to be attained by combining the fiscal and moral functions of the Government. The best way of preventing the immoderate use of intoxicating articles was to impose an excise tax on their manufacture and sale. It would be superfluous to argue this point when it had been repeatedly declared by Government that revenue was not the object of excise legislation, but the discouragement of the use of intoxicating drugs and drinks and the prevention of crime. As to the revenue part of the question, he considered it quite subsidiary to the great moral question involved in excise legislation. In commenting on the amendment, the Hon. Mover had been pleased to charge him with being revolutionary, because he had ventured to propose an amendment which was not quite in accordance with past legislation on the subject, and he called the proposal unprecedented. BABOO KRISTODAS PAL was quite willing to plead guilty to the soft impeachment. If it was revolutionary to declare that the Legislature should not tax articles of food or drink, he would not object to being called "revolutionary." He did maintain that nature had given the fresh juice and man should not tax it. In these days of progressive administration, neither the Government nor the Legislature clung to the traditions of the past. The Government now-a-days looked ahead; it was progressive; and how many measures had been of late propounded or passed which tended to shew the progressive spirit in legislation and executive administration. In that very Council at the last meeting the Hon. Mover had himself applied for leave to introduce a Bill, the object of which was to give an onward push to the political aspirations of the people, and could it be said that his hon. friend was "revolutionary," because he was made the messenger of that progressive manifesto? He proceeded in accordance with the spirit of the age, with the modern spirit of legislation and administration, and in the same spirit BABOO KRISTODAS PAL asked, if in past legislation innocent drinks were considered exciseable articles, and if on examination it was found that they were not fit subjects for excise duty, surely he, sitting in this Council, had a right to rise to the occasion and interrogate the Council whether they should follow the legislation of the past, merely because it was past legislation.

In referring to some of the Acts to which BABOO KRISTODAS PAL had adverted in moving his amendment, his hon. friend called attention to the Bombay Toddy Act, and he said that under that Act the milk of the cocoanut was included as an exciseable article. BABOO KRISTODAS PAL knew that, when the milk of the cocoanut was converted into intoxicating liquor, it was treated as an exciseable article, but he was not aware that the fresh milk of the cocoanut was taxed in Bombay as fresh date-juice was taxed in Bengal. Then his hon. friend spoke of the serious sacrifice of revenue which would be involved by the exemption of fresh date-juice; but what was the amount of revenue derived from fresh date-juice—according to his own statement the sum of Rs. 23,000! But it was remarked that the revenue from fermented tari was 6½ lakhs, and if the fresh juice was exempted the revenue from tari would be endangered. BABOO KRISTODAS PAL did not understand by what process of reasoning his hon. friend had come to that conclusion. Probably he thought a distinction could not practically be made between fermented and unfermented tari, and therefore there would be a loss of revenue. BABOO KRISTODAS Pal had read to the Council the form of license granted for the sale of fresh date-juice, and that form made a broad distinction between the fermented and unfermented article. And if that was practically done now, why could not the same distinction be made hereafter, should the Legislature exempt fresh tari or date-juice from the scope of the excise law? Therefore the bogey of loss of revenue from fresh tari was simply chimerical. It was said that it was only in the Dacca and Chittagong Divisions that fresh date-juice was licensed for excise purposes to any large extent. But BABOO KRISTODAS PAL had heard complaints on the subject from the 24-Pergunnahs, and he might mention that criminal prosecutions were instituted in large numbers in the 24-Pergunnahs, and after a great deal of remonstrance those prosecutions were stopped; but whether such complaints were more frequent in the 24-Pergunnahs or in the Dacca and Chittagong Divisions was quite immaterial. The real point was whether it was consistent with the principles of excise legislation to tax articles of food or drink which were not intoxicating in their effects, and that was the point which he submitted for the consideration of the Council.

[The HON. MR. DAMPIER remarked that the effect of the amendment would be not only to exempt fresh tari from taxation, but from excise supervision as well.]

The HON. KRISTODAS PAL continued—Supervision was exercised by the licensing system. But what supervision was necessary over articles of food or drink? Was any supervision exercised over the sale of rice because it was converted by a special preparation into rum? Why should fresh date-juice be singled out as the article which should be brought within the cognizance of the Excise Department for purposes of supervision? It might be said that it got fermented in ten or twelve hours, it then became tari, and when it became tari it was fully within the cognizance of the Excise Department; but when it was fresh and was drunk as an innocent beverage, it should not be brought within the control of the Excise Department, because it was not then an exciseable article. His hon. friend was pleased to appeal to the cause of temperance against the amendment, but BABOO KRISTODAS PAL could not perceive the force of that appeal. Khujur rus was innocuous, and taken in any quantity did not produce intoxication. He could not therefore understand how he sacrificed the cause of temperance by urging its exemption from the Act, and he did not think that the interests of temperance would suffer in the least degree from such exemption. Then his hon. friend said much would not be gained practically by the amendment, because after all there were provisions in the Act which enabled the Government to exclude certain parts of the country from the operation of the law as regards tari. He would remind the Council here of an incident which took place in 1878 when the Hon. Member passed the Bill of 1878 through the Council. He found on reference to the proceedings of the Council, held on the 13th April 1878, that he had raised this very question when the clauses of the Bill were under consideration by the Council. Then, however, he did not in his proposal include the fresh date-juice, for he was not then aware that the Board of Revenue was going to include by a circular fresh date-juice under the name of tari. Therefore he had then only referred to fresh palm-juice; and the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill was pleased to say that "there was no intention to interfere vexatiously with the production and use of fresh tari."

It would thus be seen that the same answer was given in 1878 which his hon. friends now gave in 1882. But what had been the history of the action of the Excise Department in the working of the law. He had quoted on the last occasion the Board's circular which declared fresh date-juice to be included in the term tari; he had also quoted the memorial of the East Bengal Landholders' Association complaining bitterly of the hardships, injustice, and annoyance caused on this account in those districts; he had also read an extract from the report of the Board of Revenue confirming in a manner the statement that unfermented date-juice had been largely taxed in the Dacca and Chittagong Divisions. That had been practically the working of the discretion on which his hon. friend relied in 1878 in reply to the objection taken on that occasion. The other day the hon. and learned legal member of the Government of India in moving for the amendment of the rules of business urged that not only the Legislative Bills, but also the rules issued under them, should be published beforehand for general information in order to elicit public criticism, the inference being that there should be as little room for discretionary legislation as possible. Following the spirit of the remark of the hon. and learned law member he (BABOO KRISTODAS PAL) submitted that the taxation of fresh date-juice should not be left to the discretion of the Board of Revenue, but that it should be settled definitely in the Act of the Legislature. For these reasons he contended that this amendment should be passed.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT said he had a few observations to offer before putting the motion to the vote. The difficulty of attempting to introduce the smallest amendments into any existing law was well exemplified by the proceedings of to-day. The Excise law of Bengal was considered so short a time back as 1878; it was a consolidating measure and brought together all past legislation into one Act. In the present Bill the original intention was limited to the addition of a single section of the law for the purpose of giving power to lay down rules for regulating the importation and bonding of liquor manufactured in any part of British India beyond the limits of the territory to which the Act extended; but in the course of the discussion of this simple object the Bill had grown from a Bill of one section into a Bill of fifteen or twenty sections. Thus, in enlarging the scope of the Bill, the Council found themselves committed to the discussion again of all the old questions which it was supposed had been long ago disposed of—questions of policy and principle, and amongst them the one raised to-day, whether tari in an unfermented state should or should not be exempted from taxation. Now it was certain that the decision on this point went even much further back than 1878. There were two subjects which should be considered in dealing with excise matters: the first was to check the spread of intoxication; and secondly, to secure what was in all countries a legitimate source of revenue. On both these considerations he thought the amendment was one which should be opposed. The Hon Mover of the amendment had pressed on the Council the point which had been met by the Hon. Member in charge of the Bill that this measure was similar to one passed by the Bombay Legislature, which had been recently vetoed by His Excellency the Viceroy, and the argument he urged was that the Council might as well tax rice or potatoes or any other article of harmless food in the same way as it was now proposed to tax unfermented tari. The answer to that was very simple. In the Bombay case the mowha was a fruit used by the people as food. It required some careful artificial process of manufacture to convert it into an intoxicating liquor, and the same might be said of rice and potatoes and other such products. But, upon the showing of the Hon. Member himself, tari could not be enumerated in the same category, for tari or date juice by a natural process in a very short period of time was transferred into a strong intoxicant, and the Council might be quite certain under the circumstances that the result of excluding unfermented tari from the excise regulations would be that all over the country the Government would not only lose its control over the improper use of the article, and thus tend to increase drunkenness, but would also lose its revenue from fermented tari, because the whole produce of the palm and date trees would be simply kept and allowed to turn into fermented liquor, and this could neither be prevented by the Excise Officer nor brought under taxation by the Collector. His Honor was ready to admit that he was not above considerations of revenue in this matter. Practically and actually as regards the consumption of unfermented tari, its exemption might involve a very small loss, but if it was once exempted on the ground proposed, the whole revenue derived from tari would be imperilled. There was naturally an impatience of taxation in the hearts of most people, and perhaps nowhere more so than in India. The Government was taken to task for keeping on the license-tax because it brought in no large and increasing revenue; the stamp law was objected to as arbitrary and excessive; and so with regard to excise on spirituous liquors and other kinds of taxation, the parties who were affected by them in different ways wished the taxes which affected them to be taken off. It was clear that if all effective sources of revenue were to be abandoned, administration would be impossible, especially in days when greater demands were being made upon Government for reforms and improvements of all kinds. Here, even if the proposal for exemption was made now for the first time, it could not be entertained, because it would seriously jeopardise the public revenue; but really in the present case the Council was dealing with a question which, as was shown by the Hon. Member on the left (Moulvie Mahomed Yusuf) went so far back as 1813. Whatever the principle might have been prior to that time it was hardly possible to be certain without very minute examination, but certainly from 1813 up to this date tari in an unfermented condition had always been included within the purview of excise taxation. The Hon. Member traced the law down to 1881, when the Government of India passed the amending Act re-enacting the Excise law of the North-Western Provinces. On that he made his stand, and asked and urged the Council to adopt the definition of tari given there, which, as the Hon. Member on the right (Mr. Dampier) had shown did really not exclude unfermented tari. It seemed to His Honor that if the Council did really wish to re-consider the question from the point of view of what was the best form of definition, that which prevailed under the last Act of the Government of India, or that which governed excise administration in Bengal passed in 1878, remembering that tari, both fresh and unfermented, had always been the subject of taxation for the last seventy years, there was really no ground for a change in the law as it at present stood in these provinces. The difference would be just this, that while the Government of India made it possible for the local Government to exclude tari in an unfermented state when it was not considered advisable to subject it to duty, the protection here given was by section 14 of the Act of 1878, which enabled the revenue authorities to suspend the operation of the law by excluding all tari where its consumption even in a fermented state was inconsiderable. The remedy for any grievous abuse was in the hands of the chief revenue officers and would be rightly exercised.

On these grounds—on the ground that it was not open to the objection which was taken to the Bombay legislation as taxing an innocent beverage, an objection which His Honor thought did not apply to tari; and on the ground that there was no just reason for going back from the policy of seventy years, and excluding unfermented tari from liability to duty—he felt bound to oppose this amendment.

The question was then put and negatived on the following division :—

Ayes 4.	Noes 7.
The Hon. Hurbans Sahai.	The Hon. Mr. Caithness.
The Hon. Mahomed Yusuf.	The Hon. Mr. Allen.
The Hon. Bhudeb Mookerjee.	Colonel the Hon. S. T. Trevor.
The Hon. Kristodas Pal.	The Hon. Mr. Macaulay.
	The Hon. Mr. Reynolds.
	The Hon. Mr. Dampier.
	The Hon. the President.

The Hon. Kristodas Pal moved that in section 3, paragraph 2, line 2, the words "for the manufacture of spirituous liquors" be inserted after the word "still." He said that as the Hon. Member in charge of the Bill seemed disposed to accept this amendment he need not adduce any arguments in support of it.

The HON. MR. REYNOLDS said he accepted the principle of the amendment, but he had reason to complain of some of the language which had been used in connection with the question Any one would think, from the letter of the British Indian Association, that this was the first time it was ever proposed to make the possession of an unlicensed still an offence. If the Council would turn to section 39 of the existing law, they would see that the necessity for inserting section 3 of this amending Bill was really nothing more than a matter of drafting, and that it made no difference whatever in the law. Section 39 of Act VII of 1878 empowered excise officers to arrest persons having in their possession unlicensed stills and to seize the stills. There was, however, no provision in the Act declaring the possession of an unlicensed still illegal; and section 3 of the Bill was therefore inserted. He did not, however, object to the amendment.

The HON. KRISTODAS PAL said in explanation that his object in proposing this amendment was simply to prevent any misconception which might arise. He quite agreed with the Hon. Mover that it was a mere question of drafting.

The HON. MAHOMED YUSUF said that according to the ordinary principles of the construction of Statutes this section of the Bill would be read as if the words now proposed to be inserted were already in the section, because the object of the Excise Act was to prevent unlawful dealing with exciseable articles; and the words "possession of a still" occurring in section 10A must evidently mean the possession of a still contrary to the object and intention of the Act. But inasmuch as the object of the amendment was to make that expressly clear which was so by implication, and to state clearly the intention of the law by introducing certain words in the section, he supported the amendment.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The HON. KRISTODAS PAL moved that in section 4, paragraph 2, the words "imported by sea" be omitted; and also that paragraph 4 of the same section be left out. He said that this question had been raised in Select Committee in amending the Bill. It might be in the recollection of hon. members that when the Bill was re-committed, it was suggested that the law should declare specifically the quantity for the retail sale of spirituous liquors, giving power to the Board of Revenue to increase that quantity if they thought it proper. In Committee it was proposed that the quantity for the retail sale of country liquors should be reduced from twelve bottles to one bottle, retaining, however, the existing quantity for the sale of imported liquors. He considered it his duty in Committee to object to this alteration, and his reasons for doing so were, firstly, that no satisfactory reason had been given shewing why the quantity for the retail sale of country spirits should be reduced, and whether the existing rule had led to any abuse; and secondly, that by making what he could not but consider an invidious distinction between imported and country liquor, the Excise Department would practically encourage the consumption of imported liquor. As far as he understood the Hon. Mover, he intended to consult the Board of Revenue on the subject, and he believed he adhered to the amendment after consulting the Board. BABOO KRISTODAS PAL thought it was due to the Council that when a material alteration of this kind was proposed, the reasons for it should be fully laid before it. He for one, whether in Council or in Committee, had not been made acquainted with the reasons which had led to the proposed alteration. The only reason assigned was that formerly the limit of one seer was fixed for the retail sale of country spirits. But it was not explained why the limit of one quart bottle was raised to twelve bottles in the law of 1878, and why it was now considered necessary to revert to the old limit of one seer. Perhaps it might be urged that the quantity was fixed according to the custom of the trade, that those who purchased imported liquor bought by the dozen, and those who used country spirits bought it by the bottle. That might be the reason which had led to the alteration proposed, but he submitted that if that was the reason, surely it could not have been absent from the mind of the Hon. Member who introduced the original Bill in 1873, because the Act of 1878 dated its origin from 1873. It was introduced when Sir George Campbell was Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, and afterwards the charge of the Bill was taken over by his hon. friend on the left (Mr. Dampier). BABOO KRISTODAS PAL submitted that when the Legislature in passing the law in 1878 made a material alteration by raising the limit for the retail sale of country liquor from one to twelve bottles, he thought they must have had good and sufficient reasons for making the alteration, and he had not heard of any new circumstances or reasons which necessitated a return to the old rule. He had referred to the custom of the trade as probably affording the reason for the change now proposed, but he submitted that that was not the invariable custom. He learned that in Calcutta, for instance, country liquor was frequently sold by the dozen like imported liquor. In the mofussil, it was true, it was largely sold by the bottle, but he was informed that in many instances, three, four, five, six, and even a dozen and two dozen bottles were purchased at a time; and, particularly when punchayets were held, large purchases were made. He believed it was also becoming the practice in many parts of the country to purchase more than one bottle for home consumption, so that it could not be strictly accurate to say that country liquor was purchased by the bottle, and therefore the proposed limitation of retail sale to one bottle. He repeated that he should like to know the reason why the Board in 1878 recommended the increase of the limit for the retail sale of country spirits from one to twelve quart bottles

He hoped he might be permitted to say that he was an advocate of temperance, and that any measure which might conduce to the suppression of intoxication and drunkenness would have his hearty support. If the proposal had been that the maximum quantity for retail sale should be reduced all round, he would most readily and willingly give his support to it. By all means let the limit be reduced, if considered necessary in the interests of temperance; but if, as had been shewn clearly in some of the Government resolutions, country liquor was less deleterious than the imported liquor sold in mofussil shops, he held that any impediment to the consumption of country liquor in preference to imported liquor would be most detrimental to the interests of the community. He feared that if the limit for the retail sale of country spirits was reduced, the consumption of imported liquors of the kind he had indicated would be necessarily encouraged. He did not know if he was quite right in raising the question of free trade policy in connection with the subject, but if the consumption of imported spirits was encouraged or facilitated to the prejudice of country liquor, it would be in a manner protecting the importation of the foreign article, and such a course would be opposed to the acknowledged free trade policy of the Government. He found, on referring to the Statement of objects and reasons, that one of the objects of the Bill was to meet the legal objection taken at the High Court as to the power of the Board to regulate the quantities for retail sale. But it was not urged in that statement that the quantity for the retail sale of country liquor should be reduced. Evidently the idea was an afterthought; and as he had already said, not being acquainted with the real reasons which had led to the alteration, he could only answer his hon. friend in anticipation of what he might have to say. He hoped the reasons he had adduced would satisfy the Council that no case has been made out for the alteration which had been made in the Bill.

The HON. MR. ALLEN said: Sir, I was one of the Select Committee, and I dare to defend this invidious distinction. But for the previous experience I have had of the sort of objections which commend themselves to the mind of the Hon. Member who moved the amendment, I should be exceedingly surprised at his action on the present occasion. From the manner in which this amendment has been brought forward, one would suppose that the Bill before the Council is now introducing an important practical change; but this is not the case. The limit of twelve seers for sale of country spirits in the former Act is rather a theoretical limit than a practical one, as the Hon. Member in charge of the Bill will doubtless fully explain. As a fact, I believe nowhere are twelve seers of country spirits allowed to be sold retail, and the only effect of the present amendment, if accepted throughout the provinces, must be to afford increased facilities for unlicensed vend of country spirits, with a very probable increase of mofussil drunkenness. We have lately read in the vernacular press ad nauseam of the terrible demoralization that has attended the abolition of the sudder distillery system, because, forsooth, the various secret agencies for the surreptitious sale of country spirits have been brought to the surface and made to contribute their quota to the general revenues. I cannot for a moment suppose that the Hon. Mover of the amendment has the least desire to increase this demoralisation: on the contrary he has professed himself to be an ardent advocate of temperance. But then he has a horror of "invidious distinctions." He would probably defend himself by saying with Brutus "not that I loved sobriety less, but I loved equality more." Now I would observe that equality is not always equity. In arithmetic, if we have two different numerators, and put the same denominator under both, we shall get fractions of very different values. Let any one place a five maunds load on the back of a Bengalee coolie and on a Chinese porter, the results will be somewhat different: nature will in this case prove pretty clearly that equality was not equity. Before, therefore, the amendment before the Council could be justified on the ground of twelve seers being the limit for retail sale of imported spirits, the mover was bound to shew that the circumstances under which imported liquor and country spirits are consumed are identical. Now I contend that there is not the slightest analogy or similarity between the two traffics. The persons by whom the trade in the two different kinds of spirits is carried on differ toto cœlo; the consumers are altogether different, and the circumstances under which they purchase and consume the liquor differ also. The drinking public of Bengal consist of two classes at the extreme poles of the social scale—one the so-called advanced and enlightened Baboo, who with a greater or less knowledge of the English language unfortunately too often imbibe a taste for imported liquors; on the other hand the consumers of country liquor are that unclassifiable residuum which is even beyond the pale of the indigenous vernacular schools. The gulf between the two classes is simply impassable. I have heard of Baboos—I have known Baboos who took to champagne and ice. I have heard of those who loved brown sherry, and of numerous others who took to a variety of drinks, but I never heard of any with the least tincture of English education who came so low as country spirits. On the other hand, it is exceedingly unlikely that those who consume country spirits would take to imported liquor. In Calcutta there might perhaps be an amalgamation of the two classes, but in the mofussil those who consume country spirits will continue to do so, whether the limit of retail sale be one seer or twelve seers. The essence of the distinction between the consumers of the two classes of spirits consists in this, that those who drink country spirits drink it on the premises where it is sold, as any one can see who goes a few miles from Calcutta and pays a visit to the first sooree's shop he comes across. Country spirits are, to quote the expression of the Hon. Mover of the amendment, essentially the poor man's luxury.

On hât days one may see a dozen or twenty peasants, palki bearers, dhobees, or such like in front of the sooree's shop in a circle, each man sitting on his heels in what may be called the national attitude. The sooree goes round with an earthen kulsi of liquor under his left arm, a two or three chittack measure in his right hand, and as he passes round he pours down the throat of each of his customers the small measure full of spirits. Will the Hon. Member pretend to say that it would be right to allow that spirit vendor to pour down those innocent throats twelve seers of country spirits? On a recent occasion, when a somewhat similar question was before the House of Commons, an Hon. Member laid it down as an indisputable principle that every man has a natural right to as much liquor as he can carry—and more. I accept the criterion. Judged by it, our Bill infringes no natural right. The Hon. Mover of the amendment will himself admit that one seer of country spirits is as much as any of his clients can carry—and more. The inference under such circumstances necessarily arises that the rules provided for the retail sale of country spirits should be such as are laid down for a sale under a license to drink on the premises, and must be different from those which would be applicable to such places as the Great Eastern Hotel, Bissonath Law and Company, and similar places for the sale of imported liquors. To say that an invidious distinction has been made because different rules are provided for a totally different state of circumstances argues, I venture to submit, a very warped judgment. It has been said that in reading a man finds in a book exactly what his mind brings to its perusal, and probably the same is true of a Bill.

The invidious distinction which the Hon. Mover of the amendment finds in the rules laid down in this Bill therefore is only the objective presentiment of the invidious distinction which already exists subjectively in his own mind. Having passed through its focus, the external image is necessarily an inverted reproduction of the original. I trust, Sir, the Council will lend no countenance to this morbid sensitiveness, this perverted ingenuity—the curse of Young Bengal, whose main support is derived from the perpetual discovering of "invidious distinction."

The HON'BLE MAHOMED YUSUF said that in this instance he was unable to support the amendment, although his reasons were not exactly the same with those which had just been given to the Council. He based his opinion on what had passed in the Select Committee, of which he was a member. It was true that no allusion was made in the statement of objects and reasons accompanying the Bill to the point now under consideration. But that was for obvious reasons, for this point was mooted for consideration subsequently. After the Bill had been referred to the Select Committee, a question was raised whether the power which the Board of Revenue possessed under section 15 of the Act of increasing and decreasing the quantities specified under that section should be continued in the same form in which it stood under the section. He had suggested to the Select Committee that the Board should only have the power of increasing the quantities, because otherwise great uncertainty would prevail; whereas if the power given to the Board were only one-sided, that is to say, if the Board were only to be entrusted with the power of increasing certain quantities specified in the Act, the public would have something in the Act by which they could guide themselves. He took an instance and supposed that if four seers of tari were specified in the section and the Board desired to raise the quantity under the power reserved to them from four to six seers, a person who was in possession of only four seers was sure against a criminal prosecution in consequence of the provisions of the Act itself; but if he were to have five seers of tari in his possession, he would still be protected by the rules of the Board, although he had gone beyond the quantity specified in the Act. And thus there would be no criminal prosecution until the limit of six seers was exceeded.

Therefore, in order to be on the safe side, a person had only to limit himself to the quantity specified in the Act, and he was more than sure against a criminal prosecution, which he could not be if the Board possessed the double-sided power of both increasing and decreasing the quantities specified in the section. By his suggestion, therefore, the result was that if a person conformed to the law he was safe But by the language of the law as it stood, a person was not sure even if he conformed to the law. The suggestion had therefore been adopted by the Select Committee.

But at the same time he had thought it proper in the Select Committee that the quantity specified in the section should be revised, and he was of that opinion because the different laws on this subject all specified lesser quantities than that which was stated in the Bengal Excise Act. In the Imperial Council's Act of 1881, the quantities specified were for foreign fermented liquors 12 bottles, and for country spirits one seer. It appeared to him that the quantities specified in the Bengal Excise Act might as well be altered and revised as proposed by the Hon. Mover of the Bill.

The HON. MR. MACAULAY said that he was not aware, till he entered the Council Chamber, that it was intended that the discussion on the amendments on the paper should proceed that day. He was under the impression that it would be postponed on technical grounds until the next meeting of the Council. Any difficulty, however, which he might thus experience was removed by the copiousness of the opportunities for reply which the speech of his hon. friend, the mover of the amendment, had afforded, by the number of the false issues he had raised and the number of the irrelevant considerations to which he had appealed. His hon. friend had fallen into a remarkable series of errors—errors of fact and errors of principle. The former had been chiefly exhibited in his treatment of the history of the question. He had discovered an inconsistency betwen the action of the Legislature in 1878 and the action which it was proposed to take now, because the law of 1878 fixed the retail limit for country spirits at 12 quart bottles, whereas it was now proposed to fix it at one seer. But in truth there was no inconsistency at all; for the simple reason that the limit fixed in 1878 was intended as a maximum, while the limit now proposed was intended as a minimum. The limit fixed in the Act of 1878 was in fact never reached. Before that Act was passed, the retail rate was everywhere one seer. As soon as the Act was passed the Board of Revenue, under their order of 6th April 1878, raised it in most districts to six quart bottles, but in certain districts or parts of districts, chiefly on the frontier, the old limit of one seer was maintained because it was considered necessary. There was certainly no competition in these districts between country and imported spirits. He found from the returns that there was only one retail license for the sale of imported liquors in Pooree, four in Julpigoree, two in Mozufferpore, four in Durbhunga, four in Chumparun and so on. He had not heard any attempt to shew that this limit was other than a proper one for the districts in which it was in force. But there was high legal authority for thinking that the rule under which it was maintained was not in accordance with the law as strictly interpreted. The obvious course therefore was to fix it as the minimum, leaving the Board to raise it where this course might be desirable. The limit being permissive, the Board would certainly not introduce it where it had hitherto been found unsuitable, and accordingly the picture of repression which the Hon. Member had drawn was one which would exist only in his own imagination and in the archives of this Council. The position would remain precisely as it was at present. The answer, therefore, to this part of the Hon. Gentleman's argument was, first, that we must lay down some minimum if we wished to act legally; second, that one seer had been found to be the proper limit for certain districts, and must therefore be taken as the minimum; third, that the existing limits would not be interfered with in these districts or in any other district. The Hon. Gentleman had also made several mistakes of principle, of which one had been fully disposed of by his hon. friend Mr. Allen. It was impossible to pretend to make uniform rules for liquors which differed in the customs of trade, in the habits of consumers, in the conditions of manufacture, of custody, of sale, of transport; in fact in practically every characteristic except the single common property of intoxicating effect. He need say nothing further on this point. There was, however, another error of his hon. friend which seemed to him very remarkable. They had been told that unless the retail limit was reduced for imported liquors there would be an invidious distinction in their favour, that they would be protected, and that a premium would be held out to them. He had never before heard that we protected an article, and held out a premium to it, by taxing it. The whole argument of his hon. friend on this point rested upon the theory that articles can be purchased more cheaply by retail than by wholesale. His hon. friend assumed that if the limit of 12 quart bottles for imported liquors were reduced the price would be increased. He here missed the rationale of the difference between retail licenses and wholesale licenses. The wholesale vendor was supposed to sell only to vendors who would again sell to consumers. As a matter of fact it would be impossible to fix any limit which would secure that every wholesale license covered only wholesale transactions, and every retail purchase was covered by a retail license. Individuals would purchase large quantities for their personal consumption, but if we endeavoured to raise the retail limit so as to include them, we should be compelling wholesale vendors to take out retail licenses to cover still more numerous genuine wholesale transactions. The Hon. Gentleman had overlooked the simple fact that all liquor purchased by retail pays two licenses, and is consequently more costly than liquor purchased by wholesale. The effect therefore of reducing the limit for European liquors from 12 quart bottles to say 6, would be to make all liquor purchased in quantities varying from 7 to 12 quart bottles cheaper than it now was. In fact, if we did not go so low as to harass retail vendors, so as to compel them to take out wholesale licenses as well, the nearer we went to general wholesale the cheaper we should make the liquor. The proposal of the Hon. Member would have precisely the opposite effect to that which he contemplated. His whole argument in support of the amendment appeared to rest on no ground of fact, principle or economy.

The HON. MR. DAMPIER said the Hon Mover of the amendment made some remarks to which he should, as a Member of the Board of Revenue and particularly with reference to the personal allusion to himself as connected with the passing of the former Bill, be expected to give an answer. The Hon. Member wished to know why in the last Act the maximum quantity for the retail sale of country spirits was altered. MR. DAMPIER had no recollection himself of having taken a part in any of the discussions on that point, and having just looked through the proceedings of the Council, he found that in 1878 he took charge of the Bill, after it had been reported upon by the Select Committee, with the view of carrying it formally through the Council, except in regard to two points; one of them being on the question of the inspection of druggists' shops, and the other prohibiting the institution of suits in the Small Cause Court for liquor drank in hotels on the model of the English "Tippling Act." He did not take part in any other question in connection with the passing of the Excise Act of 1878, and he was, therefore, not able to give any answer to the question why the maximum retail quantity of country liquor was altered.

The HON. MR. REYNOLDS said he thought sufficient reasons for this section had been given in the report of the Select Committee, and in the speech of the Hon. Member opposite (Mr. Macaulay), but he might perhaps be allowed to add a few remarks on the subject. The effect of the amendment would be to raise the limit both of country spirits and of imported liquors equally to twelve seers, that being the minimum quantity from which no reduction would be allowed. The Hon. Member opposite (Mr. Macaulay) had explained the practical reasons which existed against the amendment, because the limit of one seer was and still continued the limit in several districts as regards country spirits. When the Bill in its original form came before the Select Committee, MR. REYNOLDS understood, and he believed all the Members of the Select Committee understood, that the principle that the Board should have power only in the direction of raising the limit had been definitely accepted. If that principle was accepted there was no doubt that the quantity specified in the section must be the minimum quantity practically in use. He found on consulting the Board of Revenue that the quantity of one seer was actually the limit in certain districts, and that there were practical reasons why that limit should not be raised. That was the reason why the Bill reduced the quantity of country spirits from two gallons to one seer. But then it was said, why not reduce the limit for the sale of imported liquors to the same minimum? The simple reason was that, for imported liquors, there was no object in making any change. The quantity of two gallons had always been the rule, and there was no reason for altering it. As for what was said to be the invidious distinction made between one kind of liquor and another, it was not as if this principle was new to legislation The Northern India Excise Act of 1881, which had been held up as a model to the Council, as did the previous Act of 1871, made the same distinction. So that the change was not proposed to be made by the Bill, but by the amendment of his hon. friend, and MR. REYNOLDS must decidedly object to it.

The HON. KRISTODAS PAL said in reply that he thanked the Hon. Members who had spoken for vouchsafing to him some of the information which he had asked for, but he must confess that he had not yet received full information. The Hon. Member on the left (Mr. Dampier) had explained why he was unable to give the Council the reasons which led the Legislature to raise the old limit of one seer to twelve quart bottles by the Act of 1878.

[The HON. MR. MACAULAY explained that the limit given in the Act was a maximum; the intention was to give the Board power to reduce the limit as circumstances required.]

The HON. KRISTODAS PAL continued—Whatever the intention was it was not expressed in the Act, and according to a well known legal maxim the intention of the Legislature could only be gathered from the context of the law; and here the law was very clear that the limit for the retail sale of country spirits was fixed at twelve seers. But he would not quarrel about this point. He had already said that the non-official members of the Council would be exceedingly obliged if, when Bills were laid before the Council, they were put in possession of all the information which might help them in studying those Bills. Up to this moment they did not know the reasons which had rendered the alteration of the law necessary, for if he had known the reasons he might not have put forward the amendment, or urged it in the way he had done.

With reference to what fell from the Hon. Member opposite (Mr. Allen), he had been pleased to read him a homily for which BABOO KRISTODAS PAL felt thankful to him. His hon. friend said that equality was not always equity, and that imported and country spirits could not always be placed on the same footing. BABOO KRISTODAS PAL fully admitted that the consumption of imported and country liquor by the natives of the country would have different effects, and it was because he was inclined to think that the provision in this Bill might tend to encourage the consumption of imported liquor, which he considered would be more injurious than the use of country liquor, that he was of opinion that factitious encouragement should not be offered to the former. His hon. friend described at some length the circumstances which led to different action on this question. He took the enlightened "Baboo" as he called the educated native, at one end of the social ladder, and the rustic cultivator at the other end, and said that the enlightened Baboo drank imported spirits and the rustic labourer imbibed country liquor. BABOO KRISTODAS PAL could not say how far his friend's experience extended, but as a native of the country, he could say that his countrymen in the mofussil did not very largely consume imported spirits. In Calcutta it might be different; but he was told only the other day by no less than five Deputy Collectors that the consumption of country liquor was extending among educated and wealthy natives in the mofussil.

Nothing could be more disastrous to the health and morals of the people than the spread of a taste for deleterious imported liquor, particularly among the rural population. He was disposed to think that the use of country liquor was much less harmful than that of imported spirits; but he was not prepared to admit that the enlightened "Baboos" in the mofussil consumed only imported spirits. And if they did, what did the argument lead to? It meant that the Council should encourage the consumption of the more harmful article by lowering the retail sale of the less harmful!

He was of opinion that the Government should discourage as much as possible the consumption of intoxicating spirits by the people of this country, but if a line was to be drawn, it ought to be drawn in favour of that which was less injurious. Some of their greatest and wealthiest men had died victims to drink craving, and the manifest duty of Government was therefore to discourage it as much as possible.

Then he was told that the custom amongst the people here was to drink on the premises or in the shop, and therefore the limit of one bottle would not be inconvenient to them. But he rather believed that if one man drank at the premises of the vendor, 10 or 20 drank at home; therefore he did not think that the custom alluded to ought to govern the lowering of the quantity for retail sale. His hon. friend had presented to them a glowing picture of 20 or 30 rustic people gathered together on the premises of a liquor vendor, who went round with a pot of liquor in his hands pouring country liquor down the throats of those innocent men, and asked the Council to imagine what would be the result if the limit for retail sale was raised to twelve bottles. But BABOO KRISTODAS PAL would ask whether the mischievous effects which his hon. friend depicted would be lessened or decreased if the liquor vendor were to pour deleterious imported spirits down the throats of these innocent men?

He raised the question between imported and country spirits not from "morbid sensitiveness" or "perverted ingenuity," but from a desire to discourage as much as possible the consumption of imported liquor which he considered was more injurious than otherwise. He alluded to the bad and nasty Radha Bazar stuff, which was sold in native shops under the name of imported spirits—not what European gentlemen generally drank.

Then his hon. friend on the other side (Mr. Macaulay) had made a very important revelation. He said that the statement of facts and the enunciation of principle made by BABOO KRISTODAS PAL were equally wrong, and in correcting his mistake the hon. gentleman said that the limit of twelve bottles laid down in 1878 was in practice never observed; that it was six seers in Dacca and other places, and one seer in others; and that the Board had fixed the limit with reference to the circumstances of each place. So legislation was one thing and executive action another. There was also another argument put forward by the Hon. Member which BABOO KRISTODAS PAL did not clearly understand. Did he mean that the minimum limit would not materially affect the consumption of country liquor, because the retail vendor generally held two licenses, that was to say, one for retail sale and another for wholesale. As far as BABOO KRISTODAS PAL was aware that was not the fact. As for the economic argument advanced by the Hon. Gentlemen, viz. that the distinction made in the retail sale of imported and country liquor would not be attended with protectionism, BABOO KRISTODAS PAL could only say that he did not appreciate the force of this argument. He thought it was obvious that if there were two similar articles for sale, and if the tariff encouraged the sale of the one to the prejudice of the other, the result would necessarily be the protection of the favoured article.

Holding this view, he thought it was undesirable that any distinction should be made between the sale of country and imported spirits.

The amendment was then put to the vote and negatived on the following division:—

ROAD TRAMWAYS.

COLONEL THE HON. S. T. TREVOR, in moving for leave to introduce a Bill to authorize the making, and to regulate the working of, tramways in Bengal, said:—

"Sir,—I rise to move for leave to bring in a Bill to authorize the making and regulate the working of road tramways in Bengal. It is fortunate for me, Sir, that in the speech with which you opened this session of the Council you explained so fully the circumstances which had led to the necessity for introducing this Bill; otherwise, in my inexperience of the legislative work of this Council, I should have felt—as indeed I still feel—great anxiety and diffidence as to my ability to be an adequate exponent of the measure. The way has now, however, been so far cleared before me that this Council has already been made aware of the reasons which render legislation on this subject necessary, and in the few supplementary remarks I have to make, I need only trespass on the patience of Hon. Members at very short length.

The only Act on the subject of tramways in force in Bengal is Act I of 1880 of this Council. It applies only to Calcutta and its suburbs, and under its operation this city has been provided with the net-work of tramways with which Hon. Members are all familiar. I fear I shall be not far wrong in saying that one effect of that familiarity has been to implant in the minds of many people, and, perhaps, even of some Hon. Members here present, a lurking belief that the tramways are not altogether an unmixed good. For my own part I must confess that whenever I have had occasion—and that not seldom—to look somewhat ruefully at the havoc played with the wheels and tyres of my carriage, I have felt disposed to bless tramways with only a very faint blessing. But these are sublunary considerations which I trust Hon. Members will banish from their minds in considering the Bill which I am asking leave to introduce. Everything has another side, and it will be my endeavour, to the best of my ability, to present the other side of the tramway question to your consideration.

The first and, perhaps, the most important feature of that other side is the financial success which so generally attends well-managed schemes of tramway. Indeed, I believe the best antidote to the grievance I have just alluded to about damaged wheels and tyres would be the possession of some shares in the Tramway Company which might happen to be the cause of offence. At least I judge so from my experience on what used to be called the Darjeeling Tramway. If ever you saw any passenger cheerfully or stoically enduring all the incidental discomforts of a ride on that tram, while every one else was giving vent to the fiercest grumbling, you might be sure he was a shareholder whose equanimity was due to the recollection of the premium at which his shares were quoted.

The published report of the Calcutta Tramways Company for 1881, which I have here, shows that the dividends of that year were an average of 7½ per cent., and I believe I am justified in saying that the current year's working promises to show not less favourable results. And this is only the second year of working. Moreover the tramway is entirely a private enterprise, without any guarantee or subsidy from Government; not only so, but it pays a rent to the Corporation of Rs. 2,000 to Rs. 3,000 per mile per annum for the use of the roadway occupied by it.

Another feature of the tramway is the boon that it is to the poorer classes of the community. In 1881, the first year of working, when the lines were only partially completed, the number of passengers carried was 3,267,559. In the present or second year of working, the number of passengers has increased to 5,941,874, or very nearly six millions, and the receipts from these amounted to about 4½ lakhs of rupees. The number of passengers next year, estimated by the traffic of the present time, will be 6¾ millions. The average distance a passenger is carried is 1¼ mile, and the average fare received from each passenger is five pice, of which, roughly speaking, about four pice covers the gross expenditure of the tramway, and one pice remains as net profit. Hon. Members have no doubt occasionally had their attention drawn to that remarkable vehicle, a third class ticca gharry. The authorized fare payable for the use of one is three annas for the first mile and two annas for each succeeding mile. Therefore, if four people club together to charter one, as they often do, each of them would have to pay five pice, or the same fare for which he could perform a similar journey in a tram car. I have never undergone the experience of a joint-stock journey of this sort in a third class ticca, but I have no hesitation in saying that I would go in a tram-car by preference if I had the choice.

Not only is the tramway appreciated as a boon by natives, but it is largely patronized also by Europeans; and experience has proved one rather interesting fact, which is that Europeans show as much disinclination to waste a pice as natives do. When the tramway was first started, the seats were arranged in two classes, those in front being made more comfortable with cushions, and charged at a higher rate. Soon, however, it was found that very few people patronised these first class seats, and that Europeans as well as natives all went to the second class. The result was an inconvenient one, for the tram-cars had to run too heavy behind and too light in front, and the experiment was abandoned. Now there is only one class.

If, then, the establishment of tramways is appreciated as a boon by natives and the poorer classes generally, and if it is found that they can be constructed and worked as profitably here, in India, as in other parts of the world, it will also be found that India, with its huge populations, affords a large field for their development. That development will, I believe, take the form not only of a multiplication of projects, but also of an adaptation of the mechanical nature of this means of conveyance to the peculiar circumstances and wants of this country. In Calcutta the tramway is contrived after European models, but already, I think, we can see differences which not only the climate, but the habits of the natives of this country render inevitable. If this is the case in Calcutta, where the community, the streets, the character of the traffic, are all in a great measure Europeanised, and where there is a public opinion always ready to criticise faults, how much greater will be the departure from preconceived models when tramways are constructed in towns or rural tracts in the mofussil, where roads may be narrow and unmetalled, and where public opinion is not wont to express itself very frequently or forcibly.

Where money is to be made, and where the wants of the poorer classes of the native community are recognized and appreciated, we may be sure that schemes will be set afloat by native speculators to supply those wants in their own humbler fashion, but still in imitation of the more substantial European prototypes. We may already see on the Hooghly many little steamers plying with their decks covered with seething crowds of native passengers, and managed in a primitive fashion that would be pronounced to be absolutely and hopelessly impossible by the Captain of a Peninsular and Oriental or British India Steamer. Yet these things pay, and no doubt give great satisfaction to the classes who patronise them. So it requires no prophetic vision to foresee that, as time goes on, we may have combinations started wherever there is a prospect of profit, for the establishment of cheap communications by means of inexpensive tramways adapted to the wants of the people of this country. No one can tell how different they may be from our present ideas of what a workmanlike and well-managed tramway should be. For all I can tell, there may be as much difference between a London or a Calcutta tramcar and the future tram-car of indigenous development, as there is between a Pickford's van and a bullock gharry, or between a London omnibus and a third class ticca Of course, speaking as an Engineer, I may say that true economy and success are inseparable from solidity of construction and efficiency of management as we conceive them to be. The process of evolution with us, therefore, is always in the direction of additional strength and solidity. But there is nothing more absolutely certain than that there are ways of managing and doing things in India very different from any that are dreamed of in our philosophy.

I trust Hon. Members will not imagine from the remarks I have made that a new era is to be at once opened in the matter of cheap communication by anything that is contained in the Bill which I am asking leave to introduce. That Bill is merely intended to convey legal powers to Municipalities and other local authorities to promote the construction and working of tramways in their respective jurisdictions. All I wish to indicate by my remarks is that there may be many ways in which the powers thus granted may hereafter fructify, and that it is advisable to bear this in mind in framing the wording of the Act so as not to limit its applicability too closely to any particular form of tramway that has hitherto been present to our minds.

I need not detain the Council by describing the structure or provisions of the Bill in detail, as that will be better done when the Bill is in the hands of Hon Members.

I now beg to move for leave to introduce the Bill.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Council was adjourned to Saturday the 6th January 1883.

BENGAL MUNICIPALITIES.

The Hon. Mr. Reynolds introduced the Bill to amend and consolidate the law relating to Municipalities, and moved that it be read in Council.

He said:—"I wish to preface what I have to say by asking the indulgence of the Council for any defects which may be apparent in the form or wording of the Bill The Bill has been prepared under some pressure, in consequence of the numerous holidays which have intervened since leave was given to bring in the Bill; and the Council are also aware that legislation in this Council is conducted under some difficulties in consequence of our not having the assistance of a trained professional draftsman. The arrangement of the Bill is not altogether what I should have wished to make it, and probably some repetitions will be found in the wording of the sections; but to have recast the Bill would have involved considerable delay; and the Government was anxious that the Bill should be placed before the Council and the public on as early a date as possible, with a view to obtaining an expression of opinion on its substantive provisions.

I think I need not detain the Council with any remarks on the preliminary sections, or upon Part I of the Bill. The sections of Part II which relate to the constitution of Municipalities have been drawn in accordance with the outline which I sketched when I asked for leave to introduce the Bill. It will be seen that the limitation of the elective system, under the proviso appended to section 16 of the present Act, is omitted, and section 17, which refers to the appointment of ex-officio Commissioners, has been struck out. Two-thirds of the Commissioners in every Municipality, unless the Lieutenant-Governor shall specially direct otherwise, will be elected by the rate-payers. The Chairman will be either appointed by Government or elected by the Commissioners, and both the Chairman and the Vice-Chairman will hold office for three years. The alterations in the rest of this Part are of no great importance.

In Part III, which refers to the Municipal Fund, I would ask the attention of the Council to section 64, which corresponds to section 66 of the present Act. The Act directs that the Municipal estimates shall be transmitted to the Magistrate of the district, and shall be forwarded by him to the Commissioner of the division. In the Bill it is declared that the estimates are to be sent to such controlling authority as the Government may direct. Instead of using this circumlocution, I should have liked to say at once that the estimates were to be sent to the Local Government Board. I should be glad to see a Central Board established in Calcutta, with controlling and supervising powers over both Municipalities and Local Boards; such a Board would not only usefully supply the place of the Magistrate and the Commissioner, but it would relieve the Government of many matters of detail. Many of the functions and duties which this Bill assigns to the Lieutenant-Governor might very suitably be delegated to the Local Government Board. I hope the establishment of such a Board will before long be an accomplished fact, but in the meanwhile it would have been premature to make any direct reference to it in drafting the Bill. The wording of the section and of some subsequent sections which speak of "the controlling authority," can, if necessary, be altered when the Bill is in Select Committee.

Part IV deals with the somewhat thorny question of Municipal taxation; and here it will be found that the taxes which may be generally imposed on Municipalities are strictly limited to those taxes which may be levied by the present law. No general power of extending taxation is given by the Bill; the additional rates referred to in section 75 are confined to those Municipalities to which special provisions of the Bill may have been extended at the request of the Commissioners themselves. It is neither desirable nor likely that these provisions will be had recourse to very largely, but as the Bill is intended to meet the wants of all classes of Municipalities it is necessary that it should provide for the requirements of the wealthiest and most advanced cities as well as of the humbler towns. With the general adoption of the elective system, there need be no apprehension that the powers thus given will be abused.

Part V does not materially differ from Part VI of the present Act, and Part VI in substance corresponds to Part VII of the Act. It would, in my opinion, be an advantage if both these parts were greatly curtailed. They are full of minute directions and matters of detail which would find a more suitable place in bye-laws than in the body of the Act. But this is a matter which can most properly be considered in Select Committee: and I have thought it best to adhere, provisionally at least, to the general form of the existing law.

Part VII of the Bill is drafted with little more than verbal alterations upon the chapter of the Calcutta Municipal Act which relates to the water-supply. Part VIII of the Bill, with refers to lighting with gas, is similarly taken from the Howrah Lighting Act of 1873. Part IX is almost entirely a reproduction of the present Bengal Act VI of 1878. That Act can only be extended to Municipalities of the first class: but as no distinction is made in the Bill between different classes of Municipalities, Part IX can be applied to any Municipality to which the Commissioners may ask to have it extended.

The three remaining Parts of the Bill are based upon the present Municipal law.

Such, Sir, is a summary of the measure which I have the honour to lay before the Council. It is an honest attempt on the part of the Government to redeem the pledge which has been given, that the management of local affairs shall be left, as far as possible, in the hands of the people themselves. The extension of the elective system will ensure (as far as such a thing can be ensured by legislation) that the Municipal Commissioners will be gentlemen who are willing to give their attention to local matters, and who are recognized by their fellow citizens as the best guardians of local interest. Only those who fulfil the former of these conditions will seek for election: only those who fulfil the latter will obtain it. I am not one of those who anticipate that there will be any difficulty in finding properly qualified persons ready to offer themselves as candidates. The public mind has been deeply stirred on the subject, and the first elections, at any rate, under the new system are sure to excite abundant interest. But if this is the case, it may confidently be expected that the interest will not fall off in future years. In proportion as the Commissioners find that they have real powers and responsibilities entrusted to them, the honour of a seat at the Municipal Board will more and more become an object of healthy and legitimate ambition."

His Honor the President said he was not aware whether any Hon. Member of Council wished to speak on the Bill at its present stage; but if it was the wish of Hon. Members, and considering that there had not been time enough to master the details as presented in the Bill now before them, it would be quite easy to defer reference to the Select Committee to next week, when they might have an opportunity of expressing their views. But if there was no intention of discussing the details until the Bill had passed through Select Committee, it might now at once be so committed.

The Hon Mahomed Yusuf said he thought the discussion on the Bill had better take place after it had been reported upon.

His Honor the President said he also wished to make a suggestion that, in addition to the reference to Select Committee, some action might be taken for giving it circulation, and he thought that a copy of the Bill as introduced should be forwarded to all Chairmen of Municipalities in view to the expression of any remarks they might wish to make while the Bill was under discussion in Select Committee. Discussion in Select Committee would not be delayed thereby, because, His Honor supposed, it would take fully two months before the report of the Select Committee was made on it. This would give an opportunity to any local bodies to bring forward their objections, or concurrence, or remarks or suggestions in connection with the Bill, which he thought was a desirable matter.

ROAD TRAMWAYS.

Colonel the Hon. S. T. Trevor introduced the Bill to authorise the making and to regulate the working of road tramways in Bengal, and moved that it be read in Council.

He said:—"Sir, I beg to move that the Bill to authorise the making and to regulate the working of road tramways in Bengal be read in Council. The original draft of this Bill was sent on the 30th September last to all Commissioners of Divisions and to the Chairman of the Corporation of Calcutta with a circular asking for an expression of opinion on the provisions of the Bill; and in reply to it we have received several valuable criticisms and suggestions of amendment. These have been carefully considered, and the first draft has been altered and modified in several respects. The Bill is divided into five parts. The first of these prescribes the procedure to be followed by local authorities and other promoters in bringing forward and obtaining sanction to their projects. The term "local authority" includes the Commissioners of any Municipality, whether appointed or elected, as well as any Board, Committee, Council, Department, or person vested with the power to make or maintain roads; and any local authority or other promoters with the consent of a local authority may apply in the usual manner for the sanction of the Local Government to any proposed scheme of tramway, that is by submitting a memorial descriptive of the undertaking accompanied by plans and estimates of the works, a copy of the agreement proposed to be entered into, and a copy of the resolutions and proceedings of the local authority in which their approval of the intention to make the application is formally recorded. The Bill requiries that this resolution should be passed at a special meeting of the members constituting the local authority, of which at least one month's previous notice has been given. The notice must require that all objections to the proposed scheme be filed before the date fixed for the meeting, and the meeting must be attended by at least two-thirds of the numbers constituting the local authority. These provisions are considered necessary in order to ensure that all tramway schemes shall be approved by a proper majority of the representatives of the rate-payers before the revenues at the disposal of local authorities can be committed to such schemes or concessions be granted by them to other promoters. Sections 6 to 9 of the Bill describe how the sanctioning order of the Local Government is to be given and published, and how it may be revoked or amended, and Hon. Members may observe that large powers are reserved to the Local Government to fix all details of each scheme according to the nature of the application, and the facts and circumstances of each case, as it thinks fit. This, I think, is absolutely necessary, for it would be very inexpedient, even it were possible, to lay down any hard-and-fast rules by which all agreements to be made hereafter between promoters and local authorities should be stereotyped on one uniform pattern, whether as to the nature of the concessions to be granted, or the sort of tramway to be built. Sections 10 and 11 give the necessary powers to local authorities to use the moneys at their disposal for the purposes of tramways, and to credit the income that may be derived from them.

"Part II of the Bill deals with the details of the construction of tramways, granting the necessary powers for breaking up roads for the purpose of laying or repairing rails, and prescribing rules for dividing this so as to inconvenience the public and obstruct traffic as little as possible. Sections 17 and 18 are framed to protect the rights of the public to the free and unrestricted use of roads on which tramways may be laid for ordinary traffic, i.e. with carriages not having flange wheels or wheels suitable for running actually on the tramway rails. But this right is limited to public roads, and does not extend to new roadways, embankments or earthworks that may be constructed or acquired by promoters for the exclusive use of their tramways.

"Part III deals with the question of the powers necessary to enable local authorities or promoters to run carriages on their tramways, to fix rates, and to levy fares and charges. Powers are granted to local authorities as well as promoters to make bye-laws of the usual kind for regulating the rate of speed and other details of traffic and for preventing disturbances, the commission of nuisances, the entry of persons suffering from infectious diseases, and so on. Section 2 reserves to promoters the exclusive right to the use of their tramways for carriages specially adopted for running on them.

"Part IV deals with the subject of penalties and offences. The several clauses are drawn with very little variation from the Calcutta Tramways Act, and there is no need for me to take up the time of the Council in describing them in detail.

"Part V contains new clauses which deal with miscellaneous matters. Clause 36 provides for the settlement of any difference that may arise between promoters and the local authority or other persons or companies affected by the operations of the promoters, by the arbitration of an Engineer or other fit person to be nominated by the Local Government as reference on the application of either party to the disputes. This clause is adopted for the English Tramways Act, and as it was included in the draft Bill, I have left it for further consideration by the Special Committee. But in the Calcutta Tramways Act there is no arbitration clause in the Act itself, though there is one in the agreement between the Corporation and the grantees which is appended to the Act as a schedule. In this, provision is made for the appointment of an arbitrator by each party, and of an umpire by the arbitrators in case the latter do not agree. I think the Bill should certainly contain an arbitration clause, but it is a question which can be further considered in Special Committee whether the form of it had better be that of a referee to be nominated by Government, or of joint arbitrators to be nominated by the parties to the dispute. Clause 38 reserves power to local authorities and the police to regulate traffic on roads on which tramways may be laid, and clause 39 reserves to all persons having the necessary authority to execute work on such roads, powers to continue to execute such work, with the usual provisos for causing as little detriment as possible to the interests of the promoters of the tramway. Clause 4 provides for the removal of tramways in the event of discontinuance, clause 41 for the proceedings to be taken in case of insolvency of promoters, and clause 42 for the purchase of tramways by local authorities at the end of twenty-one years and at succeeding periods of seven years afterwards. In the original draft of the Bill this purchase clause included the terms on which the purchase should be effected as contained in the Calcutta Tramways Act. I intended in the revised draft to omit any specification of the terms of purchase, as it seems more expedient to leave these to be settled by agreement between local authorities and promoters before sanctioning any scheme of tramway. I find, however, that through inadvertence the Bill, as now presented to the Council, contains a specification of the terms of purchase, though not the same terms as in the original draft. This is a point to which I shall ask attention when the Bill is considered in Special Committee. I need not detain this Council by describing the Bill at any greater length. I now beg to move that it be read in Council."

The motion was put and agreed to.

He also moved that the Bill be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the HON. MESSRS. REYNOLDS, ALLEN, BHUDEB MOOKERJEE, MAHOMED YUSUF, HURBANS SHAHAI, and the MOVER, with instructions to report in six weeks.

The motion was agreed to.

The HON'BLE MR. REYNOLDS moved for leave to introduce a Bill to amend Bengal Act V of 1870. This was but a small measure, and he need only trouble the Council with a few words on it. The Port Commissioners had applied to the Government for sanction to certain plans and estimates for the construction of a tea warehouse which they proprose to erect at Armenian ghât. The scheme had been under consideration and discussion for the last six years, and the Chamber of Commerce and a considerable majority of firms interested in the tea trade were in favour of the proposals being sanctioned. He thought it was apparent that it would be a great convenience to the traffic to have a central warehouse in a suitable position like Armenian ghât, close to the banks of the river, from which chests of tea might be easily shipped without being exposed to unnecessary handling and risk of breakage to which they were at present subject. He thought also that this warehouse would tend to relieve the streets of Calcutta of some portion of the cart traffic.

But, as the Council was no doubt aware, under the present practice of the trade the greater part of the tea shipped from Calcutta was sold previous to shipment. Whether that was a practice which was advantageous to the Indian tea-grower, it was not for MR. REYNOLDS to say: but it was undoubtedly the existing practice, and so long as this practice prevailed, the convenience of the tea warehouse would be neutralized, or at least greatly diminished, unless accommodation were provided in the warehouse itself for the sampling and selling of tea previous to shipment. The Government, however, was advised that, under the law as it stood at present, it was not open to the Port Commissioners to erect a warehouse which should have for one of its objects the provision of facilities for the sampling and selling of tea. Section 39 of the Calcutta Port Commissioners' Act empowered the Port Commissioners to construct warehouses and sheds for conveying, receiving, and storing goods and merchandise landed or to be shipped. The object of the present Bill was somewhat to extend this power, and to give the Port Commissioners authority also to provide accommodation in such warehouses for the sampling and sale of such goods and merchandize.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Council was adjourned to Saturday, the 13th instant.

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park-street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 2° lower; and finally, the thermometer, which has furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during the last 20 years and upwards, is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The direction of the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

PART VI.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th January, 1883, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No. 1 OF 1883.

Bill to amend the Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Repeal of Act XII of 1877.

1. Act XII of 1877 (an Act to amend the Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876) is hereby repealed.

Addition to Act VI of 1876, section 4.

2. To section 4 of the Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876, the following shall be added, namely :—

"and also in or towards the repayment, either before or after the liquidation of such debts and liabilities, of any loan received from the Government by the manager under this Act".

Amendment of section 12 of same Act.

3. (1) In section 12 of that Act, for the first clause the following shall be substituted :—

"When all the debts and liabilities mentioned in the schedule referred to in section eleven, and the amount of any loan received from the Government under section eighteen, together with the interest (if any) due thereon, have been paid and discharged", and

(2) in the second clause of the same section, for the word "six" the word "twelve" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 18 of same Act.

4. (1) In section 18 of that Act, after the words "as may appear expedient" the following shall be inserted, namely :—

"or by borrowing money from the Government at such rate of interest as appears reasonable to the Local Government", and

(2) in the last clause of the same section, for the word "six" the word "twelve" shall be substituted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876, omits to provide for the recovery by the manager, under the scheme for the management of the estate, of a loan made by the Government for the payment of the debts. It consequently would be open to the proprietor, when the scheduled debts had been paid off, to demand, under section 12 of the Act, the release of the estate, although any such loan made by the Government had not been repaid.

2. No such loan has as yet been made by the Government, but as it is possible that such loans may be made, it is proposed to amend the Act so as to secure the detention of the estate under management until the amount of any such loan that may have been made has been paid off with interest. This is provided for by certain amendments made, in sections 4, 12 and 18 of the Act, by sections 2, 3 and 4 of the present Bill.

3. The second sub-section of section 4 of the Bill merely supplies an omission, apparently the result of an oversight, in the amending Act XII of 1877.

Under section 12 of the principal Act, as it originally stood, six months from the publication of the order of management was the period within which the Commissioner was permitted to abandon the management, and as difficulties might arise if the management was abandoned after the manager had exercised his power of mortgaging, the last clause of section 18 provided that the power to mortgage should not be exercisable until after the expiration of the same period. The amending Act of 1877 altered the period fixed by section 12 to twelve months, but left that fixed by section 18 unchanged. The amendment now proposed makes the period in section 18 the same as that in section 12, namely, twelve months.

4. It is proposed, as a matter of convenience, to repeal the amending Act of 1877 and incorporate its single provision in the new one.

The 22nd December, 1882.

S. C. BAYLEY.

D. FITZPATRICK,
Secy. to the Govt. of India.

PART VI.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th January, 1883, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 1 OF 1883.

A Bill to amend the Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Repeal of Act XII of 1877

1. Act XII of 1877 (an Act to amend the Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876) is hereby repealed.

Addition to Act VI of 1876, section 4.

2. To section 4 of the Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876, the following shall be added, namely:—

"and also in or towards the repayment, either before or after the liquidation of such debts and liabilities, of any loan received from the Government by the manager under this Act".

Amendment of section 12 of same Act.

3. (1) In section 12 of that Act, for the first clause the following shall be substituted:—

"When all the debts and liabilities mentioned in the schedule referred to in section eleven, and the amount of any loan received from the Government under section eighteen, together with the interest (if any) due thereon, have been paid and discharged", and

(2) in the second clause of the same section, for the word "six" the word "twelve" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 18 of same Act.

4. (1) In section 18 of that Act, after the words "as may appear expedient" the following shall be inserted, namely:—

"or by borrowing money from the Government at such rate of interest as appears reasonable to the Local Government", and

(2) in the last clause of the same section, for the word "six" the word "twelve" shall be substituted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876, omits to provide for the recovery by the manager, under the scheme for the management of the estate, of a loan made by the Government for the payment of the debts. It consequently would be open to the proprietor, when the scheduled debts had been paid off, to demand, under section 12 of the Act, the release of the estate, although any such loan made by the Government had not been repaid.

2. No such loan has as yet been made by the Government, but as it is possible that such loans may be made, it is proposed to amend the Act so as to secure the detention of the estate under management until the amount of any such loan that may have been made has been paid off with interest. This is provided for by certain amendments made, in sections 4, 12 and 18 of the Act, by sections 2, 3 and 4 of the present Bill.

3. The second sub-section of section 4 of the Bill merely supplies an omission, apparently the result of an oversight, in the amending Act XII of 1877.

Under section 12 of the principal Act, as it originally stood, six months from the publication of the order of management was the period within which the Commissioner was permitted to abandon the management, and as difficulties might arise if the management was abandoned after the manager had exercised his power of mortgaging, the last clause of section 18 provided that the power to mortgage should not be exercisable until after the expiration of the same period. The amending Act of 1877 altered the period fixed by section 12 to twelve months, but left that fixed by section 18 unchanged. The amendment now proposed makes the period in section 18 the same as that in section 12, namely, twelve months.

4. It is proposed, as a matter of convenience, to repeal the amending Act of 1877 and incorporate its single provision in the new one.

The 22nd December, 1882.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1. The object of this Bill is to provide a comprehensive law regulating the manufacture, keeping, sale, conveyance and importation of explosives throughout British India. The matter was first brought to the notice of the Government in connection with an application made by the agents of Nobel's Explosives Company, Limited, for permission to import dynamite manufactured by the Company. The Government of Bombay, to whom the application was made, referred the question to a Committee, which reported that the expediency of allowing the importation into that Presidency of dynamite and other preparations of nitro-glycerine was doubtful. The Government of Bombay forwarded a copy of this report to the Government of India with a request that the importation of preparations of nitro-glycerine might be prohibited until further notice by a notification under the Sea Customs Act. Before complying with this request the Government of India thought it well to consult the Governments of Madras and Bengal. In reply, both Governments expressed an opinion that the importation of these explosives should not be forbidden. The Government of Bengal further submitted a draft set of rules to regulate the importation, package, transport and storage of dynamite and similar substances, together with a report which had been prepared by a Committee appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor to consider the entire subject. This Committee, while recommending that the draft rules should be published as rules under the Indian Arms Act, 1878, suggested the enactment of a comprehensive Imperial Act of a similar nature to the English Explosives Act, 1875 (38 Vic., c. 17), which would in a convenient and compendious Code deal with the subject of explosives in its entirety and furnish the public, as well as Government officials, with an easy means of ascertaining their duties, responsibilities and powers respecting articles which by their inflammable, explosive or dangerous nature imperil the public safety.

2. It appears to the Government of India that it would be an abuse of the powers conferred by the Indian Arms Act, 1878, to make rules of the nature of those submitted by the Bengal Committee under that Act. There are, no doubt, powers conferred by the Indian Arms Act which might, at first sight, seem to authorise the making of such rules; but the object to which such rules are directed is altogether different from that of the Act. The object of the Arms Act was to enable the Government more effectually to prevent arms and ammunition (which term under section 4 includes gun-cotton, dynamite, lithofracteur and other fulminating substances) from getting into the hands of persons who would make a bad use of them. In other words, the main object of that Act was to restrict the possession of arms and ammunition. But the main object of the rules prepared by the Bengal Committee is not restrictive. Their object is to protect the public against the dangerous nature of the explosives to which they relate by regulating all dealings with those explosives. If they are restrictive, it is only so far as is necessary to carry out their protective object. Under these circumstances, it appears to the Government that the proposed rules could not properly be published under the Indian Arms Act, 1878.

3. Nor does it appear that there is any other enactment, as the law at present stands, under which rules of the nature of those prepared by the Bengal Committee can be issued. Under he existing law, the only enactments relating to this subject are to be found in various fragmentary provisions, dealing with gunpowder and fireworks only, which are in force in the Presidency-towns and in certain municipalities and ports. It appears to the Government that it is unsatisfactory that the law should be in this state at a time when dynamite and other compounds of nitro-glycerine are rapidly taking the place of gunpowder in all works where blasting in necessary. Already these explosives have been used to a considerable extent in connection with various works undertaken both by the Government and by private enterprize throughout India; and it is only natural to suppose that, as their superiority to gunpowder becomes more widely known, their use will increase.

4. Under these circumstances, the suggestion of the Committee that an Act drawn on the model of the English Explosives Act, 1875, and dealing comprehensively with the whole subject of explosives, should be added to the Indian Statute-book, recommends itself to the Government of India, as being the only satisfactory method of treating the subject. Accordingly the present Bill has been prepared. It embodies such of the provisions of the English Act as are in the opinion of the Government necessary in this country. In addition to the omission from the Bill of certain provisions of the English Act, the Bill further differs from that Act in that, in accordance with the well-recognized principle of Indian legislation, it confers power on the Local Governments to provide by means of rules, adapted to the varying local circumstances of the provinces under their administration, for many points for which there are specific provisions in the body of the English Act.

5. The Bill is divided into ten chapters.

Chapter I (Preliminary) contains the usual preliminary matter. Section 2 saves from the Act the manufacture, packing, sale, conveyance or importation of explosives by the Government, and section 3 saves the provisions of the Indian Arms Act, 1878. Under section 4, the Act will not come into force until after the publication of a notification by the Governor General in Council; but, in order to prevent the inconvenience which would arise if the Act were brought into force before the notifications, rules, orders and appointments necessary for its efficient working had been made, sub-section (2) gives power to make these at any time after the passing of the Act, though they are not to take effect until the Act comes into force. By section 5 and the schedule are repealed the enactments which at present deal with the subject-matter of the Bill, with the exception of the Indian Arms Act, 1878, and the provisions to be found in the Andaman and Nicobar Islands Regulation, 1876. The provisions of the former Act relating to explosives have been left unrepealed for the reasons which have led the Government of India to decide that the rules framed by the Bengal Committee cannot be passed under it, namely, because the objects of the Act and of the Bill are different. The provisions of the Andaman and Nicobar Islands Regulation, 1876, have not been repealed because, considering the peculiar nature of that settlement, it seems inconvenient to interfere with any of the rules which are at present contained in that Regulation. Though the proposed Act will extend to the Andamans, its provisions will be practically a dead-letter in those islands.

6. Chapter II lays down the general law as to the manufacture and keeping of explosives prescribing the places at which an explosive may be manufactured or kept. It is to be read subject to certain exceptions in the Supplemental Chapter (X).

7. Chapter III deals with the licensing and regulation of factories and magazines, and the registration and regulation of registered places, and confers power on the Local Government to make rules on all necessary matters. A factory under the Act is a place licensed for the manufacture of an explosive; a magazine is a place licensed for the keeping of an explosive; and a registered place is a place registered for the keeping of an explosive. Magazines differ from registered places in that the former are places devoted exclusively to the keeping of explosives and the receptacles for or tools or implements for work connected with the keeping of explosives, whilst the latter are places, e.g., general stores or shops, not devoted exclusively to the keeping of explosives but in which explosives may be kept. Sections 11 and 12 enact certain provisions in favour of the occupiers of magazines and registered places; the former section enabling the occupiers of magazines and registered places to make cartridges without taking out a factory-license, and the latter enabling the occupiers of magazines to adapt or prepare explosives for use in their own mines or quarries without any such license. Section 15 imposes on the occupier of a factory or magazine the duty of making special rules for the regulation of the workmen in his factory or magazine.

8. Chapter IV relates to the sale of explosives. Section 16 prohibits explosives being hawked, sold or exposed for sale on highways or public places; section 17 prohibits the sale of an explosive to a child under 13; and section 18 prescribes the manner in which an explosive exposed for sale or sold is to be packed and labelled.

9. Chapter V treats of matters relating to the conveyance of explosives. Under section 19, the Governor General in Council may make rules as to the packing of explosives for conveyance. Under section 20, the Local Government may make rules to regulate the conveyance, loading, unloading and keeping of explosives within a port; and section 21 confers certain powers on the Conservator or other officer named in such rules in the event of their breach. Under section 22, Railway-administrations are directed to make rules for their own railways respectively. Under section 23, the Governor General in Council is empowered to make rules in any case in which rules under section 20 or section 22 do not apply. By section 24 the authority making rules under sections 20, 22 and 23 respectively is empowered to annex to a breach of any rule, or attempt to commit a breach of any rule, a penalty which may consist of a fine which may extend to two hundred rupees for each breach and to one hundred rupees for each day during which the breach continues, and of forfeiture of all or any part of the explosive in respect of which the breach is committed.

10. Chapter VI regulates the importation of explosives other than gunpowder, cartridges made with gunpowder, percussion-caps, fireworks, and any prescribed explosive, and prohibits their importation except under a license. The Governor General in Council is given power (section 26) to regulate all matters connected with the grant of such licenses, and the officers of sea-customs are given similar power (section 27) with regard to these explosives as they have with regard to any article on the importation of which restrictions are for the time being imposed by the law relating to sea customs.

11. Chapter VII confers special powers on the Governor General in Council to regulate or prohibit all dealings with any explosive which in the opinion of the Governor General in Council is specially dangerous to the public safety; and the officers of sea customs are given like powers with regard to any such explosive as they are given under section 27 with regard to the importation of the explosives referred to in section 25.

12. Chapter VIII (Government supervision) first provides for matters relating to inspection. The Local Government is empowered (section 29) to appoint Government Inspectors, and to make rules to assign and regulate their duties. Section 30 defines the general power of these officers as to entry, inspection, and examination of factories, magazines and registered places, and the taking of samples from the occupiers. Section 31 empowers the Government Inspector to require the occupier of any factory or magazine to remedy anything connected with his factory or magazine which is in the opinion of the Inspector unnecessarily dangerous or defective, and provides for a reference to the nearest Magistrate when the occupier objects to comply with the inspector's requisition. Section 32 deals with inspection in ports and of ships, and section 33 provides for the inspection of a wharf, carriage, ship or boat on or in which an explosive is reasonably supposed by a Government Inspector or other officer to be for the purpose of or in course of conveyance.

The chapter secondly provides (section 34) for the giving of notice of accidents arising from explosion or fire occurring in or about or in connection with any factory, magazine or registered place, or any carriage, ship or boat either conveying an explosive or on or from which an explosive is being loaded or unloaded, and (section 35) for inquiry into the cause of such accidents when necessary.

Thirdly, the chapter deals with power of search. It empowers (section 36) Government Inspectors and officers authorised by the Local Government to enter and search all places where they have reason to believe that any offence has been or is being committed with respect to an explosive, or that any explosive is in contravention of the Act, or that the provisions of the Act are not duly observed. Such searches are to be made in accordance with the Code of Criminal Procedure, and when made by any officer other than a Government Inspector are to be reported by him to his official superior within 48 hours. Section 37 gives special power to Government Inspectors and other officers to stop carriages or boats in case of emergency.

Fourthly, the chapter treats of seizure and detention of explosives. Section 38 authorizes the seizure and detention of any explosive liable to forfeiture, and section 39 gives the Local Government power to make rules to regulate such seizure and detention. Section 40 declares that the proceedings before a Magistrate with regard to any such seizure shall be commenced as soon as possible. Section 41 gives power to seize the receptacle in which the explosive was found, and section 42 to use the ship, boat, carriage, &c., in which the explosive was seized.

Lastly, the chapter (section 43) provides for the payment for samples of explosives taken by Government Inspectors or other officers under the Act.

13. Chapter IX deals with the penalties and legal proceedings.

The penalties for breaches of the provisions of the Act and the rules made under it are restricted to forfeitures and fines, and the only instance in which the Act prescribes imprisonment as a punishment is (section 53) that of resistance to a public officer.

14. With regard to legal proceedings, section 64 provides for the exemption of an occupier of a factory, magazine or registered place, and of a warehouseman, carrier or owner or master of a ship, boat, or carriage from penalty on proof of another being the real offender. Under section 65, a carrier or owner or master of a ship or boat is exempted from penalty when he is prevented from complying with the law by the act or default of the consignor or consignee of the explosive or some other person and the consignor or consignee or other person is convicted (as it is provided he may be) under the Act.

Section 66 confers a general power on Magistrates to order forfeiture in all cases in which explosives are liable to be forfeited, and provides that proceedings may be taken for the purpose only of inflicting a forfeiture. The same section empowers the Court to inflict an additional fine in lieu of forfeiture of the explosive; and section 67 provides for levy of a fine imposed on the owner or master of a ship by distress of the ship.

15. Chapter X (Supplemental) provides for several miscellaneous matters. Section 68 empowers Municipal Committees to provide magazines for the use of the public; section 69 enacts certain provisions in favour of the keeping and conveyance of percussion-caps, safety-fuses for blasting, fog-signals and prescribed explosives. Section 69 exempts railway-administrations from the obligation to make rules with regard to such explosives, and empowers the Governor General in Council to exempt such explosives altogether from the Act. By section 70 the filling and conveying for private use, and not for sale, of safety-cartridges are excepted from the application of the Act. Section 71 exempts the owner or master of a ship and a carrier or warehouseman or any person in charge of a carriage from punishment when an act is done by him in breach of the provisions of the Act in a case of emergency. Section 72 contains the usual provision saving liability to civil suit or prosecution under other laws. Section 73 deals with notice and limitation of proceedings. Section 74 empowers the Governor General in Council to extend the definition of "explosive" to other explosive substances; and sections 75 and 76 treat of general matters connected with the issue and publication of notifications and rules. Under section 75, proposed rules must be published as drafts before they are finally made, and the authority that makes the rules is directed to receive and consider any criticisms or suggestions which may be made by persons interested.

CALCUTTA INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION, 1883-84.

Calcutta, the 16th January 1883.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

A letter, dated the 18th December 1882, from Mr. Jules Joubert, forwarding a prospectus of an International Exhibition which he proposes to hold in Calcutta in December, January, and February 1883-84, and asking the sanction and support of the Government of Bengal in his undertaking.

A letter No. 2921—240 Mis. (F.), dated the 22nd idem, to Mr. Joubert, conveying the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor to the project, and sanctioning the holding of the Exhibition.

A letter No. 2922—241 Mis. (F.) of the same date, to the Government of India forwarding a copy of the correspondence inviting the co-operation of the Government of India, and suggesting that other Local Governments should be asked to assist in securing the adequate representation at the Exhibition of the natural products and manufactures of all parts of India.

A letter No. 318Ex.—16-11, dated the 28th idem, stating that the Government of India will be pleased to aid the Exhibition in the manner proposed.

From the papers cited in the preamble, and published in full as an Appendix to this Resolution, it will be seen that Mr. Jules Joubert, the promoter of the recent International Exhibition in New Zealand, proposes, with the sanction of the Government, to hold a similar Exhibition in Calcutta during the next cold season. The Lieutenant-Governor having considered the proposal has had much satisfaction in granting his sanction and support to the undertaking, which is likely, in Mr. Rivers Thompson's opinion, to have a very important effect in developing and promoting the commercial prosperity of India. The good which resulted to the Australian and other Colonies from recent Exhibitions is well known, and there is every reason to believe that a similar undertaking will do much to attract the attention of foreign countries to the great natural wealth of India, and to the opportunities for profitable trade which the country presents. Mr. Joubert, whose services have been warmly acknowledged by the heads of various Colonial Governments, has had much experience of International Exhibitions in various parts of the world, and the Lieutenant-Governor has confidence in Mr. Joubert's ability to bring the undertaking in India to a successful issue. The Government of India has consented to give its support to the objects of the Exhibition, and to invite the co-operation of all Local Governments and Administrations in the furtherance of those objects. There is thus every probability that the collection of Indian articles will be as complete as possible, and it is hoped that exhibitors from England and the Colonies, as well as from foreign countries, will come forward with large collections of the products of foreign industries, especially of the kinds which are likely to find a ready sale in this country. New branches of trade may thus be opened out, and an impetus given, by force of example, to manufactures suited to India.

2. The Exhibition, which will be opened on the 4th of next December, will be under the patronage of His Excellency the Viceroy, and the Lieutenant-Governor has nominated a General and an Executive Committee for the promotion of its objects. The General Committee will, the Lieutenant-Governor trusts, be composed of the Chief Officers of the Supreme Government and of all Local Governments and Administrations, the great Feudatory Chiefs and Nobles of India, and the leading officials and private individuals, both European and Native, of various Provinces. The duties of this Committee will be, for the most part, honorary, but it will be in the power of its members to render great assistance by the exercise of their personal influence in promoting the interests of the undertaking. The time which has elapsed since the scheme was first broached has not been sufficient to allow of the nomination of any but the Bengal members of the Committee, of whom a provisional list is given below :—

Dated Calcutta, the 18th December 1882.

From—JULES JOUBERT, ESQ.,
To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Public Works Department.

I HAVE the honour to forward to you a copy of the schedule of the International Exhibition which I propose to hold in this city in December, January, and February 1883-84, provided I can obtain the sanction of the Government.

Although I have already applied to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, I nevertheless shall deem it a favour if you will kindly now lay the matter officially before him.

In this schedule you will see the scope of the Exhibition, which I intend to be similar to those I have had the honour to promote and carry out satisfactorily to all concerned in the Australasian Colonies.

England, America, France, Germany, Austria, Italy, Switzerland, Japan, China, and Australia were fully represented, and I have every reason to believe all the abovenamed countries will make a good display in India.

What I have to crave from the Government of India is that which was granted to me elsewhere, viz. the patronage of His Excellency the Governor-General as well as that of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal. The official nomination of a Local Committee in whose hands will rest the revision of the jurors' awards, as well as the task of procuring a display of Indian exhibits of sufficient importance to compete with those of the foreign countries represented at this general gathering.

With a view to reduce the great outlay I should be involved in, had I to put up buildings suitable for so large an Exhibition, it has been suggested that I should apply for such portion of the Indian Museum as could be spared by the Trustees as well as for the use of surrounding ground and out-buildings lately handed over by Government to the said Trustees. In addition to these I propose adding at my own expense temporary buildings of iron, wood, and glass which will enable me to house and properly display the exhibits and connect the various nations represented, thus forming with the interesting collections now in the Museum a "tout ensemble" which will be both effective and in good harmony.

The success of an undertaking of this kind depends in a great measure upon the moral support of Government. I need hardly call your attention to the immense benefit International Exhibitions have conferred on the countries where they have been held, nor will I lay particular stress on the special advantages that will accrue to Bengal and Calcutta, more particularly by the introduction of a number of intelligent representatives from all nations who, whilst here, must necessarily be struck with the immense undeveloped industries and resources of this empire.

In conclusion, I trust that the official letters which the Governors of the Australasian Colonies have addressed to His Excellency the Viceroy, relating to my connection with the Exhibitions held there, will be deemed a sufficient guarantee for the ultimate issue of the undertaking I now contemplate; and I hope that the Government will grant the requests contained in this letter.

No. 2921-240 Mis.(F), dated Calcutta, the 22nd December 1882.

From— A. P. MACDONNELL, ESQ., Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal, Revenue Dept.
To—JULES JOUBERT, ESQ.

IN acknowledging the receipt of your letter dated the 18th instant (with enclosure), the Lieutenant-Governor desires me to say that he approves and sanctions your proposal to hold an International Exhibition in Calcutta in the cold weather of 1883-84. A General Committee will be appointed by Government in Calcutta, as well as local Committees for the collection, at the head-quarters of each division, of specimens illustrative of the arts and manufactures of the country. The Government of India will be asked to assist this Government, as far as possible, in carrying out the objects of the Exhibition.

No. 2922—241Mis. (F), dated Calcutta, the 22nd December 1882.

From—A. P. MacDonnell, Esq., Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Revenue Department,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Revenue and Agricultural Dept.

From Jules Joubert, Esq., dated the 18th December 1882.
To Jules Joubert, Esq., No. 2921—240Mis. (F), dated the 22nd December 1882.

I am directed to submit, for the consideration and orders of His Excellency the Governor-General in Council, a copy of the correspondence noted on the margin, regarding a proposal to hold an International Exhibition in Calcutta in the cold weather of 1883-84. The Lieutenant-Governor desires to invite the co-operation of the Government of India in carrying the project to a successful issue, and to suggest that, with the approval of His Excellency the Governor-General in Council, all Local Governments and Administrations may be invited to assist in securing the adequate representation at the Exibition of the natural products and manufactures of all parts of India.

No. 318Ex—16-11, dated Calcutta, the 28th December 1882.

From—T. W. Holderness, Esq., Offg. Under-Secretary to the Government of India, Revenue and Agricultural Department,

2. I am to observe that the prospectus filed with Mr. Joubert's letter does not appear to be complete, and am to suggest that, before it is officially issued, it should be revised in consultation with this Department.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The direction of the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

METEOROLOGICAL OFFICE, INDIA,
The 15th January 1883.

HENRY F. BLANFORD,
Meteorological Reporter to the Govt. of India.

Report of Fluctuation of Traffic on the Eastern Bengal Railway for the four weeks ended 21st October 1882.

Report on Goods Traffic for the four weeks ended 21st October 1882.

EASTERN BENGAL RAILWAY COMPANY, TRAFFIC SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE, SEALDAH TERMINUS.
No. W 37-56, dated Calcutta, the 20th December 1882.

From—W. INNES, Esq., Traffic Superintendent, Eastern Bengal Railway Company,

To—The Agent, Eastern Bengal Railway Company.

I BEG to forward the usual comparative statement of traffic for the four weeks ended the 21st October last, from which it will be seen that the gross weight carried over the railway during that period was 15,53,671 maunds, or 5 per cent. over the figures for the corresponding period of 1881.

The principal fluctuations are as under—

Increases.

Coal and coke ... ... 6,096 Mds.

The explanation given in last report is applicable to the present, viz. improvement in traffic to Sealdah for mills in the vicinity, and also traffic forwarded to the Northern Bengal State and Darjeeling Himalyan Railways.

Cotton, manufactured ... ... 13,140 Mds.

On reference to last report, it will be observed that the decrease then recorded is more than made good in the period under review. This is explained by a considerable improvement in the market during the month referred to Dyeing materials ... ... 4,679 Mds.

Notwithstanding low prices in the market, the demand for export has been brisk.

Gunny-bags ... ... 6,329 "

The impetus given to the traffic in this staple by the low price of the raw material, and by the brisk demand for export, is very marked.

Grain and pulse ... ... 13,422 Mds.

This increase is due to 13,000 maunds of rice sent from Port Canning, Calcutta and South-Eastern State Railway to Chitpore which previously had been taken up the river by boat.

Hides and skins ... ... 4,619 Mds.

This increase is due to an active demand in the Calcutta bazar, stimulated by the low rates for freight to Europe.

Jute ... ...

On reference to the statement, it will be seen that the increase in "screwed" jute is counterbalanced by a decrease in "unscrewed" jute. This is due to the much larger portion of screwed jute sent from Naraingunge at this season.

Miscellaneous ... ... 16,900 Mds.

This increase is in upward traffic and is made up of the various commodities which do not come under special headings.

Salt ... ... 9,089 Mds.

This important staple continues to improve, traffic to all stations sharing in the improvement.

Seeds ... ... 3,305 Mds.

It is feared that this increase will be only temporary.

Previous statements will show that the traffic in this staple had been declining for a considerable time, and the explanation given was that the cultivation of seed appeared to be giving place to more remunerative crops

Tobacco ... ... 10,186 Mds.

This large increase of 53 per cent. points to the fact that this staple is being drawn to the line by the low rates now in force.

Decreases.

Metals and manufactures of ... ... 9,658 Mds.

This decrease is in upward traffic, and is due to a considerable quantity of this material having been forwarded to the Northern Bengal State Railway for the Kownia and Durla extension during the corresponding period of 1881.

Sugar ... ... 3,815 Mds.

This decrease is attributable to a dull market, there being no demand for export.

EASTERN BENGAL RAILWAY.

Statement showing Increases and Decreases in Maundage of Staples carried over this Line for the four weeks ending 21st October 1882, as compared with that of the corresponding period of 1881.

HIGH COURT NOTICES.

GENERAL LETTER No. 1.

Dated Calcutta, the 5th January 1883.

From—C. A. WILKINS, Esq., Officiating Registrar, High Court,
To—All Criminal Judicial Officers in Bengal.

I AM directed to invite your attention to the accompanying copy of a letter from the Government of Bengal, No. 1862, dated the 17th November 1882, and to request that you will be good enough to comply, as far as possible, with the wishes of Government in fixing dates for the hearing of any criminal cases in which Mohammedan parties or witnesses are concerned.

2. Instances will, of course, occur in which either the first or an adjourned hearing of a criminal case must necessarily be held on a holiday, whether or not such holiday be one specially set apart for the Mohammedan community. But the Court trust that you will continue so to arrange the dates of hearing of all classes of cases as to secure the convenience of parties and witnesses in a manner compatible, on the one hand, with the due administration of justice, and on the other with the due observance of religious festivals and other ceremonials.

From E. N. BAKER, Esq., Officiating Under-Secretary to the Governmen: of Bengal, Financial Department, to the Registrar of the High Court,—No. 1362, dated Calcutta, the 17*th November* 1882.

A REPRESENTATION having been made to Government that the opening of criminal courts on the Mohammedan holidays mentioned in the margin inflicts hardship on members of the Mohammedan community who are obliged to attend Court on those days, I am directed to request that the Hon'ble the Judges of the High Court may be moved to instruct all criminal courts subordinate to them to fix cases in which Mohammedan suitors or witnesses are concerned, so that they may not come on for hearing on any of the days referred to.

PART IV.

Bill of the Bengal Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Bill was read in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 20th January 1883, and was referred to a Select Committee who are to report thereon in a fortnight:—

A Bill to amend "the Calcutta Port Improvement Act, 1870."

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the "Calcutta Port Improvement Act, 1870." It is enacted as follows:—

Section 21 repealed.

1. Section twenty-one of Bengal Act IV of 1880 is repealed.

Substitution of clause (2) of Bengal Act V of 1870.

2. For clause (2) of section thirty-nine of Bengal Act V of 1870, the following shall be substituted, that is to say:

"Tramways, warehouses, sheds, engines, and other appliances for conveying, receiving, and storing goods and merchandize landed or to be shipped or carried, and accommodation for the sampling and selling of such goods and merchandize: such tramways, with the previous sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, to be worked by locomotive engines, or other motive power drawing or propelling carriages and wagons for the conveyance of goods therein."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Port Commissioners have applied to the Government for sanction to construct a warehouse at Armenian Ghât to facilitate the storage and shipment of tea. The scheme has been under discussion for more than six years, and the Chamber of Commerce and a majority of the mercantile firms interested in the tea trade are in favour of sanction being given to the proposals. There is a manifest advantage in having a tea warehouse in a central situation on the river bank, from which the chests could be shipped without incurring the unnecessary handling and risk of breakage to which they are at present subjected. The construction of the warehouse would also tend to relieve the streets of a part of the cart traffic.

At present, however, the greater part of the tea shipped from Calcutta is sold previous to shipment, and, so long as this practice prevails, the convenience afforded by the projected warehouse would be neutralized, or at least greatly diminished, unless accommodation were provided in the warehouse itself for the sampling and sale of tea. The Government, however, are advised that the law as it stands does not authorize the Port Commissioners to construct a warehouse which has for one of its objects the provision of facilities for the sampling and sale of goods. By section 39, Act V (B.C.) of 1870, the Commissioners are empowered to construct warehouses and sheds for receiving and storing goods and merchandize landed or to be shipped. The present Bill extends these powers, and authorizes the Port Commissioners also to provide accommodation in such warehouses for the sampling and sale of such goods and merchandize.

Provided that the provisions of this section shall not apply to any of the offences punishable under section sixteen of this Act.

Disposal of fines.

30. All penalties and fines to be levied under this Act shall be placed to the credit o the Municipal Fund.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to regulate the conditions under which coolies may work for hire and be hired in Hill Municipalities where their labour supplies the only form of locomotive power ordinarily available. Numerous complaints have been made by residents of Darjeeling of the misconduct and extortionate charges of dandy men and other coolies, and it has been decided to bring them under a law similar to the law for the regulation of Hackney Carriages and Palankeens, by which on the one hand their charges will be limited to a certain tariff and provision will be made for the punishment of misconduct, and on the other they will be secured the payment of such hire as they may earn. It is not proposed to interfere with coolies hired as regular servants for periods exceeding twenty-four hours, beyond requiring them to take out a license and providing that the license may be suspended or withdrawn on proof of misconduct.

PART VI.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th January, 1883, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 1 OF 1883.

A Bill to amend the Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Repeal of Act XII of 1877.

1. Act XII of 1877 (an Act to amend the Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876) is hereby repealed.

Addition to Act VI of 1876, section 4.

2. To section 4 of the Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876, the following shall be added, namely:—

"and also in or towards the repayment, either before or after the liquidation of such debts and liabilities, of any loan received from the Government by the manager under this Act".

Amendment of section 12 of same Act.

3. (1) In section 12 of that Act, for the first clause the following shall be substituted:—

"When all the debts and liabilities mentioned in the schedule referred to in section eleven, and the amount of any loan received from the Government under section eighteen, together with the interest (if any) due thereon, have been paid and discharged", and

(2) in the second clause of the same section, for the word "six" the word "twelve" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 18 of same Act.

4. (1) In section 18 of that Act, after the words "as may appear expedient" the following shall be inserted, namely:—

"or by borrowing money from the Government at such rate of interest as appears reasonable to the Local Government", and

(2) in the last clause of the same section, for the word "six" the word "twelve" shall be substituted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Chutiá Nágpur Encumbered Estates Act, 1876, omits to provide for the recovery by the manager, under the scheme for the management of the estate, of a loan made by the Government for the payment of the debts. It consequently would be open to the proprietor, when the scheduled debts had been paid off, to demand, under section 12 of the Act, the release of the estate, although any such loan made by the Government had not been repaid.

2. No such loan has as yet been made by the Government, but as it is possible that such loans may be made, it is proposed to amend the Act so as to secure the detention of the estate under management until the amount of any such loan that may have been made has been paid off with interest. This is provided for by certain amendments made, in sections 4, 12 and 18 of the Act, by sections 2, 3 and 4 of the present Bill.

3. The second sub-section of section 4 of the Bill merely supplies an omission, apparently the result of an oversight, in the amending Act XII of 1877.

Under section 12 of the principal Act, as it originally stood, six months from the publication of the order of management was the period within which the Commissioner was permitted to abandon the management, and as difficulties might arise if the management was abandoned after the manager had exercised his power of mortgaging, the last clause of section 18 provided that the power to mortgage should not be exercisable until after the expiration of the same period. The amending Act of 1877 altered the period fixed by section 12 to twelve months, but left that fixed by section 18 unchanged. The amendment now proposed makes the period in section 18 the same as that in section 12, namely, twelve months.

4. It is proposed, as a matter of convenience, to repeal the amending Act of 1877 and incorporate its single provision in the new one.

The 22nd December, 1882.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1. The object of this Bill is to provide a comprehensive law regulating the manufacture, keeping, sale, conveyance and importation of explosives throughout British India. The matter was first brought to the notice of the Government in connection with an application made by the agents of Nobel's Explosives Company, Limited, for permission to import dynamite manufactured by the Company. The Government of Bombay, to whom the application was made, referred the question to a Committee, which reported that the expediency of allowing the importation into that Presidency of dynamite and other preparations of nitro-glycerine was doubtful. The Government of Bombay forwarded a copy of this report to the Government of India with a request that the importation of preparations of nitro-glycerine might be prohibited until further notice by a notification under the Sea Customs Act. Before complying with this request the Government of India thought it well to consult the Governments of Madras and Bengal. In reply, both Governments expressed an opinion that the importation of these explosives should not be forbidden. The Government of Bengal further submitted a draft set of rules to regulate the importation, package, transport and storage of dynamite and similar substances, together with a report which had been prepared by a Committee appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor to consider the entire subject. This Committee, while recommending that the draft rules should be published as rules under the Indian Arms Act, 1878, suggested the enactment of a comprehensive Imperial Act of a similar nature to the English Explosives Act, 1875 (38 Vic., c. 17), which would in a convenient and compendious Code deal with the subject of explosives in its entirety and furnish the public, as well as Government officials, with an easy means of ascertaining their duties, responsibilities and powers respecting articles which by their inflammable, explosive or dangerous nature imperil the public safety.

2. It appears to the Government of India that it would be an abuse of the powers conferred by the Indian Arms Act, 1878, to make rules of the nature of those submitted by the Bengal Committee under that Act. There are, no doubt, powers conferred by the Indian Arms Act which might, at first sight, seem to authorise the making of such rules; but the object to which such rules are directed is altogether different from that of the Act. The object of the Arms Act was to enable the Government more effectually to prevent arms and ammunition (which term under section 4 includes gun-cotton, dynamite, lithofracteur and other fulminating substances) from getting into the hands of persons who would make a bad use of them. In other words, the main object of that Act was to restrict the possession of arms and ammunition. But the main object of the rules prepared by the Bengal Committee is not restrictive. Their object is to protect the public against the dangerous nature of the explosives to which they relate by regulating all dealings with those explosives. If they are restrictive, it is only so far as is necessary to carry out their protective object. Under these circumstances, it appears to the Government that the proposed rules could not properly be published under the Indian Arms Act, 1878.

3. Nor does it appear that there is any other enactment, as the law at present stands, under which rules of the nature of those prepared by the Bengal Committee can be issued. Under the existing law, the only enactments relating to this subject are to be found in various fragmentary provisions, dealing with gunpowder and fireworks only, which are in force in the Presidency-towns and in certain municipalities and ports. It appears to the Government that it is unsatisfactory that the law should be in this state at a time when dynamite and other compounds of nitro-glycerine are rapidly taking the place of gunpowder in all works where blasting in necessary. Already these explosives have been used to a considerable extent in connection with various works undertaken both by the Government and by private enterprize throughout India; and it is only natural to suppose that, as their superiority to gunpowder becomes more widely known, their use will increase.

4. Under these circumstances, the suggestion of the Committee that an Act drawn on the model of the English Explosives Act, 1875, and dealing comprehensively with the whole subject of explosives, should be added to the Indian Statute-book, recommends itself to the Government of India, as being the only satisfactory method of treating the subject. Accordingly the present Bill has been prepared. It embodies such of the provisions of the English Act as are in the opinion of the Government necessary in this country. In addition to the omission from the Bill of certain provisions of the English Act, the Bill further differs from that Act in that, in accordance with the well-recognized principle of Indian legislation, it confers power on the Local Governments to provide by means of rules, adapted to the varying local circumstances of the provinces under their administration, for many points for which there are specific provisions in the body of the English Act.

5. The Bill is divided into ten chapters.

Chapter I (Preliminary) contains the usual preliminary matter. Section 2 saves from the Act the manufacture, packing, sale, conveyance or importation of explosives by the Government, and section 3 saves the provisions of the Indian Arms Act, 1878. Under section 4, the Act will not come into force until after the publication of a notification by the Governor General in Council; but, in order to prevent the inconvenience which would arise if the Act were brought into force before the notifications, rules, orders and appointments necessary for its efficient working had been made, sub-section (2) gives power to make these at any time after the passing of the Act, though they are not to take effect until the Act comes into force. By section 5 and the schedule are repealed the enactments which at present deal with the subject-matter of the Bill, with the exception of the Indian Arms Act, 1878, and the provisions to be found in the Andaman and Nicobar Islands Regulation, 1876. The provisions of the former Act relating to explosives have been left unrepealed for the reasons which have led the Government of India to decide that the rules framed by the Bengal Committee cannot be passed under it, namely, because the objects of the Act and of the Bill are different. The provisions of the Andaman and Nicobar Islands Regulation, 1876, have not been repealed because, considering the peculiar nature of that settlement, it seems inconvenient to interfere with any of the rules which are at present contained in that Regulation. Though the proposed Act will extend to the Andamans, its provisions will be practically a dead-letter in those islands.

6. Chapter II lays down the general law as to the manufacture and keeping of explosives prescribing the places at which an explosive may be manufactured or kept. It is to be read subject to certain exceptions in the Supplemental Chapter (X).

7. Chapter III deals with the licensing and regulation of factories and magazines, and the registration and regulation of registered places, and confers power on the Local Government to make rules on all necessary matters. A factory under the Act is a place licensed for the manufacture of an explosive; a magazine is a place licensed for the keeping of an explosive; and a registered place is a place registered for the keeping of an explosive. Magazines differ from registered places in that the former are places devoted exclusively to the keeping of explosives and the receptacles for or tools or implements for work connected with the keeping of explosives, whilst the latter are places, e.g., general stores or shops, not devoted exclusively to the keeping of explosives but in which explosives may be kept. Sections 11 and 12 enact certain provisions in favour of the occupiers of magazines and registered places; the former section enabling the occupiers of magazines and registered places to make cartridges without taking out a factory-license, and the latter enabling the occupiers of magazines to adapt or prepare explosives for use in their own mines or quarries without any such license. Section 15 imposes on the occupier of a factory or magazine the duty of making special rules for the regulation of the workmen in his factory or magazine.

8. Chapter IV relates to the sale of explosives. Section 16 prohibits explosives being hawked, sold or exposed for sale on highways or public places; section 17 prohibits the sale of an explosive to a child under 13; and section 18 prescribes the manner in which an explosive exposed for sale or sold is to be packed and labelled.

9. Chapter V treats of matters relating to the conveyance of explosives. Under section 19, the Governor General in Council may make rules as to the packing of explosives for conveyance. Under section 20, the Local Government may make rules to regulate the conveyance, loading, unloading and keeping of explosives within a port; and section 21 confers certain powers on the Conservator or other officer named in such rules in the event of their breach. Under section 22, Railway-administrations are directed to make rules for their own railways respectively. Under section 23, the Governor General in Council is empowered to make rules in any case in which rules under section 20 or section 22 do not apply. By section 24 the authority making rules under sections 20, 22 and 23 respectively is empowered to annex to a breach of any rule, or attempt to commit a breach of any rule, a penalty which may consist of a fine which may extend to two hundred rupees for each breach and to one hundred rupees for each day during which the breach continues, and of forfeiture of all or any part of the explosive in respect of which the breach is committed.

10. Chapter VI regulates the importation of explosives other than gunpowder, cartridges made with gunpowder, percussion-caps, fireworks, and any prescribed explosive, and prohibits their importation except under a license. The Governor General in Council is given power (section 26) to regulate all matters connected with the grant of such licenses, and the officers of sea-customs are given similar power (section 27) with regard to these explosives as they have with regard to any article on the importation of which restrictions are for the time being imposed by the law relating to sea customs.

11. Chapter VII confers special powers on the Governor General in Council to regulate or prohibit all dealings with any explosive which in the opinion of the Governor General in Council is specially dangerous to the public safety; and the officers of sea customs are given like powers with regard to any such explosive as they are given under section 27 with regard to the importation of the explosives referred to in section 25.

12. Chapter VIII (Government supervision) first provides for matters relating to inspection. The Local Government is empowered (section 29) to appoint Government Inspectors, and to make rules to assign and regulate their duties. Section 30 defines the general power of these officers as to entry, inspection, and examination of factories, magazines and registered places, and the taking of samples from the occupiers. Section 31 empowers the Government Inspector to require the occupier of any factory or magazine to remedy anything connected with his factory or magazine which is in the opinion of the Inspector unnecessarily dangerous or defective, and provides for a reference to the nearest Magistrate when the occupier objects to comply with the inspector's requisition. Section 32 deals with inspection in ports and of ships, and section 33 provides for the inspection of a wharf, carriage, ship or boat on or in which an explosive is reasonably supposed by a Government Inspector or other officer to be for the purpose of or in course of conveyance.

The chapter secondly provides (section 34) for the giving of notice of accidents arising from explosion or fire occurring in or about or in connection with any factory, magazine or registered place, or any carriage, ship or boat either conveying an explosive or on or from which an explosive is being loaded or unloaded, and (section 35) for inquiry into the cause of such accidents when necessary.

Thirdly, the chapter deals with power of search. It empowers (section 36) Government Inspectors and officers authorised by the Local Government to enter and search all places where they have reason to believe that any offence has been or is being committed with respect to an explosive, or that any explosive is in contravention of the Act, or that the provisions of the Act are not duly observed. Such searches are to be made in accordance with the Code of Criminal Procedure, and when made by any officer other than a Government Inspector are to be reported by him to his official superior within 48 hours. Section 37 gives special power to Government Inspectors and other officers to stop carriages or boats in case of emergency.

Fourthly, the chapter treats of seizure and detention of explosives. Section 38 authorizes the seizure and detention of any explosive liable to forfeiture, and section 39 gives the Local Government power to make rules to regulate such seizure and detention. Section 40 declares that the proceedings before a Magistrate with regard to any such seizure shall be commenced as soon as possible. Section 41 gives power to seize the receptacle in which the explosive was found, and section 42 to use the ship, boat, carriage, &c., in which the explosive was seized.

Lastly, the chapter (section 43) provides for the payment for samples of explosives taken by Government Inspectors or other officers under the Act.

13. Chapter IX deals with the penalties and legal proceedings.

The penalties for breaches of the provisions of the Act and the rules made under it are restricted to forfeitures and fines, and the only instance in which the Act prescribes imprisonment as a punishment is (section 53) that of resistance to a public officer.

14. With regard to legal proceedings, section 64 provides for the exemption of an occupier of a factory, magazine or registered place, and of a warehouseman, carrier or owner or master of a ship, boat, or carriage from penalty on proof of another being the real offender. Under section 65, a carrier or owner or master of a ship or boat is exempted from penalty when he is prevented from complying with the law by the act or default of the consignor or consignee of the explosive or some other person and the consignor or consignee or other person is convicted (as it is provided he may be) under the Act.

Section 66 confers a general power on Magistrates to order forfeiture in all cases in which explosives are liable to be forfeited, and provides that proceedings may be taken for the purpose only of inflicting a forfeiture. The same section empowers the Court to inflict an additional fine in lieu of forfeiture of the explosive; and section 67 provides for levy of a fine imposed on the owner or master of a ship by distress of the ship.

15. Chapter X (Supplemental) provides for several miscellaneous matters. Section 68 empowers Municipal Committees to provide magazines for the use of the public; section 69 enacts certain provisions in favour of the keeping and conveyance of percussion-caps, safety-fuses for blasting, fog-signals and prescribed explosives. Section 69 exempts railway-administrations from the obligation to make rules with regard to such explosives, and empowers the Governor General in Council to exempt such explosives altogether from the Act. By section 70 the filling and conveying for private use, and not for sale, of safety-cartridges are excepted from the application of the Act. Section 71 exempts the owner or master of a ship and a carrier or warehouseman or any person in charge of a carriage from punishment when an act is done by him in breach of the provisions of the Act in a case of emergency. Section 72 contains the usual provision saving liability to civil suit or prosecution under other laws. Section 73 deals with notice and limitation of proceedings. Section 74 empowers the Governor General in Council to extend the definition of "explosive" to other explosive substances; and sections 75 and 76 treat of general matters connected with the issue and publication of notifications and rules. Under section 75, proposed rules must be published as drafts before they are finally made, and the authority that makes the rules is directed to receive and consider any criticisms or suggestions which may be made by persons interested.

AMENDMENT OF THE EXCISE ACT.

THE HON. MR. REYNOLDS moved that the Bill to amend the Bengal Excise Act, 1878, be passed.

The HON. AMEER ALI said he proposed to vote among the dissentients on this motion, and he therefore begged His Honor the President's permission to say a few words in explanation of his vote. He had the honour of being a member of the Select Committee on this Bill, but his absence from India prevented him from taking part in the deliberations of that body, or assisting the Committee with any suggestions. But having read the reports of the debates which had taken place in Council, he found that he agreed in the main with the remarks of RAI KRISTODAS PAL and the hon. member opposite (Moulvie Mahomed Yusuf). Therefore he did not think it would be right by giving his vote in favour of the passing of the Bill to pledge himself to the taxation of the fresh tari of the palm or date-tree. He merely said this to explain how he was obliged to vote.

The motion was put and carried, and the Bill passed.

EXTENSION OF LOCAL SELF-GOVERNMENT.

THE HON'BLE MR. MACAULAY said:—"I have the honour to move for leave to introduce a Bill for the extension of Local Self-Government in these Provinces. As, from various causes which I need not specify, there has been considerable delay in the preparation of the Bill, and as the Council will not again assemble for a fortnight, it will probably be expected that I should at this stage give a general exposition of its provisions. Before I proceed to do so, it may be convenient if I lay before the Council a brief sketch of the circumstances which have attended the initiation and development of this measure. When Lord Mayo's Government determined upon the adoption of a scheme of financial decentralization in 1870, it recognized, as the ultimate outcome of its action, something beyond a mere division of financial control between the Imperial and Local Governments. It declared that the full meaning and integrity of the measure comprehended the development of Self-Government, the strengthening of Municipal institutions, and a larger association of Natives and Europeans in the administration of affairs. It recognized that the practical adoption of these principles could only be gradual, that difficulties would be felt, and that disappointments and partial failures would occur; but it expressed Lord Mayo's generous conviction that, the object in view being the instruction of many peoples and races in a good system of administration, the Local Governments and all their subordinates would enlist the active assistance, or, at all events, the sympathy of many classes who had till then taken little or no part in the work of social and material advancement. This declaration of policy was followed in Bengal by the organization, under Sir George Campbell, of District Committees for the administration of the road cess, of District School Committees for the control of education, and of a system of Benches on which Honorary Magistrates were associated with the stipendiary officers. Subsequently, the laws relating to Municipalities were amended and enlarged under Sir Richard Temple's Government, and an elective constitution was introduced into Calcutta, and, later on, into three Municipalities in the interior. In 1877 a further step was taken in financial decentralization, and the Local Governments were allowed a share in the development of important branches of the revenue, as they had been allowed in 1870 an interest in the control of expenditure. I need not detain the Council by enlarging upon the eminent success of this further measure of decentralization in the hands of Sir Ashley Eden. Nor need I enter into a detailed explanation of the causes which have operated to dwarf the effect of the elective provisions contained in Sir Richard Temple's General Municipal Bill. It will be sufficient for me to say that a provision which was intended simply as a check on the indiscriminate extension of the elective system to places to which it might be unsuited has operated practically to exclude from that system all the large and advanced Municipalities to which it was intended to apply. This and other defects will be fully remedied in the Bill which has been introduced by my Hon'ble friend Mr. Reynolds. Experience has amply justified Lord Mayo's anticipations. Difficulties have been encountered; disappointments and failures have occurred. That decentralization would prove fiscally successful in the hands of such a man as Sir Ashley Eden, with broad and liberal views of financial administration, with keen insight and great power of forecast, was naturally to be expected. But from a variety of causes, arising from the constitution of the local bodies, the degree of power and responsibility entrusted to them, the extent of the funds to be administered, and other conditions which need not be detailed, there can be no doubt that the advance made in the development of Self-Government has been comparatively small. It was reserved to the present Government of India to grasp the opportunity of the expiry of the provincial contracts of 1877 to reaffirm the principles laid down by Lord Mayo, to determine upon a further practical development of his intentions, and to appeal to the Provincial Governments to revise the system of control so as to loosen the trammels which have hitherto hindered the administrative education, and marred the utility, of the Local Bodies. And that appeal will not be in vain. The twelve years that have elapsed since Lord Mayo's Resolution was issued, if they have witnessed no large strides in Self-Government itself, have seen a great increase in the material prosperity of Bengal, and a great advance in the development of wealth, the opening of communications, and the dissemination of knowledge. The material is undoubtedly ready for the undertaking. Nor will this Government or its officers be found wanting. Sir Ashley Eden, in laying the original scheme before the Commissioners of Division, directed me to declare to them that it must be accepted as the settled policy of Government to develope among the local bodies a genuine and intelligent interest in the management of local affairs, and he appealed to all the officers of his Government for loyal co-operation in giving to this policy the fullest effect compatible with the interests of the province. In pursuance of these principles, he afterwards took the earliest opportunity of relieving Municipalities in the interior of the charges for Police, and thus made available a large sum for expenditure on local improvements. You, sir, have determined that Local Self-Government shall have free scope and liberal countenance in Bengal. You have decided to place that policy upon a thoroughly sound basis resting upon a wise recognition of the importance of the movement, and utilizing the many forces that are available for the attainment of the great end before us. As the Council will observe from the scheme which I am about to lay before it, the policy will receive at your hands no hesitating encouragement, no half-hearted support. And your efforts will be seconded by the District Officers of Bengal. It has been a familiar cry among a certain class of writers during the past few months that the Commissioners and District Officers must resist the policy of Local Self-Government as tending to diminish their power and lower their prestige. The members of the Civil Service have been depicted as enemies of liberty and progress, greedy graspers at petty power, selfish and narrow-minded opponents of all that is generous and liberal in policy. Sir, the Civil Servants of Bengal need no apologist in me. Their works are too well known, their solicitude for the good of the people among whom they pass their lives too deep and true, to require that they should be defended at my hands. Differences of opinion on questions of policy must always be expected; and it would be strange indeed if such differences were not elicited in the discussion of such a question as this. But the great majority of the officers of this Administration have distinctly announced their hearty concurrence in the policy of this measure, and have recognized that, far from lowering their prestige or diminishing their power, it will, if properly initiated and developed, place that prestige upon a higher footing, and open that power to broader and nobler aims. The papers which I shall have the honour of laying before the Council will leave no doubt that your officers will co-operate heartily in the advancement of this great measure, as they have always co-operated in any measure that promises to contribute to the enlightenment and welfare of their fellow-subjects.

The three main points to be considered in framing a scheme of Local Self-Government are the constitution of the local bodies, the control to be exercised over them, and the work to be entrusted to them. A guiding principle to be observed in the consideration of the first point is obviously the utilization to the utmost of existing and well-established institutions,—the construction of our edifice as far as possible with existing materials. The District Committees cannot be said to be well-established. As a rule they have been failures, and as an agency for the management of local affairs by the people themselves, they can never be very efficient. Our districts are so large that, if the District Committee meets at short intervals, it can only be occasionally attended by members who do not reside at or in the immediate vicinity of the head-quarters station, while, if it meets at long intervals, it loses its character of a working body. In either case the work will either be neglected altogether, or be carried on by members who can as a rule have little knowledge of the wants of the outlying tracts. It has therefore been determined that the area under a Local Board, to be called the Local Government Circle, though if members are available, it may be smaller, should not as a rule be larger, than the area of a sub-division. These Local Boards will be practically new bodies, but we cannot go lower for our Chief Board if we wish to utilize the intelligence of the educated inhabitants and to give them duties and responsibilities sufficiently important and sufficiently large to engage their attention and enlist their sympathies. Nor can we go higher, by creating District Boards, without impairing the importance and utility of these Local Boards, through which we hope that the measure will take root in the country, and in the working and direction of which we hope to utilize and develope the enthusiasm and energies of its best intelligence. We can, however, provide them with useful auxiliaries among the people. We can frame for them a sound basis and an executive agency out of the material of village Committees to which the people have already become to some extent accustomed. In the conjunction of these two bodies, the Local Board administering the Local Government Circle, and the Union Committee administering a Union of villages, we hope to combine and make mutually supporting two great elements of success which we undoubtedly have at hand. The first of these is the political enthusiasm of the educated classes. This has been exaggerated by some: it has certainly been unduly depreciated by others. That such enthusiasm exists, and exists in a genuine and active form, must be plain to any one who has watched the proceedings of the past few months, and who has conversed with educated men from the interior. Among the great mass of the rural population, on the other hand, there is no enthusiasm whatever on the subject of Local Self-Government as a general question. The Bengali villager takes a keen interest in the affairs of his own village and its immediate neighbourhood, but he knows and cares nothing about politics or representation, and he has no idea of giving his time to the management of the affairs of other people. But, if he has no political enthusiasm, he can be made to serve the enthusiasm of others, while looking only to that which interests himself. He will readily contribute to the formation of an efficient village executive, as officers who have sought to utilize his services on village works have always found. He it is who really possesses local knowledge and local interest within his own narrow sphere. The educated man whom we hope to see upon the Local Board will have need of such an executive agency. He is willing to give up his time to the direction of local affairs; but it is impossible that he could be acquainted with the wants of more than a small section of the area to be administered by the Board on which he sits. He will be the administrative head, but he will require executive hands. In representative Committees of the villagers, we shall have the material for a great part of that executive power in which the Local Boards will at first be to some extent deficient. What we require to establish is a touch between the educated member of the Local Board with political enthusiasm, but without much local knowledge or interest, and the member of the village Union Committee with local knowledge and interest, but without political enthusiasm. That touch can, I think, be established. At first the members of the Union Committee will not look beyond their Unions. But they will form a corps d'elite, and as such will provide the constituency to elect the members of the Local Board to represent the tract to which their Unions belong. As the intelligent Union Committee man gradually sees the advantages of a seat on the Local Board, as his field of interest becomes gradually extended and he begins to realize a desire for larger duties and responsibilities with larger power, he will seek election to the Local Board, while the Local Board will gradually gain by such accessions the practical knowledge which it may lack at first.

It seems to me of the first importance that the Union Committee should be made thoroughly representative and be fostered and utilized to the fullest extent. If the members are chosen by the people themselves, and sufficiently large interests and responsibilities are entrusted to them, the Committee will bring home to every villager the fact that he has a voice in the management of affairs which concern him, and if the best men can be induced to serve upon it an ever stronger and stronger link will be established between the people and the distant Local Board, which at first they will barely comprehend. It is not intended that the Union Committees should be formed by a coalition of chowkidari punchayets. Whether they can hereafter be entrusted with any control over the village police is a question which need not now be discussed. The subject is under enquiry by a Special Commission and Government must reserve its decision in the matter. I may only say that the expression "Union," which is to be eliminated from the Municipal Act, should also be eliminated from the Chowkidari Act where it is used to represent a smaller area than that which is proposed as the lowest Self-government unit. It is proposed to take as that unit the area that would ordinarily be served by a pound. This may be a large village or a group of villages. Its radius would ordinarily be about two miles. The strength of each Committee would be 5, 7 or 9 as might be determined in the order constituting each. The duties of Union Committees will be referred to presently when I am dealing with the question of the work to be entrusted to the Local Bodies, but I may say here that the policy will be to give them an improvable revenue to devote to Union purposes, and that they will be entrusted with the management of the local pound and the expenditure of its revenue. These Union Committees should be elected by the villagers themselves, not by formal methods, but by such simple processes as may be familiar to them. It will be advisable to provide for the necessary elasticity by leaving the details of the method of election in different places to be settled by rules under the Act. In exceptional cases, where factions run high and there would be a danger of one section of the community being oppressed by another, it would be necessary to nominate some or all of the members. But these instances would be of rare occurrence, and in the great majority of the cases the Union Committee should be elected by the people of the Union. It is proposed to fix the franchise so as to exclude only the most ignorant classes who have no stake in the Union and no interest in its improvement. I am convinced that in this organization we shall have the foundation of a great and successful system of Local Self-government If the Union Committee is entrusted with real powers and responsibilities it will become an object of interest to the villagers, its proceedings will be watched and criticised, and the power of control which each voter possesses will gradually be understood. We shall in fact give to the people Local Self-government in the form in which they will be able to appreciate it, in the management of their own pound, their own schools and their own roads. At the same time we shall be making them contribute unconsciously, and in the pursuit of a different object, to a broader system of Local Self-government which individually they would be unable to understand.

This brings me to the question of the constitution of the Local Boards. It is proposed that, as a rule, each thanna should be represented by two elected members. The chief portion of the elective body would be the Committees of the Unions in the thanna. Apart from the question of an educational franchise, to which I will presently allude, the right of voting for the election of members of the Local Boards should be restricted to the Union Committees,—to the men, that is, who have been chosen by the villagers themselves to manage their affairs. If we attempt scrutin de liste, if we ask the cultivators at large to vote for the members for a thanna instead of concentrating their attention on their own villages, we shall be courting failure. I venture to think that such opposition as is ordinarily offered to the extension of the elective system in Bengal proceeds upon a totally incorrect assumption. We are told that the people will abuse their powers and will return a set of irresponsible demagogues who will neglect the work and discredit the system and will ultimately have to be set aside by Government. In my humble opinion,—an opinion which rests upon the evidence of facts and upon the views of some of the most experienced officers of the province,—the danger is, not that election would be abused, but that it would not be used. We have to guard, not against a revolution, but against a collapse; not against an unhealthy exuberance in the plant we seek to rear, but against its death from inanition. A perfect system of election has a double value. It acts at once as a stimulus and as a check on the elected ; it enlarges the interest and promotes the self-reliance of the elector. Under such a system the elected member has a sense both of independence and of responsibility to which the nominated member is a stranger. He knows that he has little to fear if he does his duty, and he will seek to discharge his trust efficiently under penalty of having it withdrawn from him. But unless the electors take an interest in the elections, the members might as well be selected by nomination, by lot, by the day of the week on which they were born, or by any other haphazard process. If the electors do not feel that by their votes they indirectly affirm their interest in the management of affairs through the representatives of their choice, they might as well abstain from voting, and they will have no more share in Self-government, as represented by the proceedings of the elected body, than they have in the motion of the planets. If they have such an interest, election is the only means by which they can give it effect. Now the villagers have a keen interest in all work that affects their village and its surroundings, and they may therefore be trusted to use their knowledge and interest in electing the Committee to do that work. But we must always keep in mind the important condition to which I have already adverted—that the people at large are devoid of enthusiasm in the matter of Local Self-government as a general question—and recognize that it would be idle to expect them to vote for the election of a Board to control a whole sub-division. If we are to have election we must have election, as regards the larger areas, by a select body only. It has been proposed that this body should be formed by the Magistrate of the District by his own nomination. I should like to ask any district officer in Bengal if he could nominate 150 or 200 men in each of his sub-divisions, who in his opinion would be the best representatives of the people. His reply would be that the great proportion of his nominees would be the nominees of the police, and that he could not guarantee that they would be even approximately the best men. The system which the Bill proposes, however, will give us a representative body chosen for their own ends by the people themselves. In the Union Committee, we shall have a compact body of the most intelligent men, who will gradually acquire and transmit a feeling of interest in the constitution of the larger body. I do not overlook the probability that by reserving the ordinary franchise to the Union Committees, we may exclude men in the larger villages who, though intelligent, have no seat on the Union Committee. They may be much wealthier and much more intelligent than others who, because they belong to the Committee of a smaller Union, are entitled to vote. It would be impossible, however, so to frame the rules as to admit them without extending the franchise to very many others who would make no attempt to employ it. Moreover it should be our policy to strengthen the Union Committees, and through them the Local Board, by making it an object with the most intelligent villagers to join them. If the Union is very populous and advanced, the villagers can apply to have it erected into a Municipality. Besides the Union Committees, it is proposed to give the right of voting for the election of members for the thanna to all persons residing within the Local Government circle or any Municipality contiguous to it, who are holders of University degrees or diplomas, who are pleaders or mookhtears, or who hold salaries of not less than Rs. 50 a month, and who are themselves entitled to vote for the election of the Committee of any Union in the thanna, or belong to a joint undivided family of which one of the members is so entitled. It appears to me that the recognition of an educational qualification with some guarantee of local interest is very important. It must be realized that, though the Union Committees will do good work and will interest the people in Local Self-Government so far as their own villages are concerned, the success of the measure in its broader aspects will rest with the educated classes. It will be an important advantage to bring together the two elements—the educated man and the working Union Committee man—in the exercise of the franchise. Those who oppose an educational qualification as such appear to me to look only at one side of the question. It is no doubt very important that we should guard against handing over the administration of local affairs to a number of needy adventurers who can talk, but who will not work ; and if there were any danger of this, a heavy responsibility would rest with those who advocated such a scheme. But there is too much of a tendency to object to education on general grounds as if its very possession were a danger, and it could not be combined with local interest,—to look upon it in fact as a positive disqualification, when in reality we can look for no real success without it. Local interest should certainly be an indispensable qualification. A pleader, we will say, from Dacca residing in the Municipality of Burdwan could have no claim to vote for members, or himself be a member, of a Local Board in the district. He has an interest in the Municipality as a rate-payer, and is entitled to a voice in its management, but he has no concern outside it. But I would ask on what ground it could be said that a pleader at the head-quarters of a sub-division or district, whose father or brother held land in a thanna in the Local Government circle, should be disqualified for voting for the election of the members for the thanna, or for being himself a member? I would even ask what more fitting representative the thanna could have? With the safeguard of a certain amount of local interest, the concurrence of the educated classes will be essential to the success of the measure as a whole. We shall use their political enthusiasm to leaven the mass of comparative indifference and ignorance with which we shall have to deal.

Now as regards the qualifications of candidates. Every person qualified to vote for the election of members should himself be qualified for candidature. And in order not to exclude small zemindars and men of substance, who, though they might not wish to serve on Union Committees, would be quite willing to stand for election to the Local Board, it is proposed to add a separate qualification of the payment in the district of, say, Rs. 100 Road and Public Works Cess or of Rs. 50 license-tax or proof of income from any source amounting to Rs. 2,000 per annum. I am now merely giving a sketch of the measure, and it will of course be understood that all details will be fully considered in Select Committee. No one should be qualified for election who does not reside within the limits of the Local Government circle or within a Municipality contiguous to it.

It is proposed that Government should have power to nominate one-third of the members of the Local Board. It is unnecessary for me to point out to the Council the necessity for this provision. It corresponds with the English practice of making Justices of the Peace, who are of course nominated ex-officio guardians of Unions. At any rate it will be essential to make such a provision at the outset of our measure. If this power is not reserved, important classes may be left unrepresented, and the Boards may be deprived of the services of men of wealth and intelligence, Native and European, who are unwilling to undergo the ordeal of an election, and of men of businesslike habits and executive experience, whose absence may be fatal to their successful working. At the same time it might be provided that there should be no ex-officio members, and that not more than one-fourth of the total number of members should be nominated by Government from among its own servants. Thus if a Local Government circle consisted of four thannas, there would ordinarily be twelve members of whom Government would nominate four, of whom again not more than three would be Government servants. This number would of course be exclusive of any Government servants chosen by the electors.

The remarks which I have made on the subject of election apply only to thannas in which it is possible to introduce the system of Unions to a considerable extent. If one-half of the area of a thanna is under Union Committees, there will be a sufficiently large elective body. Where this is not the case the members for the thanna must all be nominated. If we cannot get men fit to manage Unions, we cannot get men fit to elect members of Local Boards.

It is proposed that every Local Board should be allowed to elect its own Chairman and Vice-Chairman, subject to the approval of Government. Every person so elected would, upon the confirmation of his election, become a member of the Board. It is hoped that the Boards will in as many cases as possible elect one of their own body, and it will be the policy of Government to encourage them to the utmost to do so; but it is considered unreasonable to debar them from electing an official who may not have been nominated to the Board by Government, if they feel, as many may feel at the outset, that the affairs of the Board cannot be satisfactorily conducted without the aid of his experience and knowledge. It is hoped that such instances will gradually become less and less numerous. Efforts will be made to guard, so far as existing circumstances will permit, against the dearth of competent non-officials. If there are no competent men in the circle it can be enlarged. The scheme will be perfectly elastic in this respect. If a sub-division is very backward it can be linked on to one more advanced, and the two will then constitute one Local Government circle, with its head-quarters at such place as Government may direct. It will be the desire of Government that non-official Chairmen should be elected wherever this is possible, and I think most District and Sub-Divisional Officers recognise that, if they have an intelligent Board to deal with, they will have a much stronger and more dignified position if they have no place at all upon it Some persons argue that the Magistrate will lose his power and prestige if he is not the Chairman of every Board in his jurisdiction. I am not speaking now of the control that must be maintained for the protection of the public interests and the maintenance of efficiency. I am speaking of the individual power and prestige of the Magistrate himself. In one sense, no doubt, it is quite true that he would have more power and prestige if we made him Chairman of every Board. It is true in the sense that the King of Dahomey has more power and prestige in Dahomey than the Prime Minister of England has in the British Dominions. But it is not true in the sense that the man who by his counsel and advice and the force of his character and the influence that is begotten of confidence and respect, guides thinking men forward in the path of progress and exacts from them, not unreasoning assent, but intelligent and willing concurrence and co-operation, has more real power and prestige than the individual who has only to express his will that it may be blindly obeyed. Notwithstanding the terrible revelations with which we have recently been favoured regarding the sanity of the members of the Indian Civil Service, I venture to think that we may flatter ourselves that they still retain a sufficient glimmering of reason to enable them to choose between the Prime Minister of England and the King of Dahomey.

I now come to the second point,—the control to be exercised over the local bodies. This control has two objects, a direct one and an indirect one. The first is the protection of the public interests by the efficient performance of the duties entrusted to the bodies. The second is the maintenance of a standard of administrative education. The first object requires no further notice. It is sufficiently obvious. The second simply means that Local Self-government can only be successful if the people both do the work and do it well. We must ensure that there be no collapse and no serious loss of efficiency in the Administration. If this is allowed to occur the public will suffer, the officers of Government will not be relieved of the work that they have now to do, and the local bodies will not learn to take the position which we desire to assign to them. Efficient control must therefore be maintained. I have already in my remarks on the internal direction of the Boards somewhat anticipated this part of the subject, and argued that control should not be maintained from within. I venture to differ from an opinion which I have this morning seen expressed in a London newspaper, that if Government ceases to govern entirely through its own agents and governs partly through parish vestries and Local Boards it will take an irrevocable step towards an anarchy which will utterly destroy the fabric of the British Empire in India. I think we need not be seriously disturbed by the cloud-giant conjured up by this temperate and well-informed writer. I venture to hope that British rule may still be maintained, even though the roads, schools and dispensaries of our sub divisions are managed by non-official agency, and that the members of our Local Boards will not insist on turning us out of the country. Internal control of the Local Boards, therefore, not being indispensable for the preservation of the Empire, the question is what form of external control will be most suitable. That form will be best which will secure the three results to which we look forward—the political education of the people, the relief of the regular Administration by the enlistment of gratuitous agency, and the maintenance of efficiency. In other provinces it is proposed to employ partly local and partly divisional control. It has been held that this system would not be suitable to Bengal. There can be no question that it would fully secure the third object—the maintenance of efficiency,—but it is considered that it would militate against the first and second objects, the political education of the people and the relief of the regular Administration. The influence of the Magistrate and the Commissioner would undoubtedly be exercised for the promotion of efficiency, but it is felt that it would involve too much of that primary interference in detail which is so likely to discourage and repel non-official agency, while the duty of supervision and control to be performed by the Magistrate, the Commissioner and the Government would be so heavy that there would be a large increase rather than a decrease in the work they have now to do. This duty, it is to be observed, will be more and more onerous as the scheme receives its full development. It is very probable that in other provinces, the third and essential object could not otherwise be secured, and that large powers of local interference must be reserved: in such places, however, progress will not be rapid, and the many great questions of superior control which must accompany the operation of the Bengal scheme will not arise. In Bengal it is felt that efficiency of administration can be secured under a more liberal scheme; it is felt that we can afford to look less to control as a safeguard against failure than to reasonable liberty, tempered by control, as an instrument of education. It will of course be necessary that the Magistrate should have the power (though he will probably never have to use it) of suspending the action of the Board when, for reasons to be recorded, he believes it to be imminently dangerous to the public health or the public peace, and, in order that he may be kept fully acquainted with their action, that he should be furnished with copies of their proceedings and permitted access to their works. But all power of interference beyond this and all control over the initiative action of the Boards, it is proposed to vest in a Central Board, which will deal, not only with all the Local Boards, but also with all the Municipalities, in the Province. That Board will consist of a Chairman and two members, the former a specially selected officer of Government, the latter non-official native gentlemen of education and influence. The functions of the Central Board will be similar to those exercised by the Local Government Board of England. It will have full power to compel Local Boards and Municipalities to perform duties they may be found to have neglected and to suspend work which may be found to be wasteful or mischievous. It will deal with their estimates, sanction their bye-laws and rules of procedure, supervise elections, and in fact perform all the functions of Government which may be extended to it. Those functions will chiefly relate to guidance and the control and supervision of details. Government must of course retain the direction of general policy, and there will be many questions of which it alone can be the arbiter. It is not overlooked that this will really be a new department for the control of Local Bodies generally, and that in some respects there will only be a shifting of labour and expense from one set of shoulders to another. But it must be recognized that if the extension of Local Self-government is ultimately to relieve our officers of much work that they now have to do, or would hereafter have to do, it can only be by the creation of a special department to deal with the questions involved. I think it may fairly be claimed that the system will secure all three of the objects already alluded to. It will give reasonable liberty to the Local Bodies, it will relieve the regular Administration of much present and more prospective work, and it will secure that the management of local affairs is efficiently conducted. The Board will be in close and constant correspondence with the local officers, who will be able to represent to it their views and give it the benefit of their advice and their local experience. With the Local Bodies it will correspond direct. It will have inspectors for special purposes, and its members will themselves make tours of inspection. It will be able to secure such uniformity as may be desirable, to apply experience gained in one part of the country for the benefit of another, and to gather up and utilize various agencies which are now imperfectly employed. In regard to Sanitation and the allied questions, it is expected that the Central Board will be able to secure improvements which have hitherto been found unattainable.

As I have detained the Council so long with an exposition of what is proposed in regard to the constitution and control of Local Bodies, I shall merely indicate generally the departments to be entrusted to them, leaving most of the details under this head to be explained hereafter. There is not much to add to the list given in the letter from the Government of Bengal to the Government of India, dated 8th April last, which has already been published. The policy will be to give Local Bodies the construction and maintenance of roads (District and Provincial), and of such buildings as they may be willing to deal with through their subordinate engineering staff under the general control of the Government District Engineer, the management of all hospitals and dispensaries and the administration generally of medical relief, the management of zillah schools through Joint-Committees formed partly of representatives of the Municipalities in which the schools may be situated, the control of middle schools, and of primary schools,—of all educational institutions, in fact, except colleges, attached collegiate schools, normal schools, with attached model schools, medical schools, surveying schools, madrassahs and schools for Europeans and Eurasians,—the management of all camping grounds and staging bungalows, the control of Ferries, of Pounds, of Sanitation, of Vital Statistics, of Vaccination, where the licensed agency is employed, of Drainage schemes in certain cases under Act VI of 1880, of the administration of relief in times of scarcity (special grants being made in exceptional cases), and various miscellaneous duties which I need not now specify. It is not proposed to make the collection of the License Tax any part of the duty of Local Bodies. It would be no gain to them to be made responsible for the collection if they had no share in the outturn, and the fact that a large portion of the tax is levied in Municipalities renders it impossible to make any such arrangement.

The Union Committee will, as I have already said, be entrusted with the management and the expenditure of the income of the Union Pound. They will, under the control of the Local Board, manage the primary schools of the Union, and they will, as a rule, form the Managing Committee of any aided or middle vernacular school in the Union. They will appoint and pay the gurus of the patshalas, and they will be the medium for the transmission to them of rewards granted by the Local Boards. They will have the management of all village roads, and, separately or as members of Joint Committees appointed by the Local Board, of such lengths of district or provincial roads as may be entrusted to them by the Local Board. They will be responsible for the accurate registration of vital statistics and for the execution of small measures of sanitation, drainage and water-supply affecting the Union. In regard to these works they will act under the general control of the Local Board and will be bound to carry out its orders, subject to the right of appealing to the Central Board. Powers will be given to them to compel private persons to take such action with their tanks, land and other property as the Union Committee, of its own motion or by order of the Local Board, may direct.

The Local Board will deal, subject to the direction of the Central Board, with the control, directly or through the Union Committees, of the various branches of the Administration which I have just enumerated. Where the regular staff of Government vaccinators has given place to licensed vaccinators, the Local Board will be entrusted with the management of this branch, in regard to which their general and social influence will be specially useful. The Inspector of Vaccination will also be their Sanitary Inspector. It is proposed that Government should maintain a District Engineer at the head-quarters of each district who would be the Inspector of all Local Works within its limits. He would be the Consulting Engineer of all Local Boards who could not afford to employ Engineers, or "Surveyors," of their own, with the necessary qualifications, that is, he would prepare all projects for roads and bridges which might be beyond the powers of the Surveyor. He would generally supervise the works of all Boards and give them the benefit of his advice. He would also prepare all designs for public buildings and the like and estimates for their repairs, and, where the system was complete, would make them over, when sanctioned, to the Local Board, which would execute them through its Surveyor and his establishment, and thus, as it were, act as contractor to Government, securing the ordinary allowance on account of establishment for the maintenance of its staff.

The funds of the Local Board will consist, first of the proceeds of the Road Cess levied in the circle unless the Central Board should direct that, in consequence of the general importance of any work in any other circle, a portion should be contributed to its funds. The Union Committees will be entitled to the income from their pounds: where there is no Union the income will of course go direct to the Local Board. Even in Unions, however, the Local Board will be able to participate in the increase of income which will undoubtedly take place by reducing their grants to the Union for roads and schools. It will be the desire of Government to make over the existing pound revenue, with no corresponding deduction, or with as little deduction as possible, from the general grants to be made to the Boards, as the position of the finances may allow. In no case will Government seek to participate in the development of this revenue, and that it will very largely develope under the management of the villagers themselves no officer of mofussil experience will deny. Figures which have been kindly supplied to me by my friend, the Honorable Mr. Thomas of the Madras Civil Service, show that in Madras the pound system has been largely developed with the most satisfactory fiscal results. The large revenue to be gained by careful management of this branch will be at the disposal of the Local Bodies for local improvements. Ferries will be transferred to the Local Boards, and they will enjoy all the increase of revenue that may be derived from them. The general services to be made over to the Local Boards will be covered by fixed grants representing existing, or recent average, expenditure, and these will not be revised except in the event of any change in the method of administration. It may even be hoped that Government will be able to pursue the policy which Sir Ashley Eden was able to adopt, of making annual additions to the grant for primary education So long as the service is performed the fixed grant will remain, with the proviso that funds are not diverted from one object, such as primary education, to another, without express sanction or in accordance with such rules as may be laid down.

Such is an outline of the scheme which it is my privilege to lay before this Council. That scheme is animated by no niggardly spirit of restriction; it is influenced by no repugnance to the admission of the non-official classes to a share in the administration. It is based upon the principle that the first duty of a Government, and the surest safeguard of its prosperity, is the progress and enlightenment of its people. Its object is not to sever, but to bring into closer and more cordial relations, the official and non-official classes, and to cause them to work together, with mutual confidence and respect, for the welfare of this great Empire. But the Legislature can only provide the instrument and the machinery: they must be worked by other hands. Whether this measure is to succeed and to form the stable basis of larger liberties, or is to be discredited and to lapse into the old system under another name, will depend upon the moderation, the energy and the public spirit of those for whose advancement it is devised. A weighty responsibility will now rest upon the educated men of Bengal. They are the natural leaders of their countrymen, and if they will recognize that the foundation of all progress is work, and by the exercise of industry and prudence secure to themselves, and impart to those below them, a sound administrative training, then this measure, limited though it be, may lead to great results. If they overlook these principles, and seek to attain the end without practising the means, if they neglect the trust that devolves upon them, and aim directly at political objects instead of laying the foundation of progress by the efficient administration of local affairs, then will the liberal policy of Government be defeated. I for one am sanguine that they will not be wanting in their duty to themselves and their countrymen, but that by the use they make of this measure, they will show that they are worthy of the opportunity afforded them, and that they are capable of teaching the peoples of India to work soberly and patiently towards the gradual development of the great destiny that awaits them."

His Honor the President said that he had intended at one time to have taken this opportunity, though it was only the preliminary stage of asking for leave to introduce the Bill, to say a few words of his own on this large question of the extension of Local Self-government in these provinces, because it had been for the last six months one which had been very closely brought under his consideration in official reports and in numerous communications which he had received from non-official gentlemen on the question, and the very varied criticisms which it had received from the public press. But he thought, as the speech of the Hon. Member in charge of the Bill had placed before the Council in a very full and lucid way the general outlines of the scheme which the Government contemplated in respect of this measure, that he would reserve any remarks which he might wish to offer till the next occasion when the Bill framed on the basis of the Hon. Member's speech had been laid before them. It had been resolved that all the official papers shewing the communications which had passed between Commissioners, Collectors, and the Government should be published and made available for the use of the Council and of all others who might desire to refer to them. It would there be seen that a great variety of views and opinions had been recorded upon the subject, and much information and instruction on the details of the question would be in the hands of Hon. Members.

The Council would adjourn after this meeting for a fortnight, and he hoped that in the interval the draft of the Bill would be got ready for submission to the Council. His Honor's present object in making these few remarks was to express the hope that, upon a consideration of the statement contained in the speech of the Hon. Mover, Hon'ble Members would be prepared, on the presentation of the Bill, to state their views as to the general principles which the Government advocated in the introduction of a measure of immense importance to the country.

The motion was put and agreed to.

REGULATION OF THE CONTROL OF COOLIES IN HILL MUNICIPALITIES.

The Hon. Mr. Macaulay introduced the Bill for the general control of coolies in Hill Municipalities, and moved that the Bill be read in Council. He said that he did not think it necessary to detain the Council at any great length in the exposition of this measure. It would be better perhaps that that should be done after the Bill had passed through Select Committee. He would only point out that the essential principle of the Bill was that a distinction should be made between ordinary servants and persons who lent themselves out on hire for short periods For the latter the provisions of the Bill would be very much the same as those for the regulation of hackney carriages and palankeens; that was to say, if they were guilty of misconduct or wrongfully prevented other coolies from accepting employment, or if they deserted from their hiring before being discharged, or demanded more than the proper rate for their hire, or were drunk during employment, or made use of insulting or abusive language during their engagement, and so forth, they would be liable to various penalties; and they would be required to wear a badge and take out special licenses. With regard to servants engaged for periods of more than twenty-four hours, as regular servants, it was very undesirable to interfere more than was necessary between master and servant. The only important provision regarding these servants was that they would have to take out licenses from the Municipality, and that in case of misconduct their licenses would be withdrawn. They would be liable to no other penalty under the law.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon. Mr. Macaulay also moved that the Bill be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon. Mr. Reynolds, the Hon. Mr. Allen, Colonel the Hon. S. T. Trevor, the Hon. Bhudeb Mookerjee, and the Mover, with instructions to report thereon in three weeks.

The Hon. Mahomed Yusuf said that before this Bill was referred to the Select Committee he had one or two observations to make with reference to some portions of the Bill, the principle of which had his full support and co-operation. There were four points which must principally be kept in view in the consideration of the Bill in its present stage. The first was with reference to the class of persons on whom the Bill would operate and the places at which it would operate; the second consisted of the rules and bye-laws which were to govern those persons; the third related to the rates of remuneration which those persons were to receive; and the fourth was regarding the punishments to be provided for breach of the rules. On these four points he had to make some observations. With reference to the first point, viz. the class of persons on whom the Bill would operate, he had doubts whether the Bill contained the necessary provisions; the class had not at all been clearly defined in the Bill. At present that class of persons was unknown, and it was to be left to the Executive Government to define who they were. The Select Committee would of course consider whether it was necessary that this matter should stand as it was, or whether it required any amendment.

With reference to the second point, although no doubt there was the presumption of law that everybody was supposed to know the law, still that presumption was so weak amongst the persons on whom the Bill would operate, that he submitted that the greatest possible publicity should be given to the Bill, and no pains should be spared to make its provisions known to those whom it would affect. And in making this observation he was aware of the provisions of section 5, which provided for a public proclamation to make the provisions of the Bill intelligible to the coolies concerned. But it would be a question whether or not in addition to this the coolies should not have provided for them rules and bye laws written in the vernacular, setting out what their duties were, so that they might inform themselves of their duties by having the same read to them by any of their brethren or by anybody else, and have no excuse left to them.

With reference to the third point, the rates to be paid, he ventured to think that the provisions of the Bill were far from satisfactory: the rates had been left to be settled by the Municipal Commissioners, and the license was to be for one year. He thought, however, in calculating the rates that some certainty must be introduced, and they should be regulated according to the rise and fall in the prices in the market, and for this purpose it would be a point for consideration whether the rates should not be revised every month, or in some other mode as might be thought proper.

With reference to the fourth point, the amount of punishment, he made his observation with some degree of diffidence. He did not understand that he represented any class of persons in that Council, but he was at liberty to express his views, and those views were these:—The punishment which was prescribed in this Bill was by way of fine, and those fines, which were by no means slight, considering the position of the offenders, were often met with in connection with the provisions of the Bill. Of course he did not here contend for the traditionary mode of punishment, which was thirty abuses and twenty shoes; but it would have to be borne in mind whether or not in fixing the amount of fine the result would be to fix an amount which would not have the effect of visiting on the wives and children of the offenders the consequences of the breach of the law and to make the coolies incur debts which might not make them hesitate at adopting any means to discharge the same. These points of course would be considered in Select Committee when it would be seen what form the Bill would take. But he had thought it his duty to make the observations at the present stage in order that they might be considered by the Select Committee for what they were worth.

The Hon. Mr. Dampier said that, before this Bill was referred to a Select Committee, he wished to draw attention to the definitions. They gave very broad powers to the Executive Government. A Hill Municipality might mean practically any municipality in Bengal which the Lieutenant-Governor chose to say was a Hill Municipality. Then who were the coolies to whom the provisions of the Bill might be extended?—"any person included within "the classes of persons specified in an order published by the Local Govern-"ment under section 4." That was to say, putting an extreme case, that it was left to the Executive Government to declare that any person working for hire within any municipality in Bengal might be brought under the Act.

The Hon. the Advocate-General said that he agreed with his hon. friend to the right (Mr. Dampier) that there should be a definition in the Bill which should not be left in such doubt and uncertainty as the term "holding" was left in another Act, in which a holding was defined as anything which the Magistrate chose to declare a holding. Another point was that the rates of hire should be fixed by the Act. He thought that the persons upon whom the Act was to operate should have a right to be heard—a right to represent to the Council or to the Lieutenant-Governor by memorial their views on the subject.

But if the power to fix the rates was left to executive authority, those whom the rates would affect would be subject to their operation without having had the right to urge their objections (if any) to their sufficiency or propriety.

HIS HONOR THE PRESIDENT said that the observations which had been made seemed to him to have very great force, because personally he should be very sorry to accept the responsibility either of defining what a hill coolie was or of taking other executive action in a matter which should properly and rightly be defined by law. Therefore, he hoped that the remarks which had been made would receive the careful attention of the Select Committee before the Bill was brought up for final consideration.

The motion was agreed to and the Bill referred to a Select Committee.

AMENDMENT OF THE CALCUTTA PORT IMPROVEMENT ACT.

THE HON. MR. REYNOLDS introduced the Bill to amend Bengal Act V of 1870, and moved that it be read in Council. He said that he had explained the object and purport of this Bill on the occasion when he applied for leave to introduce it, and as the Bill had since been prepared and circulated to Hon. Members, he found little or nothing to add to what he had then said. The second clause of section 39 of Act V of 1870 had been already amended by section 21 of Act IV of 1880. The present Bill, for the sake of clearness and convenience, proposed the repeal of that section, and reproduced the words with the amendments which it was intended to make in the clause. In reality the words proposed to be added to the Act were merely twelve in number, which were as follows—"and accommodation for the sampling and selling of such goods and merchandise." The rest of the words which were contained in the second section of the Bill were already in the existing law. This measure was a very short and simple one, and if the Council accepted the principle of it, he did not think he would detain them with any further remarks.

The motion was put and agreed to.

He also moved that the Bill be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon. Mr. Allen, the Hon. Mr. Caithness, and the Mover, with instructions to report in a fortnight.

The motion was put and agreed to.

PROPOSED ESTABLISHMENT OF A VETERINARY SCHOOL IN BENGAL.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT--MEDICAL.

Calcutta, the 22nd January 1883.

RESOLUTION.

REPORTS of severe outbreaks of cattle-disease have for many years past reached the Government from various parts of these provinces, and the question of preventing or mitigating these visitations has from time to time received much attention. The matter was brought into special prominence in 1868 and 1869, and a Commission was appointed by the Supreme Government to enquire generally into Indian cattle-plagues, and to report on the measures which might be adopted to check their ravages. The Commissioners in their report, submitted in 1871, suggested various precautions to prevent the spread of disease on the appearance of epidemics, but laid stress particularly on the need of a skilled agency for the treatment of cattle, and recommended the establishment of a school for the special object of imparting instruction in veterinary science, and training a class of natives for service among the people, whether as Government officers or as private practitioners.

2. The want of a staff of natives possessed of a fair knowledge of veterinary treatment has been repeatedly felt in Bengal in connection with outbreaks of cattle-disease. Efforts have been made in past years to convey instruction to the people in these matters; and the officials have, on the occurrence of epidemics, generally enjoined on owners of cattle and endeavoured to enforce, as far as practicable, the observance of such precautions as were likely to check the spread of contagion. These measures, however, though productive of some good, have been attended with no lasting success. Permanent improvement in the treatment of cattle can apparently be attained only through the agency of a body of native veterinarians, constantly working among the people, and ready in times of epidemic to undertake the introduction and supervision of both preventive and curative measures in the localities affected.

3. The Lieutenant-Governor is therefore of opinion that the question of opening a veterinary school in Calcutta should now be definitely taken up and settled by the Government, and he has decided to refer it, in the first instance, for enquiry and report to a Committee of gentlemen specially qualified to deal with the subject. The following gentlemen are appointed members of the Committee:—

PRESIDENT.

Surgeon-Major K. McLeod, M.D.

MEMBERS.

Inspecting Veterinary Surgeon J. H. B. Hallen, Indian Veterinary Department, General Superintendent of Horse breeding operations in India.

Dr. T. Greenhill, M.R.C.V.S.

4. The students to be provided for should be of the same class as those now trained in the vernacular medical schools, but Mr. Rivers Thompson would himself prefer the establishment of a separate institution instead of a branch attached to the Sealdah Medical School. The Committee should report on the cost of such an institution, the staff to be employed, and generally on the instruction to be given. The question of the best site for the school might also be considered by the Committee. It seems to the Lieutenant-Governor that, for practical observation and treatment, Ballygunge or some suburban site would be preferable to Calcutta itself.

5. The Committee will be good enough to assemble as soon as possible, and to submit their report for the information of the Lieutenant-Governor before the end of the present cold season.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

COLMAN MACAULAY,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

SEPARATION OF BALI FROM HOWRAH, AND ITS FORMATION INTO A SEPARATE MUNICIPALITY.

No. 186, dated Calcutta, the 22nd January 1883.

From—COLMAN MACAULAY, Esq., Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department.

To—The Commissioner of the Burdwan Division.

WITH reference to the correspondence ending with your letter No. 470, dated the 6th ultimo, I am directed to forward herewith, for your information, copy of a notice published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 10th instant, declaring the Lieutenant-Governor's intention to separate the town of Bali from the Howrah Municipality and constitute it a second class Municipality, with effect from the 1st April next. I am to request you to be good enough to cause the notice to be published locally in the vernacular, and to report after a month whether any objections have been raised to the proposed formation of the Municipality.

2. I am also to request that you will nominate 12 gentlemen for appointment as Commissioners of the Municipality. In this matter you should endeavour, as far as possible, to consult the wishes of the people and to nominate persons of the class from which representatives would probably be chosen if the elective system were introduced into the Municipality. As the general question of qualification for the franchise and for candidature will have to be settled under the new law, the Lieutenant-Governor does not consider it worth while to extend the elective system to the Municipality under the existing statute. It is his desire, however, to appoint, as far as may be possible, a representative Board of Commissioners, and it is also his intention to authorize the Commissioners to nominate their own Chairman.

3. I am to add that the Lieutenant-Governor will be prepared to relieve the town of the payment of police charges, provided the Commissioners agree to join hereafter with the Howrah Municipality in a scheme for water-supply, if called upon by the Lieutenant-Governor, and upon such terms as he may approve. Final orders on this point will be issued when the Government has been informed that the Commissioners have passed a resolution accepting this condition.

Rainfall, Weather, and State and Prospects of the Crops.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The direction of the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

C. W. ODLING,
Asst. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal, P. W. Dept.

Dated 18th January 1883.

Report of fluctuation of traffic on the Tirhoot State Railway for the month of December 1882.

THE total quantity of goods carried during the month of December 1882 aggregated maunds 3,49,869 as compared with maund 3,35,220 carried during the corresponding period of 1881, and maunds 3,35,137 carried during the previous month, showing an increase of maunds 14,669 and maunds 14,752 respectively.

Of the several increases and decreases, the following are the most prominent ones and worthy of special notice :—

INCREASE.

Coal ... ... Mds. 3,277

Large quantities of coal have been sent forward to the Mozufferpore extension during the month for Messrs. Burn & Co.

Food-grains ... ... Mds. 25,931

This increase is mainly due to a demand having sprung up during the month for shipment to London.

Hides and Horns ... ... Mds. 4,216

The demand for "Durbhanga" still continues, and as prices have been in favour of despatchers, they have been taking advantage of the opportunity.

Indigo ... ... Mds. 1,546

As anticipated in last month's traffic report, the short despatches of previous months are now being made good.

Iron ... ... Mds. 2,035

This being the slack season in the indigo industries, all the petty repairs to factories are carried out at this time, and most of the iron carried is to meet the demand for this purpose.

Lime and kunker ... ... Mds. 4,127

This increase is from Belaspur and is due to contracts having been made for the supply of lime for the civil buildings at Durbhanga.

Railway materials ... ... Mds. 18,119

The increase under this head has been explained in last month's report.

Saltpetre ... ... Mds. 5,841

Although no very large quantity of this staple has changed hands at the port, the rates ruling have been favorable to despatchers hence the increased weight carried.

Tobacco ... ... Mds. 2,959

As explained in previous reports, the crop now on the ground is unusually good, and holders of old stocks are anxious to sell.

DECREASE.

Piece-goods ... ... Mds. 7,440

The heavy despatches of last month rather overstocked the local markets.

Salt ... ... Mds. 8,035

The stocks held by merchants in the district are sufficient to meet requirements, and the prices ruling in Calcutta are not such as to induce speculative purchases.
